Principal cities.—Table 6 distributes the foreign-born whites of each city of 100,000 inhabitants or more, as enumerated at the census of 1910, according to the time of arrival in the United States. Very marked differences appear among the cities with respect to the proportions of the more recent and the earlier arrivals. In New York City 23.6 per cent of those who reported specifically the year of arrival had arrived between January 1, 1906, and the date of enumeration in 1910; 22 per cent between 1901 and 1905; and 54.4 per cent in 1900 or earlier. In New Orleans, on the other hand, only 9.9 per cent reported arrival between 1906 and 1910, while 78.6 per cent reported arrival in 1900 or earlier.

POPULATION : UNITED STATES

POPULATION OF INCORPORATED PLACES

Prepared under the supervision of WM. C. HUNT, Chief Statistician for Population

This bulletin gives the population, so far as separately reported, of all incorporated places in continental United States at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population for 1900 and 1890 where possible. Under the law the census enumerators were required to make a separate return of the population of incorporated places (cities, towns, villages, and boroughs) and as the result of this requirement the population in 1910 was returned for 13,985 such places, as compared with 10,584 places in 1900 and 7,726 places in 1890.

Table 1 (p. 2) shows the cities and other incorporated places in continental United States, alphabetically arranged by states, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890. It also shows separately for the New England states the towns having 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1910. This additional presentation of towns is made because many of the densely populated communities of New England, such as in other sections of the country would be incorporated, would otherwise not appear in the table. Many New England towns, although unincorporated, are either densely populated throughout their area or contain densely populated communities of considerable size which are not separately incorporated.

The number and population of the incorporated places distributed according to size are given in the following summary:

The statistics in the above summary should not be confused with those relating to urban population presented in the bulletin entitled "Population of Cities." In the tables on urban population in that bulletin the population of New England towns of 2,500 inhabitants or more is included with that of incorporated places, with a view to showing as nearly as possible the true urban population classified according to size of places. The above summary is confined strictly to incorporated communities and does not include New England towns.

The aggregate population of the 13,985 incorporated places reported at the Thirteenth Census, as shown by the above summary, was 49,307,414, or 53.6 per cent of the total population of continental United States. The 10,584 incorporated places reported at the Twelfth Census, contained a total of 35,818,039 inhabitants, representing 47.1 per cent of the total population. The aggregate population of the 7,726 incorporated places reported at the Eleventh Census was 26,105,979, or 41.5 per cent of the total population.

Table 2 (p. 103) gives the cities and other incorporated places, and also New England towns, having in 1910 a population of 2,500 or more, arranged according to their population in 1910, with comparative figures for 1900 and 1890 where possible. The total number of these places, including the New England towns, but not counting the incorporated places forming parts of New England towns, was 2,405. They are presented in the order of their population, grouped as follows: Group 1, comprising the places having 100,000 inhabitants or more; Group 2, comprising those having from 25,000 to 100,000; Group 3, comprising those having from 10,000 to 25,000; and Group 4, comprising those having from 2,500 to 10,000 inhabitants. When a New England town contains an incorporated place the group to which it is assigned is determined by the population of the town and not by that of the incorporated place; but the population of the latter, if over 2,500, is given in italics, being of course included in the total population of the town.

Table 6 further classifies, for the United States, the full-blood Indians according to whether both parents belonged to the same tribe or to different tribes, or represented a mixture of tribes.

DEGREE OF TRIBAL MIXTURE.	FULL-BLOOD INDIANS: 1910
	Number.	Per cent of total.
Total .....	150,053	100.0
Full tribal blood.....	139,289	92.8
Mixed tribal blood.....	10,251	6.8
Two tribes.....	8,924	5.9
Three or more tribes.....	1,327	0.9
Tribal blood of one parent unknown.....	513	0.3

Of the 150,053 full-blood Indians in the United States in 1910, 139,289, or 92.8 per cent, were of full tribal blood, and 10,251, or 6.8 per cent, were of mixed tribal blood, while for 513, or 0.3 per cent, information on this point was not available. Of the 10,251 who reported mixed tribal blood, 8,924 represented a mixture of two tribes only and 1,327 a mixture of more than two tribes.

The mixed bloods representing a mixture of white and Indian are subdivided in Table 7 into those in whom the Indian blood predominated, those of whom one parent was a full-blood Indian and the other white—that is, the half-breeds proper—and those who were more than one-half white.

DEGREE OF MIXTURE.	WHITE AND INDIAN MIXED BLOODS: 1910
	Number.	Per cent of total.
Total .....	88,030	100.0
More than half Indian.....	18,169	20.6
Half Indian, half white.....	24,353	27.7
More than half white.....	43,937	49.9
Unknown proportions.....	1,571	1.8
Part Mexican.....	1,072	1.2
Other unknown.....	499	0.6

Of the 88,030 persons of mixed white and Indian blood in the United States, 18,169, or 20.6 per cent, were more than half Indian; 24,353, or 27.7 per cent, half Indian and half white; and 43,937, or 49.9 per cent—practically one-half of the total—were more than half white. Thus about four-fifths of the Indian and white mixed bloods were at least half white. For 499 mixed bloods the amount of white blood was unknown, and for 1,072 Mexican blood was reported. The latter are classed with those for whom the degree of mixture is unknown because, while a "Mexican" is presumably white or a mixture of white and Indian, there is no way of telling what proportion, if any, of his blood is Indian.

The distribution of the negro and Indian mixed bloods is given in Table 8.

The number of negro and Indian mixed bloods reported, 2,255, is probably an understatement, owing to disinclination to admit negro blood. Of the number reported, 31.8 per cent were more than half Indian, 32.3

per cent half Indian and half negro, and 34.6 per cent more than half negro, while for 1.3 per cent the proportion of negro blood was not reported.

DEGREE OF MIXTURE.	NEGRO AND INDIAN MIXED BLOODS: 1910
	Number.	Per cent of total.
Total .....	2,255	100.0
More than half Indian.....	717	31.8
Half Indian, half negro.....	720	32.3
More than half negro.....	780	34.6
Unknown proportions.....	29	1.3

A summary by divisions and states of the number of Indians, distributed according to sex, with distinction as far as possible of full-bloods and mixed bloods, is given in Table 15, p. 9. Table 9 presents by states the number and percentage of full-bloods and mixed bloods among Indians for whom special schedules were secured, for each of the 22 states which had at least 1,000 resident Indians in 1910. The proportion of full-bloods in the Indian population of those states having at least 100 Indians is also shown graphically in the second map on page 4.

In each of five adjoining states—New Mexico, Utah, Arizona, Colorado, and Nevada—which comprise a large part of the interior arid plateau, the proportion of full-bloods among the Indians exceeded 85 per cent. Iowa and Mississippi, where the Sauk and Fox and the Choctaw tribes, respectively, have preserved a high degree of purity, were the only other states with at least 100 Indians in which more than 85 per cent of the Indians were full-bloods. Other states in which the proportion of full-bloods was at least 70 per cent were California, Idaho, South Dakota, and Wyoming.

In Alaska the number of Indians reported decreased from 1880 to 1910 by 7,665, or 23.2 per cent. The figure for 1890 is probably incomplete, owing to the unexplored condition of the country at the time, so that the increase between 1890 and 1900 may be only apparent. The figure for 1880, though based in part on an estimate, is believed to be approximately correct. It is probable that the census returns for 1910 and 1900 are fairly comparable, but the difficulties of enumerating the Alaska Indians are so great that conclusions from the statistics must necessarily be tentative.

It should be noted that all persons of mixed white and Indian blood who have any appreciable amount of Indian blood are counted as Indians, even though the proportion of white blood may exceed that of Indian blood. Since there is an increasing amount of white blood, as more fully brought out later, in what is classed as the Indian population, it follows that the number of persons included in that class would tend to increase from census to census without necessarily any increase in the total amount of Indian blood in the country. In other words, while, if there were no marriages of Indians except between full-bloods, a decline in the total Indian population might appear, the number classed as Indian might increase very materially as the result of marriages between Indians and persons of other races.

The number of Indians reported on the special schedules (see Table 15, p. 9) at the census of 1910 for each tribe in the United States and Alaska is given in Table 2. The distribution of tribes by states is given in Table 32, page 16, and the Indian population of the different states, by tribes, in Table 33, page 19.

The number of Indian tribes reported for the United States in 1910 was 280, comprising 53 linguistic stocks. Of these tribes, 77 had more than 500 members each, while 42 were represented by 10 members or less; of the latter, 10 were represented by 1 member each. The most important tribes numerically were the Cherokee, with 31,489 members; the Navajo, with 22,455; the Chippewa, with 20,214; the Choctaw, with 15,917; and the Teton Sioux, with 14,284. These 5 tribes comprise all those represented by over 10,000 members; 39 other tribes had over 1,000 members each.

In Alaska 66 Indian tribes, forming 7 linguistic stocks, were reported. The principal ones, aside from the Southern Eskimaun group, were the Kuskwogmiut, the largest tribe of the Eskimaun linguistic group, with 1,480 members, and the Aleut, with 1,451; 11 other tribes were represented by more than 500 members each.

The number of Indians in 1910 is shown for each of the 22 states having an Indian population of 1,000 or over and for all other states combined in Table 3. The distribution of the Indian population of the United States is also shown graphically in the first map on page 4.

Oklahoma had by far the greatest number of Indians reported for any state in 1910, 74,825, or more than one-fourth of all the Indians in the United States, while 7 other states reported more than 10,000 Indians each. These 8 states, all of which, except Wisconsin, are situated west of the Mississippi, contained together nearly three-fourths (72.2 per cent) of the total number. Of the Eastern states, North Carolina, with 7,851, and New York, with 6,046, had the largest Indian population. The 22 states shown separately in the table include all those having 1,000 or more Indians except Pennsylvania, where out of a total of 1,503 Indians 1,010 were in the Carlisle Indian School and did not properly belong to the Indian population of the state. The states shown separately in the table contained 96.2 per cent of the total Indian population. While there were Indians in every state of the Union in 1910, the number in some was extremely small, four states—Delaware, Vermont, New Hampshire, and West Virginia—having less than 50 Indians each.

The number of Indians per 10,000 of the total population in the United States at each census from 1870 to 1910, and in Alaska at each census from 1880 to 1910, is shown in Table 4.

The proportion of Indians in the United States declined steadily from 1870, when it was 72.1 per 10,000 of the total population, to 1910, when it was 28.9. In Alaska the decline in the proportion of Indians has been even more pronounced, the number in each 10,000 of the total population decreasing from 9,871.4 in 1880 to 3,936.1 in 1910. Thus, while in 1880 almost the entire population of Alaska consisted of Indians, in 1910 they formed only about two-fifths of all the inhabitants.

Table 34, on page 20, gives the number of Indians for each county in the United States for which at least 5 Indians were reported at any of the last three Federal censuses, namely, those for 1910, 1900, and 1890.

According to Table 5, of all the Indians in the United States in 1910, 56.5 per cent were full-bloods and 35.2 per cent mixed bloods, while for 8.4 per cent the information on this point was not given. A large proportion of the 22,207 Indians in the last-mentioned group were those scattered among the white population, who were reported on the general population schedule; the majority of these were probably mixed bloods.

Of the 93,423 Indians reported as mixed bloods, 88,030, or considerably more than nine-tenths, represented a mixture of white and Indian, 2,255, of negro and Indian, and 1,793, of white, negro, and Indian, while 80 represented other mixtures, and for 1,265 the kind of mixture was not reported.

In Alaska, 84.7 per cent of the Indians were of full blood and 15.3 per cent of mixed blood; almost all the mixed bloods were a mixture of white and Indian, the remaining few representing a mixture of Indian with Chinese and Japanese blood.

Table 6 further classifies, for the United States, the full-blood Indians according to whether both parents belonged to the same tribe or to different tribes, or represented a mixture of tribes.

DEGREE OF TRIBAL MIXTURE.	FULL-BLOOD INDIANS: 1910
	Number.	Per cent of total.
Total.....	150,053	100.0
Full tribal blood.....	139,289	92.8
Mixed tribal blood.....	10,251	6.8
Two tribes.....	8,924	5.9
Three or more tribes.....	1,327	0.9
Tribal blood of one parent unknown.....	513	0.3

Of the 150,053 full-blood Indians in the United States in 1910, 139,289, or 92.8 per cent, were of full tribal blood, and 10,251, or 6.8 per cent, were of mixed tribal blood, while for 513, or 0.3 per cent, information on this point was not available. Of the 10,251 who reported mixed tribal blood, 8,924 represented a mixture of two tribes only and 1,327 a mixture of more than two tribes.

The mixed bloods representing a mixture of white and Indian are subdivided in Table 7 into those in whom the Indian blood predominated, those of whom one parent was a full-blood Indian and the other white—that is, the half-breeds proper—and those who were more than one-half white.

DEGREE OF MIXTURE.	WHITE AND INDIAN MIXED BLOODS: 1910
	Number.	Per cent of total.
Total.....	88,030	100.0
More than half Indian.....	18,169	20.6

More than half white.....	43,937	49.9
Unknown proportions.....	1,571	1.8
Part Mexican.....	1,072	1.2
Other unknown.....	499	0.6

Of the 88,030 persons of mixed white and Indian blood in the United States, 18,169, or 20.6 per cent, were more than half Indian; 24,353, or 27.7 per cent, half Indian and half white; and 43,937, or 49.9 per cent—practically one-half of the total—were more than half white. Thus about four-fifths of the Indian and white mixed bloods were at least half white. For 499 mixed bloods the amount of white blood was unknown, and for 1,072 Mexican blood was reported. The latter are classed with those for whom the degree of mixture is unknown because, while a "Mexican" is presumably white or a mixture of white and Indian, there is no way of telling what proportion, if any, of his blood is Indian.

The distribution of the negro and Indian mixed bloods is given in Table 8.

The number of negro and Indian mixed bloods reported, 2,255, is probably an understatement, owing to disinclination to admit negro blood. Of the number reported, 31.8 per cent were more than half Indian, 32.3

per cent half Indian and half negro, and 34.6 per cent more than half negro, while for 1.3 per cent the proportion of negro blood was not reported.

DEGREE OF MIXTURE.	NEGRO AND INDIAN MIXED BLOODS: 1910
	Number.	Per cent of total.
Total.....	2,255	100.0
More than half Indian.....	717	31.8
Half Indian, half negro.....	720	32.3
More than half negro.....	780	34.6

A summary by divisions and states of the number of Indians, distributed according to sex, with distinction as far as possible of full-bloods and mixed bloods, is given in Table 15, p. 9. Table 9 presents by states the number and percentage of full-bloods and mixed bloods among Indians for whom special schedules were secured, for each of the 22 states which had at least 1,000 resident Indians in 1910. The proportion of full-bloods in the Indian population of those states having at least 100 Indians is also shown graphically in the second map on page 4.

In each of five adjoining states—New Mexico, Utah, Arizona, Colorado, and Nevada—which comprise a large part of the interior arid plateau, the proportion of full-bloods among the Indians exceeded 85 per cent. Iowa and Mississippi, where the Sauk and Fox and the Choctaw tribes, respectively, have preserved a high degree of purity, were the only other states with at least 100 Indians in which more than 85 per cent of the Indians were full-bloods. Other states in which the proportion of full-bloods was at least 70 per cent were California, Idaho, South Dakota, and Wyoming.

The proportion was between 55 and 70 per cent in Louisiana, Montana, Nebraska, Ohio, Oregon, and Washington; and between 40 and 55 per cent in Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, North Dakota, Texas, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin. The proportion of full-bloods was frequently higher in the states with a large Indian population; a notable exception is Oklahoma, which has by far the largest number of Indians, but reported a small proportion of full-bloods, 36.6 per cent. This low proportion in Oklahoma is no doubt due in part to the fact that the possession of valuable lands by the Indians encourages intermarriages between whites and Indians, and that persons with very little Indian blood are anxious to establish their claims as members of the Indian tribes, in order that they may be entitled to participate in the distribution of lands and moneys belonging to the Five Civilized Tribes in Oklahoma.

Table 10 shows the number and percentage of persons of full tribal blood and of mixed tribal blood among full-blood Indians, for the 22 states included in the preceding table.

Table 10 shows that the proportion of full tribal blood among full-blood Indians was uniformly high, generally over 90 per cent. The only states west of the Mississippi that had proportions below 90 per cent were South Dakota, Washington, Kansas, Oregon, and North Dakota. In these states members of different tribes are frequently found on the same reservations, with the result that intermarriages are comparatively frequent.

The distribution of white and Indian mixed bloods according to the proportion of white blood is given for the selected states in Table 11.

The proportion of mixed bloods having a predominance of Indian blood was highest in North Carolina (53.6 per cent) and Michigan (46.3 per cent), and lowest in North Dakota (7.7 per cent) and Oklahoma (9.8 per cent). The proportion of half-breeds proper among the mixed bloods was highest in New York (73.3 per cent) and North Dakota (70.1 per cent), and lowest in Oklahoma (13 per cent) and New Mexico (22.1 per cent). The proportion of half-breeds was probably in many cases an overstatement, because mixed bloods are more likely to be reported as half white and half Indian than as belonging to any other group.

The proportion of mixed bloods with the white blood predominating was highest in Oklahoma (75.4 per cent), a fact which is probably susceptible of the same explanation as the high proportion of mixed bloods in Oklahoma, which was noted above. The next highest proportion (41.2 per cent) was found in Minnesota. The lowest proportions of this class were reported in New Mexico (0.6 per cent), Nevada (4.2 per cent), Arizona (7.6 per cent), and North Carolina (9.3 per cent), the proportion being above 10 per cent in every other state.

POPULATION—UNITED STATES.

CLASSIFICATION BY SEX.

In considering the classification of the Indian population according to sex, it should be noted that there is possibly a material margin of error. It may be that omissions of persons of the one sex have been more frequent than of persons of the other sex. Moreover, in the case of persons of mixed blood it is possible that more of one sex than of the other were reported as whites or negroes instead of as Indians. Finally, there may be less accuracy in the case of one sex than of the other with respect to the reports as to the mixture of Indian blood with white or negro blood, or as to the mixture of tribes in the case of full-blood Indians. The possibility of such errors should be borne in mind in comparing the sex ratios shown in the tables. Table 12 presents a comparison of the sex distribution of the Indians in the United States and Alaska in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

AREA AND YEAR.	INDIAN POPULATION.

1900.....	15,048	14,488	103.9
1890.....	12,996	12,358	105.2

Of the 265,683 Indians reported in the United States in 1910, 135,133, or 50.9 per cent, were males, and 130,550, or 49.1 per cent, females. The number of males to 100 females was 103.5. In Alaska the number of males in 1910 was 12,995 and of females 12,336, the ratio of males to 100 females being 105.3.

In 1910 the ratio of males to females among the Indians (103.5 to 100) was not as great as in the total population of the United States (106). Among the native whites of native parentage the number of males to 100 females was 104 and among the foreign-born whites 129.2, but among the negroes only 98.9.

It appears from Table 12 that among the Indians the males were in excess at each enumeration both in the United States and in Alaska, and that the excess of males was greatest in 1910. There are no census data on the sex of Indians prior to 1890, but, according to the Office of Indian Affairs, the number of males to 100 females among the Indians was 94.7 in 1886 and 98.6 in 1885. The change to a preponderance of males may be due in part to the discontinuance of the formerly constant wars which reduced the proportion of males, but it may also be attributable in part to differences in the accuracy of the returns. The sex distribution of Indians, as reported, varies in the different states (Table 13). The tendency toward an increased proportion of males in 1910, as compared with 1890, is manifest in 16 of the 22 states given in the table. The tendency has been in the opposite direction in 6 states, of which 4—California, Washington, Nevada, and New Mexico—are in the West; 1, Oklahoma, is in the Southwest; and 1, New York, is in the East.

The ratio of males to 100 females among full-bloods and among mixed bloods is shown in Table 16.

CLASS.	INDIAN POPULATION: 1910
	United States.			Alaska.
	Male.	Female.	Males to 100 females.	Male.	Female.	Males to 100 females.
All classes	135,133	130,550	103.5	12,995	12,336	105.3

Mixed blood	48,157	45,266	106.4	1,946	1,941	100.3
Blood not reported	11,309	10,898	103.8

In the United States, according to the returns, the number of males to 100 females was considerably less (101.7) among full-blood Indians than among those of mixed blood (106.4). This condition is reversed in Alaska, where the proportion of males to 100 females was 106.2 among full-bloods and 100.3 among mixed bloods. As the number of mixed bloods in Alaska was comparatively small, however, no reliable conclusions can be based on the sex distribution among them.

The greater preponderance of males shown among the mixed bloods than among the full-bloods in the United States is probably due in part to the tendency to report as white Indian women of mixed blood who are married to white men. This theory is supported by a study of the sex distribution of 23,464 children under 5 years of age, presented in Table 17.

CLASS.	INDIAN CHILDREN UNDER 5 YEARS OF AGE: 1910

Full-blood	5,728	5,526	103.7
Mixed blood	6,177	6,033	102.4

Table 17 shows that in the case of children under 5 years of age the excess of males was somewhat greater among full-bloods than among mixed bloods.

Table 18, derived from Table 15, gives for the 22 selected states the number of males to 100 females among full-bloods and mixed bloods. This table shows that among the Indians of full blood the males were reported as in excess in all of the states in the table except seven, namely, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Minnesota; these seven states form a continuous area in the northwestern part of the United States. Among the Indians of mixed blood males were in excess in every state except Nevada and North Dakota. The proportion of males to 100 females was greater among the mixed bloods than among the full-bloods in the majority of the states for which both ratios are shown.

The number of males to 100 females is shown in Table 19 for Indians of full tribal and mixed tribal blood.

DEGREE OF TRIBAL MIXTURE.	Males to 100 females among full-blood Indians: 1910
Total	101.7
Full tribal blood	101.2
Mixed tribal blood	109.3
Two tribes	110.5
Three or more tribes	101.7
Tribal blood of one parent unknown	92.1

From this table appears a predominance of males considerably greater among Indians of mixed tribal blood than among those of full tribal blood. Of those of mixed tribal blood, however, the Indians representing a mixture of only two tribes show a considerably greater preponderance of males than those representing a mixture of more than two tribes. These differences may be in part due to errors in classification.

Table 20 shows for 1910 the reported number of males to 100 females among white and Indian mixed bloods, by degree of mixture.

DEGREE OF MIXTURE.	Males to 100 females among white and Indian mixed bloods: 1910
All white and Indian mixed bloods	106.2
More than half Indian	108.6
Half Indian, half white	108.0
More than half white	104.3

The figures apparently indicate that the excess of males decreases with the increase in the amount of white blood, but since the division by degree of mixture is only approximately accurate no reliable conclusion can be drawn from these proportions.

A comparison of the ages of the Indian population as returned at the censuses of 1910 and 1900 is given in Table 23 on the following page.

This table shows that in the United States in 1910 over one-half (51.5 per cent) of the Indians were under 20 years of age, over one-third (36.1 per cent) from 20 to 50 years, and about one-eighth (12 per cent) 51 years and over. In 1900 the proportion of young and old persons was slightly less and that of persons of the intervening age group slightly greater than in 1910. In Alaska in 1910 the proportion of young and of old persons was smaller and that of persons in the intermediate age period considerably greater than in the United States. No comparisons can safely be made with the figures for Alaska for 1900 since, as shown by the table, ages were not reported for 15 per cent of the Indians at that census.

<sup>1</sup> Figures taken from a table showing statistics for noncontiguous territory, as separate figures for Alaska were not available by age groups. Of the Indians in such territory, however, only 28 lived outside of Alaska, and as these were in the military and naval service they have been assumed to be between 20 and 50 years of age and have been deducted from the total for that age group.

Table 24 gives, in percentages, the distribution of Indians by age groups, for 22 selected states.

The proportion under 20 years of age varied from 39.4 per cent in Idaho to 58.5 in Oklahoma; the proportion 20 to 50 years of age was lowest in Colorado (32.1 per cent), and highest in Nevada (44.6 per cent); the proportion 51 and over was lowest in Oklahoma (7.7 per cent), and highest in Idaho (20.2 per cent).

Table 25 shows, in percentages, the age distribution of Indians classified according to mixture of blood.

The fact that stands out most prominently is the high proportion of young persons among the mixed bloods as compared with the full-bloods. A similar difference is to be noted between the mixed tribal bloods and the full tribal bloods. In both cases the difference may be accounted for in part by the fact that mixed marriages had not become common until within comparatively recent years. Another reason for the predominance of the young element among the mixed bloods is no doubt found in the greater fertility of mixed marriages, which is discussed later. It is evident that differences noted above among the several states with respect to the age distribution of Indians may be due in part to differences in the extent to which mixed marriages have taken place.

The number of males to 100 females, by age groups, in the United States and Alaska, is shown in Table 26.

It appears from Table 26 that in the United States in 1910 the reported excess of males was greatest in the group 20 to 50 years of age. In Alaska the proportion of the sexes varied little in the different age groups.

Table 27 shows for the United States the sex distribution, by age periods, for Indians of full tribal blood, of mixed tribal blood, and of mixed blood.

The sex distribution of Indians in the youngest age group was substantially the same in all three classes. In the intermediate age group, however, a decided difference appears, the proportion of males being much greater among Indians of mixed tribal blood and among Indians of mixed blood than among those of full tribal blood. In the oldest age group among Indians of full tribal blood the females were actually in excess, while among those of mixed tribal and of mixed blood the males predominated. A partial explanation of these conditions lies in the fact that the male full-bloods have been more frequently exposed to the dangers of war than the mixed bloods, and that this was more frequently the case in the period when the Indians who are now in the older age group were young than during the lifetime of those in the other age groups. Errors in classification of Indian women have probably also affected the statistics.

FECUNDITY AND VITALITY.

Information was collected by the Census Bureau in 1910 in regard to the number of children borne by every married woman. The results of the tabulation of this material for the Indian women are presented in the following discussion.

Table 28 presents the data on sterility.

Only those women were included in the tabulation who were between 15 and 44 years of age, who had been married for at least one year, and who were neither widowed nor divorced nor married for a second or subsequent time. As a result of these restrictions all of the women included in this tabulation answered the following description: (1) They were of child-bearing age; (2) had been married long enough to have children; and (3) were living in the married state at the time of the enumeration.

This last limitation makes possible the presentation of information about the husband and, since all second and subsequent marriages are excluded, the children are in each case the offspring of the couple as shown on the schedule. In this manner most elements of uncertainty have been excluded, so that the data lend themselves to trustworthy interpretation.

The most significant fact brought out by Table 28 is that, while for all classes of marriages the proportion resulting in no issue was 8.6 per cent, for marriages between full-bloods the proportion was 10.7 per cent, and for mixed marriages it was 6.7 per cent. Thus sterility is considerably less common in cases of miscegenation than in cases of marriage between full-bloods. Furthermore, the proportion of issueless marriages decreases directly as the amount of white blood in the married couple increases. For the marriages of full-bloods with mixed bloods, where less than one-half of the blood was white, the percentage of sterility was 8.8; for the marriages of full-bloods with whites, where one-half of the blood was white, the proportion of sterility was 7.7 per cent; for the marriages between mixed bloods, where the proportion of white blood may have varied considerably but was probably one-half or more, sterility was shown in 7 per cent of the cases; and finally, for marriages of mixed bloods with whites, where more than one-half and often three-fourths or more of the blood was white, the percentage of sterility was only 5.8. Thus an inverse relation between the amount of white blood in the married couple and the proportion of childless unions seems to be established by the table.

Table 29 deals only with women who have been married from 10 to 20 years, inclusive, and distinguishes those who have borne no more than two children (including those who have borne no children) from those who have borne from three to five children, and six or more children, as shown by the returns for 1910.

A comparison of the figures for marriages between full-bloods with those for mixed marriages shows the greater fertility of the latter; a smaller proportion resulted in two children or less and in from three to five children than in the case of the pure marriages and a much higher proportion in six or more children.

A further analysis of mixed marriages shows, however, that as far as the number of children is concerned the proportion of white blood does not materially influence the offspring. In fact, the marriages between full-blood Indians and whites are more prolific than any of the other main classes of mixed marriages. Of the subclasses under "Marriages among mixed bloods," the marriages between Indian and negro mixed bloods showed the greatest fertility, more than half of such marriages resulting in six or more children.

The average number of children per marriage, by degree of mixture of blood, is shown in Table 30.

These figures likewise indicate that mixed marriages are more fertile, the average number of children resulting from such marriages being 5.1, while the average for the marriages of full-bloods was 4.5. The highest average number of children per marriage shown for any of the subdivided classes was for marriages between full-blood Indians and whites, but for marriages in which both husband and wife represented a mixture of white, negro, and Indian blood the average number of children was higher than for any other group.

In addition to the number of children borne by every married woman, the census schedule in 1910 called for the number of children living at the time of the enumeration. From the replies to this inquiry a study can be made of the proportion of children surviving. The results of such a study for the Indians are presented in Table 31.

For all classes of marriages the proportion of surviving children was 74.7 per cent; for pure marriages it was 69.7 per cent, and for mixed marriages 79 per cent. A further analysis of the mixed marriages shows that the percentages of children surviving were highest among children one of whose parents was white. Thus for marriages between full-bloods and whites the proportion of surviving children was 82.9 per cent, and for marriages between mixed bloods and whites the proportion was 83 per cent, while for marriages among mixed bloods it was only 77.6 per cent, and for marriages between full-bloods and mixed bloods only 69.9 per cent, or only slightly higher than for marriages between full-bloods (69.7 per cent).

The figures bring out the fact that a larger proportion of the children having one white parent survive than of children both of whose parents are full-blood or mixed blood Indians, but do not in themselves show whether this is due to conditions in the home or to greater virility of the offspring.

In conclusion, it is to be noted that the results of the studies on sterility, on fecundity, and on vitality all indicate that the increase of the mixed blood Indians is much greater than that of the full-blood Indians, and that unless the tendencies now at work undergo a decided change the full-bloods are destined to form a decreasing proportion of the total Indian population and ultimately to disappear altogether.

NUMBER OF INHABITANTS, BY ENUMERATION DISTRICTS

Prepared under the supervision of WM. C. HUNT, Chief Statistician for Population

This bulletin gives the population of New York City as now constituted, (1) by boroughs, from 1790 to 1910; (2) by boroughs and wards, from 1890 to 1910; and (3) by enumeration districts, for 1910 only.

The city of New York, as now constituted, consists of the five boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond. The changes which have taken place in its organization and population since 1890 are explained as follows:

In 1890 the city comprised all of what is now the Borough of Manhattan and the greater part of what is now the Borough of Bronx, but under the act of consolidation which became effective January 1, 1898, Kings County, Richmond County, the larger part of Queens County, and a small part of Westchester County became a part of the city.

Manhattan Borough comprises all that part of the old city of New York lying to the south of the Harlem River, this area being known formerly as Manhattan Island.

Bronx Borough was formed from that part of the old city of New York lying to the north of the Harlem River and the small part of Westchester County annexed under the act of consolidation. All of this area was at one time a part of Westchester County, but in 1873 the towns of Morrisania, West Farms, and Kings Bridge were annexed to New York, and under the act which took effect January 1, 1898, all of the town of Westchester and parts of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham became a part of the city.

Under an act of the legislature the towns of Flatbush, Flatlands, Gravesend, and New Utrecht were absorbed by the city of Brooklyn in 1894, the town of Flatbush becoming the twenty-ninth ward, the town of New Utrecht the thirtieth ward, the town of Gravesend the thirty-first ward, and the town of Flatlands the thirty-second ward of the city. The city thus became coextensive with Kings County, and on January 1, 1898, under the act of consolidation above referred to, the city of Brooklyn became the Borough of Brooklyn, in what is now the city of New York.

Queens Borough was organized at the same time from what was Long Island City, the towns of Flushing, Jamaica, and Newtown, and a small portion of the town of Hempstead, all of which were civil divisions of Queens County. The remaining towns of the county, Oyster Bay and North Hempstead, together with the greater part of the town of Hempstead, were taken to form the new county of Nassau. The first ward of Queens Borough comprises what was formerly Long Island City, the second ward what was formerly Newtown town, the third ward what was formerly Flushing town, the fourth ward what was formerly Jamaica town, and the fifth ward that part of the town of Hempstead now within the limits of the Borough of Queens.

Richmond County, known as Staten Island, under the provisions of the same act became the Borough of Richmond. The first ward of Richmond Borough comprises what was formerly Castleton town, the second ward what was formerly Middletown town, the third ward what was formerly Northfield town, the fourth ward what was formerly Southfield town, and the fifth ward what was formerly Westfield town.

It is impossible to state definitely the population at the earlier census periods of that part of the town of Hempstead, Queens County, which became a part of Queens Borough, and of the parts of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham, Westchester County, which became a part of Bronx Borough.

Table 1 gives the population of the present area of New York City and its boroughs as returned at the censuses of 1910 and 1900, and the estimated population for each decennial census period from 1790 to 1890.

From this table it appears that the area comprised within the present limits of the city of New York had an estimated population of 49,401 in 1790, as compared with a population of 4,766,883 in 1910. The population of the city in 1910 is more than ninety-six times its population in 1790, while that of New York state in 1910 is less than twenty-seven times its population in 1790, and that of continental United States in 1910 a little more than twenty-three times its population in 1790.

Table 2 gives the population of New York City, by boroughs and wards, as returned at the censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890. For purposes of comparison, the population of certain wards in Brooklyn Borough for 1900 and 1890 are combined.

STATISTICS OF POPULATION—NEW YORK CITY.

Table 3 gives the population of New York City by enumeration districts, as returned at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910. In conformity to the plans of division for enumeration purposes, the enumeration districts are arranged with respect to wards for Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Richmond Boroughs, and with respect to assembly districts for Bronx and Queens Boroughs.
