

ILLINOIS.

CHAPTER 1.—NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of Illinois, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 442) shows the population of Illinois, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, at the last three censuses, namely, those of 1910, 1900, and 1890. The arrangement of counties and of the primary divisions in each county is alphabetical. The figures for all secondary divisions except Quincy city are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

It may be noticed that the county totals as given in Table 1 for 1900 and 1890 sometimes exceed the aggregate population of the minor civil divisions as shown in the table. This is due in the case of some counties to the numerous territorial changes that have been made in the minor civil divisions since 1890 and in the case of certain counties for which the population was returned by precincts or townships in 1910 to the fact that it was not so returned at one or both of the other censuses. In addition, there are several instances in which the county total includes the population of a city, town, or village which was returned as a primary division in 1890 or 1900 and as a secondary division in 1910.

Table 2 (p. 468) shows the cities and incorporated towns and villages in Illinois, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

HISTORICAL NOTE.—This state takes its name from an Indian tribe which, at the time of the early French explorations, inhabited the area now comprising Illinois and adjacent parts of Wisconsin, Iowa, and Missouri. The word is the gallicized plural of the Indian illmi, meaning "man."

The region now constituting Illinois was first visited by white men in 1673, when Jollet and Marquette ascended the Illinois River and reached Lake Michigan by way of the Des Plaines and Chicago portage. Further explorations were made by La Salle and other Frenchmen a few years later. The first permanent settlement was made by the French at Kaskaskia about the year 1700, although mission stations and trading posts had been established some years earlier.

This region continued in the possession of the French, who made a number of other settlements, until the close of the French and Indian War, when, by the treaty of 1763, the "Illinois country," as it was then called, was ceded to Great Britain, together with the rest of the former French territory east of the Mississippi and south of the Great Lakes. Owing to the hostility of the Indians, however, the English did not take actual possession until October, 1765, when the British flag was raised at Fort Chartres, then the capital. In 1772 the seat of government was removed to Kaskaskia.

The population of Illinois, by counties, at each of the last five censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive; the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two censuses according to urban and rural districts are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained below:

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population, the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the territory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 and

In 1778, during the Revolution, the region northwest of the Ohio River was conquered by a force of Virginians under George Rogers Clark, and later in the same year it was made a county of Virginia. In 1783, at the close of the Revolution, the British claims to all territory east of the Mississippi, north of Florida, and extending as far north as the present northern boundary of the United States, were relinquished in favor of the latter nation. The states which claimed title to lands northwest of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi later ceded their rights to the United States, and in 1787 a territorial government was established for this region, then called the Northwest Territory.

In 1800 the territory of Indiana, including the area now constituting Illinois, was organized from a part of the Northwest Territory. In 1800 the territory of Illinois, including all the region lying between the Mississippi and the present western boundary of Indiana, prolonged northward to the Canadian line, was organized from a part of Indiana. In 1812 the right of suffrage was greatly extended and the form of territorial government was changed from the first to the second grade, thus giving the people of Illinois the power to elect a legislature and a delegate in Congress.

In 1818, under authority of an enabling act passed by Congress in the same year, Illinois, with boundaries as at present, adopted a state constitution and was admitted to the Union.

over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities, as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the territory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of Illinois is 5,638,591. Compared with a population of 4,821,550 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 817,041, or 16.9 per cent, the smallest relative increase shown at any census. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent. The following table shows the population of Illinois at each census from 1810 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole.

Illinois was organized as a territory in 1809 and appears in the census reports for the first time in 1810. During the 50 years from 1810 to 1860 its population increased very rapidly, the lowest rate of increase for any decade being 78.8 per cent between 1840 and 1850. The percentages of increase for the other four decades ranged from 101.1 to 349.5. During the 50 years from 1860 to 1910 the population of the state increased much more slowly, the rates of increase ranging from 16.9 per cent for the last decade to 48.4 per cent for the decade 1860-1870. In 1910 the population of the state was a little more than three times as great as in 1860.

A comparison of the rates of increase for the state with those for the United States, as given in the preceding table, shows that prior to 1870 the population of the state increased at a very much higher rate than the population of the United States. From 1870 to 1910, however, except for the decade 1890-1900, the population of the state increased at a slower rate than that of the United States. During this 40-year period the population of the state increased 122 per cent, while the population of the United States increased 138.5 per cent.

Principal cities.—Illinois has 242 cities. Chicago, the largest, has a population of 2,185,283. Peoria, the second city, has a population of 66,950. East St. Louis and Springfield have 58,547 and 51,678 inhabitants, respectively. Of the remaining cities, 8 have from 25,000 to 50,000, 18 from 10,000 to 25,000, 36 from 5,000 to 10,000, 61 from 2,500 to 5,000, and 115 less than 2,500 inhabitants. The aggregate population of the 242 cities is 3,562,714, or 63.2 per cent of the total population of the state.

Table 2 shows the population in 1910 of all the cities of the state with comparative figures, where possible, for 1900 and 1890. The table on page 437 shows the population of the 12 cities having in 1910 over 25,000 inhabitants, as reported at each census since their incorporation either as cities, towns, or villages, so far as figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Of the cities included in this table, East St. Louis shows the highest percentage of increase during the last decade, namely, 97.4 per cent, and Quincy the lowest, nine-tenths of 1 per cent.

The population of Chicago increased 486,708, or 28.7 per cent, during the last decade, the lowest relative increase which it has shown at any census. During the preceding decade the increase was 598,725, or 54.4 per cent. From 1840 to 1890, inclusive, the percentage of increase in the population of the city did not fall below 100 per cent except for one decade, 1870-1880, when it was 68.3 per cent.

There are 4 cities which showed during the last decade rates of increase of 50 per cent or more—Danville, Decatur, East St. Louis, and Springfield. Six cities—Aurora, Danville, Decatur, East St. Louis, Rockford, and Springfield—showed higher rates of increase in population for the last decade than for the preceding decade, 1890-1900.

Counties.—Illinois has 102 counties. The population of these counties ranges from 7,015 in Hardin County to 2,405,233 in Cook County.

There have been no changes in the territorial boundaries of the counties since 1900.

Fifty-two counties have increased in population during the last decade, the rates of increase ranging from less than one-tenth of 1 per cent in Fayette County to 62.2 per cent in Williamson County, and the absolute increases from 10 in Fayette County to 566,498 in Cook County. Nineteen counties show a larger rate of increase than is shown for the state as a whole, which, as before stated, was 16.9 per cent. Fifty counties have decreased in population during the last decade, the rates of decrease ranging from three-tenths of 1 per cent in Dewitt County to 17.4 per cent in Pope County, and the absolute decreases from 66 in Dewitt County to 2,973 in Pike County. During the preceding decade, 1890-1900, only 6 counties in the state showed decreases in population. The aggregate increase of population from 1900 to 1910 in the 52 counties that show an increase is 872,985; the aggregate decrease of population in the 50 counties that show a decrease is 55,944. The difference, 817,041, is, of course, the total increase of population in the state.

The maps on page 440 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of Illinois during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 56,043 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 100.6; in 1900 and 1890 it was 86.1 and 68.3, respectively. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9. In density of population Illinois ranks tenth among the states in 1910.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2 and in the maps on page 441, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

McLean County, with 1,191 square miles, has the largest area, and Putnam County, with 173 square miles, has the smallest area. Cook County, containing Chicago city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 2,578 persons per square mile, while Henderson County, with 25.9 persons per square mile, has the lowest density.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In Illinois the counties are divided into 1,616 primary divisions, comprising 1,430 townships, 185 election precincts, and the city of Chicago. In 86 counties townships are the primary divisions, and in the remaining 16 counties election precincts are the primary divisions. There are also 1,065 secondary divisions in the state, comprising 241 cities, 51 towns, and 773 villages. These secondary divisions usually form parts of townships or precincts, but 10 cities, 1 village, and 2 towns are coextensive with the townships or election precincts in which they are located, while 1 city comprises the whole of one township and parts of two others.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of Illinois at the censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among places grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census.

As shown by the above table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, the incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 3,476,929 inhabitants, or 61.7 per cent of the total population, while 2,161,662 inhabitants, or 38.3 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the incorporated places then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 2,616,368 inhabitants, or 54.3 per cent of the total population, while 2,205,182 inhabitants, or 45.7 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been a considerable increase in the proportion of urban population. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

Chicago, the only city in the state having over 100,000 inhabitants, contained 28.7 per cent of the total population of the state in 1890. This proportion increased to 35.2 per cent in 1900 and to 38.8 per cent in 1910. The proportion of the population of the state in the groups of smaller urban places changed but little from 1890 to 1910, but all the groups show slight increases except the one comprising places having from 10,000 to 25,000 inhabitants. The proportion in this group decreased slightly.

The urban population of the state is contained in 127 cities, 2 towns, and 15 villages. Of the total population, 38.3 per cent is classed as rural, 12 per cent being contained in 922 incorporated places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each and 26.4 per cent in unincorporated communities. The 922 places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each have an aggregate population of 675,502. These places comprise 222 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 347,968; 275 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 192,582; and 425 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 134,952.

The above table shows further that in all incorporated places, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 4,152,431, or 73.6 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all incorporated places, as they existed in 1900, was 3,223,165, or 66.8 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows 68 counties having a larger proportion and 7 counties a smaller proportion of urban population in 1910 than in 1900, while 23 counties were wholly rural at both censuses. It also shows that 4 counties which were wholly rural in 1910 were partly urban in 1900. Cook County, containing the city of Chicago, has the largest proportion of urban population, namely, 96.5 per cent, and Rock Island County, with 72.7 per cent, contains the next largest proportion of urban population. In 14 counties more than 50 per cent of the population was urban in 1910.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of the same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the table in the next column, the total population in 1910 of those places which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 3,476,929; in 1900 the total population of these same places (so far as separately reported) was 2,666,333. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of those places which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 2,616,368 (see table on page 438), by 49,965. The difference is the net result of the passage, since 1900, of certain communities from the rural to the urban class and vice versa, and of annexations of territory during the same period.

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of places having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same places in 1900, as given in the next table, shows an increase of 30.4 per cent, while the population living in rural territory shows an increase of only 0.3 per cent. Urban population thus increased nearly twice as rapidly as that of the state as a whole. For the United States as a whole the urban population increased 34.8 per cent in the last decade and the rural population 11.2 per cent. As shown by Table I of Chapter 2, there are 68 counties in Illinois in which rural population decreased, and only 5 in which there was a decrease of urban population.

In the following table the population for the state as a whole is distributed so as to show, for 1910 and 1900, the population of the city of Chicago, the combined population of the other cities having in 1910 25,000 inhabitants or more, the combined population of cities, villages, and towns having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants, and the population of the remainder of the state.

CLASS OF PLACES.	POPULATION.		INCREASE: 1900-1910
	1910	1900	Number.	Per cent.
The state	5,638,591	4,821,550	817,041	16.9
Urban territory in 1910.....	3,476,929	2,666,333	810,596	30.4
City of Chicago.....	2,185,283	1,698,575	486,708	28.7
Other cities of 25,000 or more in 1910 ..	434,366	330,806	103,560	31.3
Cities, villages, and towns of 2,500 to 25,000 in 1910.....	857,251	630,952	226,299	34.6
Remainder of the state.....	2,161,662	2,155,217	6,445	0.3

From this table it appears that the group of places having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants increased during the last decade more rapidly than any other, its growth being more than twice as fast as that of the state as a whole. Chicago increased a little less rapidly than the group of other cities of over 25,000 inhabitants; nevertheless, of the increase in the total population of the state during the decade, namely, 817,041, more than one-half was in the city of Chicago.

DENSITY OF POPULATION OF ILLINOIS, BY COUNTIES: 1910.

TOTAL POPULATION.

RURAL POPULATION.

Rural population is defined as that residing outside of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more.

1 County total includes population (368) of Good Hope village, returned independently in 1890.
 2 Macomb city, coextensive with Macomb City township, incorrectly reported as in Chalmers, Emmet, Macomb, and Scotland townships in 1900 and 1890.
 3 Owing to physical disability, the enumerator for Bardolph village failed to fully canvass all the territory assigned to him and, according to a local census, between 50 and 60 persons were thereby omitted from the enumeration, but the omission was discovered at too late a date to permit of a change in the population of Bardolph.

* Exclusive of population of Good Hope village.
 † Incorporated in 1902.
 ‡ Returned in 1900 as in Coral township only.
 § Name changed from Nunda in 1908.
 ¶ Parts of Bloomington township annexed to Bloomington city in 1900, 1902, 1904, and 1905.
 †† Incorporated in 1901.

CHAPTER 2.—COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of Illinois by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of five general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for cities of more than 25,000 inhabitants; Table III for places of 10,000 to 25,000; Table IV for places of 2,500 to 10,000; and Table V for wards of cities of more than 50,000.

A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 16) reproduces from the general tables the more important state and city totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among the different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of Illinois, 2,600,555, or 46.1 per cent, are native whites of native parentage; 1,723,847, or 30.6 per cent, are native whites of foreign or mixed parentage; 1,202,560, or 21.3 per cent, are foreign-born whites; and 109,049, or 1.9 per cent, are negroes. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 47.1, 31.1, 20, and 1.8, respectively, only slight changes in the composition of the population having taken place during the decade. In most of the 102 counties, the proportion of foreign-born whites is small, being less than 5 per cent in 40 counties, and exceeding 25 per cent in only 6. More than two-thirds of the foreign-born whites are in Cook County, in which both this class and the native whites of foreign or mixed parentage constitute a larger proportion of the total population than in any other county (35 and 41.5 per cent, respectively). (See maps on page 483.)

Of the urban population, 32.3 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural, 68.4 per cent. The corresponding proportions for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage are 36.5 and 21.1 per cent, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 28.7 in the urban population and 9.5 in the rural; the percentage of negroes is 2.5 in the urban and 1.1 in the rural.

Sex (Tables 2 and 12).—In the total population of the state there are 2,911,674 males and 2,726,917 females, or 106.8 males to 100 females. In 1900 the ratio was 105.3 to 100. Among native whites the ratio is 101.5 to 100, and among foreign-born whites 127.3 to 100. In the urban population there are 104.9 males to 100 females, and in the rural, 109.9.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the total native population—that is, population born in the United States—76.8 per cent were born in Illinois and 23.2 per cent outside the state; of the native white population, 22.1 per cent were born outside the state, and of the native negro, 66.8 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a much larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Tables 5 and 15).—Of the foreign-born white population of Illinois, persons born in Germany represent 26.5 per cent; Austria, 13.6; Russia, 12.4; Sweden, 9.6; Ireland, 7.8; Italy, 6; England, 5; Canada, 3.7; Hungary, 3.3; Norway, 2.7; all other countries, 9.2 per cent. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Germany contributed 34.7 per cent; Ireland, 11.3; Austria, 9.6; Sweden, 7.9; Russia, 7.8; England, 5.8; Italy, 4; Canada, 3.7; Norway, 2.3; Scotland, 1.8; Hungary, 1.8; Denmark, 1.1; Holland, 1.1.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The total number of males 21 years of age and over is 1,743,182, representing 30.9 per cent of the population. Of such males, 39.5 per cent are native whites of native parentage, 23.4 per cent native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 34.7 per cent foreign-born whites, and 2.3 per cent negroes. Of the 604,524 foreign-born white males of voting age, 317,339, or 52.5 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 1,330,556.

Age (Tables 7, 8, and 13).—Of the total population, 10.6 per cent are under 5 years of age, 18.9 per cent from 5 to 14 years, inclusive, 19.9 per cent from 15 to 24, 31 per cent from 25 to 44, and 19.3 per cent 45 years of age and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 5 per cent of this class being under 15 years of age, while four-fifths (80 per cent) are 25 years of age and over. Of the native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, only 39.5 per cent are 25 and over, and of the native whites of native parentage, only 43.3 per cent.

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to the city explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 33.5 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural population, 27 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 1,615,914, of whom 1,025,053, or 63.4 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 19,085 children under 6 and 20,208 persons 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 63.8; for girls, 63.1. For children from 6 to 14 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 87.8. The percentage for children of this age among native whites of native parentage was 88.2; among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 88; among foreign-born whites, 83.8; and among negroes, 83. (See Table I.) There is little difference between urban and rural communities as regards the percentage attending school for the ages from 6 to 14, but of persons from 15 to 20 years of age, 35.8 per cent in rural communities attended school and 23.5 per cent in urban.

per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 1.3 among native whites, 10.1 among foreign-born whites, and 10.5 among negroes.

For all classes combined, the percentage of illiterates is 4.1 in urban communities and 3.2 in rural. For each class separately, however, except the foreign-born whites, the percentage is higher in the rural population than in the urban.

For persons from 10 to 20 years of age, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is 1.1. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Tables 11 and 14).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 39.3 per cent of the males are single and 30.4 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 55.2 for males and 58.6 for females, and the percentage widowed 4.2 and 10.1, respectively. The percentages of those reported as divorced, 0.5 and 0.7, respectively, are believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is so much smaller for women than for men is due partly to the excess of males in the total population and partly to the fact that women marry younger. Thus 8 per cent of the females from 15 to 19 years of age are married, as compared with 0.6 per cent of the males, and 46.2 per cent of the females from 20 to 24 years of age are married, as compared with 20.3 per cent of the males. In the next age group, 25 to 34 years, the percentages are 74.4 and 61.1, while in the age group 35 to 44 the difference practically disappears. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages of married persons among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Foreign-born whites, 63.9 for males and 67.7 for females; native whites of native parentage, 54.6 and 58.2, respectively; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 46.1 and 51; negroes, 51.7 and 57.7.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married, for males and for females, is higher in rural than in urban communities.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in Illinois is 1,006,848, and the total number of families 1,264,717, there being 125.6 families to each 100 dwellings. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 5.6, and the average number per family, 4.5.

INDIANA.

CHAPTER 1.—NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of Indiana, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 524) shows the population of Indiana, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, at the last three censuses, namely, those of 1910, 1900, and 1890. The arrangement of counties and of the primary divisions in each county is alphabetical. The figures for secondary divisions are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

It may be noticed that the county totals as given in Table 1 for 1900 and 1890 sometimes exceed the aggregate population of the minor civil divisions as shown in the table. This is due in the case of some counties to the fact that some of the minor civil divisions of 1890 and 1900 had gone out of existence by 1910, their territory having been annexed to one or more other divisions. In other cases, several cities and towns which were returned independently at the censuses of 1900 and 1890, were returned in 1910 as secondary divisions.

Table 2 (p. 538) shows the cities and incorporated towns in Indiana, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

The population of Indiana, by counties, at each of the last five censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive; the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two censuses according to urban and rural districts, are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained below:

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the territory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 and over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities, as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the terri-

HISTORICAL NOTE.—The name Indiana is of modern Latin derivation and signifies "land of Indians."

The region now constituting Indiana was first explored by La Salle in the latter part of the seventeenth century, probably about 1670, when he is said to have descended the Ohio as far as the Louisville rapids. His first well-authenticated exploration, however, took place late in 1679, when he traversed what is now the northwestern part of the state, by way of the St. Joseph and Kankakee Rivers. French trappers and fur traders also appeared at about the close of the seventeenth century. The first permanent settlement was made at Vincennes by a number of French families, probably in 1734 or 1735, although a fort and trading post had been established at this place some years earlier.

This region was in the possession of the French until the close of the French and Indian War, when, by the treaty of 1763, it was ceded to Great Britain.

In 1778, during the Revolution, Vincennes and Kaskaskia were captured from the British by a force of Virginians under George Rogers Clark, and later in the same year the region northwest of the Ohio was made the county of Illinois by the Virginia Legislature.

In 1783 the British claims to all territory east of the Mississippi and north of Florida were relinquished in favor of the United States. The states which claimed title to lands northwest of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi ceded their rights to the United States before 1787, and in that year this region was organized as the Northwest Territory.

In 1800 that part of the Northwest Territory lying between the Mississippi River and a line extending from a point on the Ohio River opposite the mouth of the Kentucky to Fort Recovery, and thence north to the Canadian line, was organized as the territory of Indiana. The new territory thus comprised nearly all of the present state of Indiana, together with the area now constituting Illinois, Wisconsin, northeastern Minnesota, and western Michigan. Two years later, by a clause in the enabling act for Ohio, the boundary between Indiana and Ohio was fixed at its present location, and by the same act the region north of Ohio was added to Indiana. In 1804 the form of territorial government was changed from the first to the second grade, thus giving Indiana a legislature and a Delegate in Congress. The organization of Michigan territory in 1805 and Illinois territory in 1809 left Indiana with its present boundaries, and in December, 1816, the state of Indiana was admitted to the Union.

tory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of Indiana is 2,700,876. Compared with a population of 2,516,462 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 184,414, or 7.3 per cent, the smallest absolute increase shown at any census since 1820, and the smallest relative increase shown at any census. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent. During the decade 1890–1900 the population of the state increased 324,058, or 14.8 per cent. The following table shows the population of Indiana at each census from 1800 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole.

Indiana was organized as a territory in 1800 and was separately enumerated for the first time at the census taken in that year. The total population (5,641) reported for 1800 includes 3,124 returned for those portions which were taken to form Michigan and Illinois territories in 1805 and 1809, respectively. The early censuses showed a much more rapid rate of growth in the population of Indiana than have the later ones. During the 30 years from 1800 to 1830 the population of the state increased almost sixty-one times, the rates of increase for these decades ranging from 133.1 per cent to 500.2 per cent. Between 1830 and 1840 the population practically doubled. During the 70 years since 1840 the growth of the population of the state has been at a much slower and, with one exception, at a steadily decreasing rate. The population of the state in 1910 was more than three times as great as in 1840.

A comparison of the rates of increase for the state with those for the United States, as given in the preceding table, shows that the rate of increase during each decade since 1870 has been lower for the state than for the country as a whole. In this period the population of the United States increased 138.5 per cent, while that of the state increased 60.7 per cent. During the last decade the rate of increase for the state was only about one-third the rate for the country as a whole. During each decade from 1800 to 1870 the rate of increase for the state was higher than the rate of increase for the United States. The difference between the two rates for the decades 1860–1870 and 1850–1860, however, was very slight, and for the decade 1840–1850 it was only 8.2 per cent; but for the preceding decades the differences were large, the rate of increase for the state during the decade 1810–1820 being more than fifteen times the rate for the United States.

Principal cities.—Indiana has 98 cities, of which Indianapolis, the largest, has a population of 233,650, and Evansville, the next largest, a population of 69,647. Fort Wayne, South Bend, and Terre Haute are the only other cities in the state having over 50,000 inhabitants. There are also 20 cities having from 10,000 to 25,000, 26 having from 5,000 to 10,000, 30 having from 2,500 to 5,000, and 17 having less than 2,500 inhabitants. The aggregate population of the 98 cities is 1,153,839, or 42.7 per cent of the total population of the state.

Table 2 shows the population in 1910 of all the cities of the state with comparative figures, where possible, for 1900 and 1890. The table on page 519 shows the population of the five cities having in 1910 over 50,000 inhabitants, as reported at each census since their incorporation either as cities or towns, so far as figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Of the cities included in this table, Terre Haute shows the highest rate of increase during the last decade, namely, 58.6 per cent, and Evansville the lowest, 18 per cent. Evansville, Fort Wayne, and Terre Haute each show a higher rate of increase during the last decade, 1900-1910, than during the preceding decade, 1890-1900.

During the 30 years from 1840 to 1870 the population of Indianapolis increased nearly eighteen times, the rates of increase for the three decades ranging from 130 to 200.6 per cent. During the 40 years since 1870 the growth of the city has been much slower, its population increasing less than five times, and the rates of increase ranging from 38.1 per cent for the last decade to 60.4 per cent during the preceding decade. The absolute increase during the last decade, however, has been larger than that shown for any previous decade.

Counties.—Indiana has 92 counties. The population of these counties ranges from 4,329 in Ohio County to 263,661 in Marion County.

There have been no changes in the territorial boundaries of the counties since 1900.

Thirty-six counties increased in population during the last decade, the rates of increase ranging from one-tenth of 1 per cent in Gibson County to 118.7 per cent in Lake County, and the absolute increases from 16 in Scott County to 66,434 in Marion County. Seventeen counties showed a larger rate of increase than was shown for the state as a whole, which, as before stated, was 7.3 per cent. Fifty-six counties decreased in population during the last decade, the rates of decrease ranging from three-tenths of 1 per cent in Montgomery County to 18 per cent in Brown County, and the absolute decreases from 92 in Montgomery County to 5,246 in Madison County. The aggregate increase in the population from 1900 to 1910 in the 36 counties that showed an increase was 253,629; the aggregate decrease of population in the 56 counties that showed a decrease was 69,215. The difference, 184,414, is, of course, the total increase of population in the state.

The maps on page 522 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of Indiana during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 36,045 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 74.9; in 1900 and 1890 it was 70.1 and 61.1, respectively. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9. In density of population Indiana ranks eleventh among the states.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2 and in the maps on page 523, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

Allen County, with 661 square miles, has the largest area, and Ohio County, with 85 square miles, has the smallest area. Marion County, containing*Indianapolis city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 664.1 persons per square mile, while Jasper County, with 23.2 persons per square mile, has the lowest density.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In Indiana the counties are divided into 1,017 primary divisions, comprising that number of townships. There are also 471 secondary divisions, comprising 98 cities and 373 towns.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of Indiana at the censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among cities and towns grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census.

As shown by the above table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, cities and incorporated towns of 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 1,143,835 inhabitants, or 42.4 per cent of the total population, while 1,557,041 inhabitants, or 57.6 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the incorporated places then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 862,689 inhabitants, or 34.3 per cent of the total population, while 1,653,773 inhabitants, or 65.7 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been a considerable increase in the proportion of urban population. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

Indianapolis, the only city in the state having over 100,000 inhabitants, contained in 1890, 4.8 per cent of the total population of the state; in 1900 this proportion had increased to 6.7 per cent and in 1910 to 8.7 per cent. The largest proportion of urban population in 1910, 1900, and 1890 was in the group of places having between 10,000 and 25,000 inhabitants each, the population of this group of places comprising 12.6, 8.7, and 6.6 per cent, respectively, of the total population of the state.

The urban population of the state in 1910 was contained in 81 cities and 7 incorporated towns, while the rural population was in 383 cities and incorporated towns of less than 2,500 inhabitants each, and in the unincorporated territory. The 383 places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each, comprising 17 cities and 366 towns, had an aggregate population of 299,457, or 11.1 per cent of the total population of the state. These places comprised 107 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 161,326; 131 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 93,442; and 145 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 44,689.

The above table shows further that in all cities and incorporated towns, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 1,443,292, or 53.4 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all incorporated places, as they existed in 1900, was 1,126,683, or 44.8 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows 61 counties having a larger proportion and 3 counties a smaller proportion of urban population in 1910 than in 1900, while for 1 county the proportion was the same. One county was wholly rural in 1910 with a small proportion of urban population in 1900, and one county wholly rural in 1900 was partly urban in 1910. Twenty-five counties were wholly rural at both censuses.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of the same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the table on the next page, the total population in 1910 of those cities and towns which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 1,143,835; in 1900 the total population of these same places (so far as separately reported) was 876,294. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of those places which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 862,689 (see table above), by 13,605. The difference is the net result of the passage, since 1900, of certain communities from the rural to the urban class, and vice versa, and of annexations of territory during the same period.

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of cities and towns having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same places in 1900, as given in the table on the next page, shows an increase of 30.5 per cent. This represents the rate of growth of urban communities as thus defined and shows that urban population increased a little more than four times as rapidly as that of the state as a whole. On the other hand, in the population living in rural territory there has been a decrease during the decade of 5.1 per cent. For the United States as a whole urban population increased 34.8 per cent in the last decade and rural population 11.2 per cent. As shown by Table I of Chapter 2, there are 74 counties in Indiana in which the population living in rural territory decreased, but only 9 counties in which there was a decrease in urban population.

In the following table the population for the state as a whole is distributed so as to show, for 1910 and 1900, the population of the city of Indianapolis, the combined population of the other cities having in 1910 25,000 inhabitants or more, the combined population of cities and towns having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants, and the population of the remainder of the state.

From this table it appears that the city of Indianapolis and the group of other cities of over 25,000 inhabitants each increased in population during the last decade about five times as rapidly, and the group of cities and towns having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants each increased more than three times as rapidly as the population of the state as a whole, while rural territory decreased 5.1 per cent. The city of Indianapolis with a population of 233,650 contributes a little more than one-fifth of the entire urban population.

CHAPTER 2.—COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of Indiana by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of five general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for cities of 25,000 inhabitants or more; Table III for cities of 10,000 to 25,000; Table IV for places of 2,500 to 10,000; and Table V for wards of cities of 50,000 or more. A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 15) reproduces from the general tables the more important state and city totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of his ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of Indiana, 2,130,088, or 78.9 per cent, are native whites of native parentage; 350,551, or 13 per cent, are native whites of foreign or mixed parentage; 159,322, or 5.9 per cent, are foreign-born whites; and 60,320, or 2.2 per cent, are negroes. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 77.6, 14.5, 5.6, and 2.3, respectively, the comparison indicating a slight increase in the relative importance of the native whites of native parentage. In most of the counties, the proportion of whites of foreign birth or of foreign or mixed parentage is small. There is, however, one county (Lake) in which the foreign-born whites constitute more than one-fourth of the total population, and six counties in which the native whites of foreign or mixed parentage exceed that proportion. (See maps on page 577.)

Of the urban population, 67.8 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural, 87 per cent. The corresponding proportions for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage are 18.2 and 9.1 per cent, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 9.7 in the urban population and 3.1 in the rural; the percentage of negroes is 4.2 in the urban and 0.8 in the rural.

Sex (Table 2).—In the total population of the state there are 1,383,295 males and 1,317,581 females, or 105 males to 100 females. In 1900 the ratio was 104.4 to 100. Among native whites the ratio is 102.3 to 100; among foreign-born whites, 156.4. In the urban population there are 102.5 males to 100 females, and in the rural, 106.8.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the native population—that is, population born in the United States—79.9 per cent were born in Indiana and 20.1 per cent outside the state; of the native white population, 19.1 per cent were born outside the state, and of the native negro, 58.1 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a much larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Tables 5 and 12).—Of the foreign-born white population of Indiana, persons born in Germany represent 39 per cent; Hungary, 9; Austria, 7.4; Ireland, 7.1; England, 6.1; Russia, 6; Italy, 4.3; Canada, 3.6; Sweden, 3.2; Scotland, 2.1; all other countries, 11.8. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Germany contributed 51.8 per cent; Ireland, 10.4; England, 6.8; Hungary, 3.7; Austria, 3.5; Canada, 3.3; Russia, 2.9; Sweden, 2.3; Scotland, 2.1; Switzerland, 2; France, 1.8; Italy, 1.8.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The total number of males 21 years of age and over is 822,434, representing 30.5 per cent of the population. Of such males, 72.5 per cent are native whites of native parentage, 14.2 per cent native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 10.8 per cent foreign-born whites, and 2.5 per cent negroes. Of the 88,927 foreign-born white males of voting age, 42,533, or 47.8 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 580,557.

Age (Tables 7, 8, and 13).—Of the total population, 10.2 per cent are under 5 years of age, 19.3 per cent from 5 to 14 years, inclusive, 18.9 per cent from 15 to 24, 28.9 per cent from 25 to 44, and 22.5 per cent 45 years of age and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 4 per cent of this class being under 15 years of age, while more than four-fifths (84 per cent) are 25 years of age and over. Of the native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, less than three-fifths (59.7 per cent) are 25 and over and of the native whites of native parentage less than one-half (47.6 per cent).

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to the city explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 33 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural population, 26 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 777,889, of whom 513,623, or 66 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 5,390 persons under 6 and 10,729 of 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 65.9; for girls, 66.2. For children from 6 to 14 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 88.2. The percentage for children of this age was highest among native whites of native parentage, 88.4, followed by negroes, 87.7; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 87.6; and foreign-born whites, 80.6. (See Table I.) There is little difference between urban and rural communities as regards the percentage attending school for persons from 6 to 14 years, but from 15 to 20, inclusive, the percentage attending school in urban communities was 26.6, and in rural, 37.1.

Illiteracy (Table 10).—There are 66,213 illiterates in the state, representing 3.1 per cent of the total population 10 years of age and over, as compared with 4.6 per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 11.7 among foreign-born whites, 2.1 among native whites, and 13.7 among negroes.

For all classes combined, the percentage of illiterates is about the same in urban communities as in rural communities, 3 and 3.1, respectively, but the percentages for native whites and for negroes are higher in rural communities than in urban communities, while the percentage for foreign-born whites is slightly lower.

For persons from 10 to 20 years of age, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is very slight, only 0.6. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Tables 11 and 14).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 34 per cent of the males are single and 26.2 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 59.8 for males and 62.3 for females, and the percentage widowed 5.1 and 10.4, respectively. The percentages of those reported as divorced, 0.8 and 0.9, respectively, are believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is so much smaller for women than for men is due largely to the fact that women marry younger. Thus 11.4 per cent of the females from 15 to 19 years of age are married, as compared with 1.2 per cent of the males, and 52.2 per cent of the females from 20 to 24 years are married, as compared with 27.2 per cent of the males. In the next age group, 25 to 34 years, the difference is not so great, 77.8 for females as against 67.7 for males, while in the age group 35 to 44 the difference practically disappears. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages of married persons among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Foreign-born whites, 63.9 for males and 66.9 for females; native whites of native parentage, 59.6 and 62.7, respectively; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 59 and 59.1; and negroes, 51.7 and 55.9.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married, both for males and females, is higher in rural than in urban communities.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in Indiana is 631,554, and the total number of families 654,891, indicating that in comparatively few cases does more than one family occupy a dwelling. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 4.3, and the average number per family, 4.1.
