

SOUTH DAKOTA.

CHAPTER 1.—NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of South Dakota, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 677) shows the population of South Dakota, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, at the last three Federal censuses, namely, those of 1910, 1900, and 1890. The arrangement of counties and of the primary divisions in each county is alphabetical, with the exception of a few counties in which most of the primary divisions are arranged numerically. The figures for secondary divisions are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

It may be noticed that the county totals as given in Table 1 for 1900 and 1890 sometimes exceed the aggregate population of the minor civil divisions as shown in the table. This is for the most part due to the fact that some minor civil divisions which were in existence in 1890 or 1900 were not in existence in 1910, their territory having been annexed to other divisions or taken to form new divisions. In a few cases the population of certain divisions returned separately at one census was returned in combination with other divisions at another census.

Table 2 (p. 690) shows the cities and the incorporated towns and villages in South Dakota, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

The population of South Dakota, by counties, at each of the last five Federal censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive; the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two Federal censuses according to urban and rural districts, are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained below:

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population, the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, school districts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the territory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 and over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present

HISTORICAL NOTE.—The name Dakota was originally that of an Indian nation which inhabited the region now comprising North and South Dakota, Montana, and Minnesota. The word signifies friends, allies, or confederates. French explorers and traders entered the present state of South Dakota early in the eighteenth century and established a number of trading posts, but the first explorers to make an authentic and trustworthy report regarding the Dakota country were Lewis and Clark, who, at the head of a United States Government expedition, ascended the Missouri River in 1804, returning in 1806. The first permanent settlement was made at Sioux Falls in 1857.

The area now known as South Dakota was originally a part of the Louisiana region, which was ceded by France to Spain in 1762, retroceded in 1800, and purchased by the United States in 1803.

The region now constituting South Dakota belonged to the district of Louisiana from 1804 to 1805, to the territory of Louisiana from 1805 to 1812, and to the territory of Missouri from 1812 to 1834. From 1834 to 1854 the part west of the Missouri and White Earth Rivers was part of the Indian country, and from 1854 to 1861 a part of Nebraska territory. The part east of these rivers belonged successively to the territories of Michigan (1834-1836), Wisconsin (1836-1838), Iowa (1838-1849), and Minnesota (1849-1858). Upon the admission of the state of Minnesota, in 1858, the region lying between that state and the Missouri and White Earth Rivers was left without legal name or existence, and it so remained until the territory of Dakota was created.

In 1861 the region extending from the Keyapaha, Niobrara, and Missouri Rivers and the forty-third parallel to the Canadian boundary and from Minnesota to the Rocky Mountains, was organized as Dakota territory, which thus included most of the present state of Montana and nearly half of what is now Wyoming. In 1863 when Idaho territory was formed the region lying between the Rocky Mountains and the present western boundaries of North and South Dakota was included. Most of the present area of Wyoming was transferred from Idaho to Dakota in 1864, and continued as a part of the latter territory until 1868, when Wyoming territory was organized. In 1882 a small tract of land lying south of the forty-third parallel and west of the Missouri River was transferred from Dakota to Nebraska.

In October, 1889, South Dakota adopted a constitution, and in the following November, with boundaries as at present, became a state of the Union.

fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities, as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the territory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two Federal censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of South Dakota is 583,888. Compared with a population of 401,570 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 182,318, or 45.4 per cent. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent. The growth of the state was much more rapid than during the preceding decade, 1890-1900, when the rate was 15.2 per cent. The following table shows the population of South Dakota at each Federal census from 1890 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole.

South Dakota was admitted as a state in 1889 and appears in the Federal census reports for the first time in 1890. That part of Dakota territory which now comprises the state of South Dakota had in 1870 a population of 11,776, which had increased to 98,268 in 1880. In 1890 the population of the state was 348,600, and since that time it has increased 235,288, of which increase more than three-fourths was during the last decade. The rate of growth for the state during this 20-year period was 67.5 per cent, while the rate for the United States was 46.1 per cent.

Principal cities.—South Dakota has 89 cities. Sioux Falls, the largest, has a population of 14,094, and Aberdeen, the second city, a population of 10,753. There are also 4 cities having from 5,000 to 10,000, 7 having from 2,500 to 5,000, and 76 having less than 2,500 inhabitants. The aggregate population of the 89 cities is 147,226, or 25.2 per cent of the total population of the state.

Table 2 shows the population in 1910 of all the cities of the state with comparative figures, where possible, for 1900 and 1890. The table following shows the population of the 6 cities having in 1910 over 5,000 inhabitants, as reported at each Federal census since their incorporation either as cities, towns, or villages, together with the increase during each decade.

Of the cities included in this table, Aberdeen, Huron, and Watertown show rates of increase for the last decade of more than 100 per cent. Aberdeen shows the highest rate of increase during the last decade, namely, 163.1 per cent, and Lead the lowest, 35.1 per cent.

Counties.—South Dakota has 67 counties, of which 57 are organized, while 10 are unorganized and form parts of Indian reservations. The population is shown separately for 63 counties only, as it is impossible to show by counties the population included in Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. The population of the 63 counties ranges from 252 in Sterling County to 29,631 in Minnehaha County.

The following territorial changes have been made in the organized counties of South Dakota since 1900: Corson County was organized in 1909 from that part of Standing Rock Indian Reservation located in South Dakota; Tripp County was organized in 1909 from part of Rosebud Indian Reservation; Harding and Perkins Counties were organized in 1909 from parts of Butte County; and part of Union County was ceded in 1908 to the state of Nebraska.

Partly because of the formation of new counties since 1900, partly because certain counties which were returned separately in 1910 were returned under Indian reservations in 1900, and partly because the population in 1910 of certain counties could not be separated from that of the Indian reservations in which they were located, the extent of increase or decrease in population can be reckoned separately for only 52 counties. In order to determine the increase or decrease in the population of the remaining 15 counties it is necessary to consider them in combinations as shown in the notes to Table I of Chapter 2. The population of the territory formerly known as Rosebud Indian Reservation—but now comprising the counties of Mellette, Todd, Tripp, and parts of Bennett and Washabaugh—increased 7,082, or 136.2 per cent; while the combined counties of Butte, Harding, and Perkins increased 17,662, or 607.6 per cent. The territory now comprising Corson County, which was organized from Standing Rock Indian Reservation, increased 1,271, or 76.7 per cent in population. The combined population of Armstrong, Dewey, Schnasse, and Sterling Counties, which form Cheyenne River Indian Reservation, decreased 29, or 1.2 per cent, while the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, comprising Shannon, Washington, and parts of Bennett and Washabaugh, decreased 220, or 3.2 per cent. Of the 52 counties for which the actual rates of increase or decrease can be determined, 49 counties increased in population during the last decade, the rates of increase ranging from 3.5 per cent in Hutchinson County to 1,016.7 per cent in Stanley County, and the absolute increases from 369 in Moody County to 13,634 in Stanley County. Three counties, Union, Clay, and Buffalo, decreased in population during the last decade, the rates of decrease being 4.3, 6.5, and 11.2, respectively. The absolute decreases were 201 in Buffalo County, 477 in Union County, and 605 in Clay County. The aggregate increase of population from 1900 to 1910 in the 49 counties and three combinations that show an increase is 183,850; the aggregate decrease of population in the three counties and two combinations that show a decrease is 1,532. The difference, 182,318, is, of course, the total increase of population in the state.

The maps on page 675 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of South Dakota during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 76,868 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 7.6; in 1900 and 1890 it was 5.2 and 4.5, respectively. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2^r and in the maps on page 676, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

Stanley County, with 4,156 square miles, has the largest area, and Sterling County, with 249 square miles, has the smallest area. Minnehaha County, containing Sioux Falls city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 36.4 persons per square mile, while Schnasse County has the lowest density, namely, 0.3. The Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, which is returned separately, has an area of 4,374 square miles and a density of 1.5 persons per square mile.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In South Dakota the counties are divided into 1,438 primary divisions, comprising 854 townships, 156 school townships, 103 school districts, 108 precincts, 86 cities, 81 towns, and 50 villages. There are also 18 secondary divisions, comprising 3 cities, 11 incorporated towns, and 4 incorporated villages. Of these, 2 cities are coextensive with the township and precinct in which they are located. These secondary divisions usually form parts of the primary divisions in which they are wholly or partly located. Besides these minor civil divisions, there are 157 unorganized townships, 3 of which have no population reported, 2 military reservations, 1 fort, 5 Indian reservations, including 2 which comprise the unorganized counties of the state, and some unorganized territory. The population of these divisions is returned under the counties in which they are wholly or partly located, except that of Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, which is returned separately by districts.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of South Dakota at the Federal censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among cities, towns, and villages grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census.

As shown by this table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, the cities of 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 76,673 inhabitants, or 13.1 per cent of the total population, while 507,215 inhabitants, or 86.9 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the cities then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 40,936 inhabitants, or 10.2 per cent of the total population, while 360,634 inhabitants, or 89.8 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been a slight increase in the proportion of urban population. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

In 1910 the two cities then having more than 10,000 inhabitants each, Sioux Falls and Aberdeen, contained 4.3 per cent of the total population of the state. In 1900 and 1890 Sioux Falls, the only city having over 10,000 inhabitants, comprised 2.6 and 2.9 per cent, respectively, of the total population of the state. The combined population of the groups of cities having between 2,500 and 10,000 inhabitants each comprised 8.9, 7.6, and 5.3 per cent of the total population of the state at the Federal censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively.

The urban population of the state is contained in 13 cities, while the rural population is in 222 cities and incorporated towns and villages of less than 2,500 inhabitants each and in the unincorporated territory. The 222 places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each have an aggregate population of 117,679, or 20.2 per cent of the total population of the state. These places comprise 32 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 42,568; 53 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 36,711; and 137 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 38,400. The inhabitants of unincorporated territory number 389,536, or 66.7 per cent of the total population of the state.

The above table shows further that in all incorporated places, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 194,352, or 33.3 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all incorporated places, as they existed in 1900, was 106,677, or 26.6 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows that 7 counties had a larger proportion and 1 county a smaller proportion of urban population in 1910 than in 1900. Four counties which were wholly rural in 1900 were partly urban in 1910, while 40 counties and the five combinations were wholly rural at both censuses.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of the same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the following table, the total population in 1910 of those cities which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 76,673; in 1900 the total population of these same cities (so far as separately reported) was 47,945. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of those cities which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 40,936 (see table above), by 7,009. The difference is the result of the passage, since 1900, of certain communities from the rural to the urban class.

In the following table the population for the state as a whole is distributed so as to show, for 1910 and 1900, the combined population of the cities having, in 1910, 2,500 inhabitants or more, and the population of the remainder of the state.

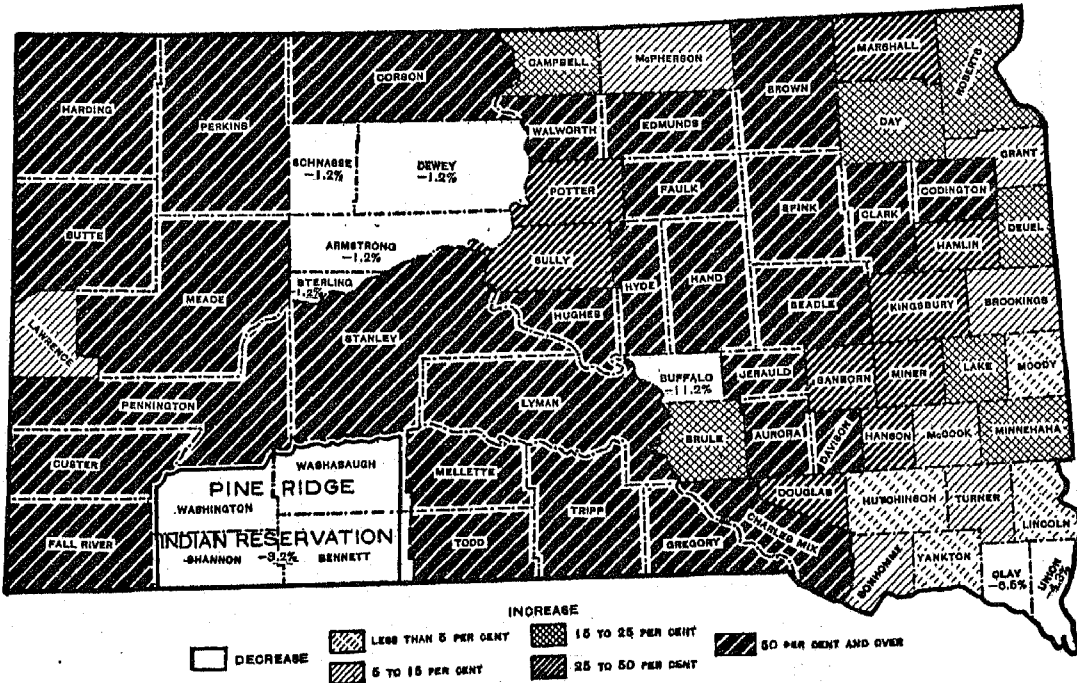

CLASS OF PLACES.	POPULATION.		INCREASE: 1900-1910

Remainder of the state.....	507,215	353,625	153,590	43.4

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of cities having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same cities in 1900, as given in the preceding table, shows an increase of 59.9 per cent. This represents the rate of growth of urban communities as thus defined. During the same period the rural population, comprising that of the remainder of the state, increased 43.4 per cent. Urban population thus increased considerably faster than rural. For the United States as a whole urban population increased 34.8 per cent in the last decade and rural population 11.2 per cent. As shown by Table I of Chapter 2 there are four counties and two combinations in South Dakota in which the population living in rural territory decreased and only one county in which there was a decrease of urban population.

CHAPTER 2.—COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of South Dakota by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of three general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for Aberdeen and Sioux Falls, the two cities of more than 10,000 inhabitants; and Table III for cities of 2,500 to 10,000 inhabitants.

A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 12) reproduces from the general tables the more important state totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among the different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of South Dakota, 245,652, or 42.1 per cent, are native whites of native parentage; 217,491, or 37.2 per cent, are native whites of foreign or mixed parentage; and 100,628, or 17.2 per cent, are foreign-born whites. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 33.9, 38.9, and 22, respectively, the comparison indicating a marked increase in the proportion of native whites of native parentage. The 19,137 Indians constitute 3.3 per cent of the population and the 817 negroes 0.1 per cent. In 51 of the 67 counties, the proportion of foreign-born whites is between 10 and 25 per cent; 5 counties report no foreign-born whites, and in 4 the proportion exceeds one-fourth. In 53 counties the population is more than one-fourth native white of foreign or mixed parentage, the proportion exceeding one-half in 4 counties. (See maps on page 699.)

Of the urban population, 51.5 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural, 40.6 per cent. The corresponding proportions for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage are 31.3 and 38.1 per cent, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 16.3 in the urban population and 17.4 in the rural; of negroes 0.5 in the urban and 0.1 in the rural. The Indians are almost exclusively found in the rural population, of which they constitute 3.8 per cent.

Sex (Table 2).—In the total population of the state there are 317,112 males and 266,776 females, or 118.9 males to 100 females. In 1900 the ratio was 116.6 to 100. Among native whites the ratio is 114.5 to 100, and among foreign-born whites 145.8. In the urban population there are 113.5 males to 100 females, and in the rural 119.7.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the native population—that is, population born in the United States—46.6 per cent were born in South Dakota and 53.4 per cent outside the state; of the native white population, 54.8 per cent were born outside the state; of the native negro 82.8 per cent; and of the native Indian 19 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Table 5).—Of the foreign-born white population of South Dakota, persons born in Germany represent 21.4 per cent; Norway, 20.8; Russia, 13.1; Sweden, 9.9; Denmark, 6.3; Canada, 6;

Austria, 5.3; England, 4; Ireland, 3; Holland, 2.6; all other countries, 7.5 per cent. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Germany contributed 26 per cent; Norway, 19.1; Russia, 10.4; Sweden, 7.3; Canada, 6.3; Ireland, 5.5; Denmark, 4.7; England, 4.7; Austria, 4.2; Holland, 2.1; Scotland, 1.3; Finland, 1 per cent.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The total number of males 21 years of age and over is 178,189, representing 30.5 per cent of the population. Of such males, 36.9 per cent are native whites of native parentage, 29.4 per cent native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 30.6 per cent foreign-born whites, 2.8 per cent Indians, and 0.2 per cent negroes. Of the 54,528 foreign-born white males of voting age, 32,495, or 59.6 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 140,635.

Age (Tables 7 and 8).—Of the total population, 12.6 per cent are under 5 years of age, 21.8 per cent from 5 to 14 years, inclusive, 20.8 per cent from 15 to 24, 28.1 per cent from 25 to 44, and 16.5 per cent 45 years of age and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 4.3 per cent of this class being under 15 years of age, while 83.6 per cent are 25 years of age and over. Of the native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 34.1 per cent are 25 and over; of the native whites of native parentage, 37.6 per cent; and of the Indians, 47.6 per cent.

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to urban communities explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 33.4 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural population, 27.3 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 183,979, of whom 122,642, or 66.7 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 1,790 children under 6 and 2,471 persons 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 66.1; for girls, 67.2. For children from 6 to 14 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 83.3. The percentage for children of this age among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage was 84.6; among native whites of native parentage, 84.1; among foreign-born whites, 72.9; among negroes, 86.4; and among Indians, 61.2. (See Table I.) The percentage of school attendance for children from 6 to 14 was 87.2 in the urban population and 82.8 in the rural; for persons from 15 to 20, the percentages were 44 and 39.8, respectively.

Illiteracy (Table 10).—There are 12,750 illiterates in the state, representing 2.9 per cent of the total population 10 years of age and over, as compared with 5 per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 45.5 among Indians, 5.5 among negroes, 5 among foreign-born whites, and 0.4 among native whites.

For all classes combined, the percentage of illiterates is 1.6 in urban communities and 3.1 in rural. More than one-half of the rural illiterates, however, are Indians. For each of the native white classes the percentage of illiterates is the same in the rural as in the urban population, and for the foreign-born whites is lower in the rural.

For persons from 10 to 20 years, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is very low, being only 0.8. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Table 11).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 44.6 per cent of the males are single and 29.3 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 50.4 for males and 63 for females, and the percentage widowed 3.6 and 6.6, respectively. The percentages of those reported as divorced, 0.6 both for males and for females, are believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is so much smaller for women than for men is due partly to the excess of males in the total population and partly to the fact that women marry younger. Thus 8 per cent of the females from 15 to 19 years of age are married, as compared with 0.4 per cent of the males, and 49.3 per cent of the females from 20 to 24 years are married, as compared with 15.6 per cent of the males; in the age group, 25 to 34 years, the percentages are 81.5 and 55.5, respectively. In the next age group, 35 to 44, the difference is less marked, while in the age group 45 and over the percentage married is higher among the males. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages of married persons among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Foreign-born whites, 62.3 for males and 75.4 for females; native whites of native parentage, 48.7 and 61.9, respectively; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 41.3 and 55.8; negroes, 47.2 and 58; Indians, 63.3 and 65.9.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married for females is higher in rural than in urban communities; for males, slightly lower.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in South Dakota is 127,739, and the total number of families 131,060, indicating that in comparatively few cases does more than one family occupy a dwelling. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 4.6, and the average number per family, 4.5.

TENNESSEE.

CHAPTER 1.—NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of Tennessee, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 724) shows the population of Tennessee, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, at the last three censuses, namely, those of 1910, 1900, and 1890. The arrangement of counties is alphabetical, while the primary divisions in each county are given in numerical order. The figures for secondary divisions are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

It may be noticed that the county totals as given in Table 1 for 1900 and 1890 sometimes exceed the aggregate population of the minor civil divisions as shown in the table. This is due in part to the fact that some of the minor civil divisions of 1890 and 1900 had gone out of existence by 1910, their territory having been annexed to other divisions, or taken to form new divisions. In some cases divisions returned separately in 1910 and 1900 were returned in combination with other divisions in 1890. Because of the numerous changes that have been made within them, or because of the lack of information in regard to such changes, no figures, except for incorporated places, are given for the minor civil divisions of three counties in 1900 and of nine counties in 1890.

Table 2 (p. 735) shows the cities and incorporated towns in Tennessee, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

The population of Tennessee, by counties, at each of the last five censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive; the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two censuses according to urban and rural districts, are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained below:

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population, the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, civil districts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the territory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 and

HISTORICAL NOTE.—Tennessee is named from its principal river. The meaning of the word in the original Indian tongue has been variously given, but the most generally accepted definition is "river of the big bend."

The first explorer of what is now Tennessee was De Soto, a Spaniard, who in 1541 reached the Mississippi probably at the present site of Memphis. In 1682 La Salle, a Frenchman, on his way down the Mississippi, built Fort Prud'homme where Memphis now stands. British subjects entered this region in about 1748, when Dr. Thomas Walker and other Virginians discovered and named the Cumberland River, Mountains, and Gap, but the first permanent settlement was not made until 1769, when Englishmen settled on the Watauga River.

On the grounds of these and other explorations the area now constituting Tennessee was claimed by the Spanish, the French, and the English. The Spanish, however, made no attempt at settlement, and the French ceded their claims to Great Britain in 1763, at the close of the French and Indian War. The Indian claims to lands in this region were ceded to the English in 1763, by the treaty of Fort Stanwix, N. Y., and at subsequent dates by other treaties.

The present area of Tennessee was included in the Virginia grants of 1609 and 1612; part of the area was included in the Carolina grant of 1663 and all was included in the extension of the grant two years later. In 1784 the Tennessee region was ceded by North Carolina to the Federal Government on condition that the cession be accepted within two years. The inhabitants indignant at this transfer organized the so-called state of Franklin, which continued in existence until 1788, although it was not recognized by Congress or the parent state.

In 1790 the Tennessee region was again ceded by North Carolina to the United States, whereupon the ceded territory, together with a strip of land about 12 miles in width, lying south of the thirty-fifth parallel and extending from the Mississippi River to the boundary of South Carolina, was organized as the Territory South of the River Ohio. Early in 1790 a state constitution was adopted for that part of the territory lying north of the thirty-fifth parallel, and, by act of Congress approved June 1 of that year, Tennessee, with boundaries as at present, was admitted to the Union.

over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities, as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the territory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of the state of Tennessee is 2,184,789. Compared with a population of 2,020,616 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 164,173, or 8.1 per cent. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent. The growth of the state was much slower than during the preceding decade, 1890–1900, when the rate was 14.3 per cent.

The following table shows the population of Tennessee at each census from 1790 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole.

CENSUS YEAR.	Population.	INCREASE OVER PRECEDING CENSUS.		Per cent of increase for the United States.

1800.....	105,602	69,911	195.9	35.1
1790.....	35,691

It will be noticed from this table that the most rapid growth in the population of Tennessee was during the early decades. The population of the state in 1800 was nearly three times as great as in 1790, in 1810 it was nearly two and one-half times as great as in 1800, while during the next two decades, 1810–1830, the population increased more than two and one-half times. Since 1830 the state has grown less rapidly, the rates varying considerably from decade to decade. The highest rate of increase in that period, 22.6 per cent, was for the decade 1870–1880 and the lowest rate, 8.1 per cent, was for the last decade, 1900–1910. The numerical increase for the last decade is smaller than that for any decade since 1870.

A comparison of the rates of increase for the state with those for the United States, as given in the preceding table, shows that from 1790 to 1830 the increase during each decade was much more rapid for the state than for the country as a whole. During this 40-year period the population of the state increased a little more than nineteen times, while that of the United States increased less than three and one-third times. Since 1830, on the other hand, the growth during each decade has been less rapid for the state than for the United States, the population of the state increasing three and one-fifth times during this period, while that of the country as a whole increased a little more than seven times. During this period, 1830–1910, only two decades, 1870–1880 and 1890–1900, showed rates of increase for the state equaling two-thirds the rates for the United States, while during the decade, 1850 to 1860, the rate of increase for the state was less than one-third and from 1900 to 1910, less than one-half the rate for the country as a whole.

Principal cities.—Tennessee has 26 cities. Memphis, the largest, has a population of 131,105, and Nashville, the second city, a population of 110,364. Chattanooga, Knoxville, and Jackson, with 44,604, 36,346, and 15,779 inhabitants, respectively, are the other cities in the state having over 10,000 inhabitants. There are also 3 cities having from 5,000 to 10,000, 6 having from 2,500 to 5,000, and 12 having less than 2,500 inhabitants. The aggregate population of the 26 cities is 396,833, or 18.2 per cent of the total population of the state.

15,000 inhabitants, as reported at each census since their incorporation either as cities or towns, so far as figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

³ Not returned separately.

Of the cities included in this table, Chattanooga and Nashville are the only ones showing a higher rate of increase for the last decade than for the preceding decade. Chattanooga shows the highest rate of increase during the last decade, namely, 47.9 per cent, and Jackson the lowest, 8.7 per cent.

Memphis has had a substantial growth of population during each decade since 1850 except that from 1870 to 1880, which showed a decrease of 16.5 per cent. The rate of increase for the last decade, however, was less than half that for any of the other decades showing increases.

The growth in the population of Nashville from 1830 to 1890 was rapid and comparatively regular, the increase for the first decade being about one-fourth, or 24.5 per cent, and the rates of increase for the other decades ranging from 46.7 to 75.7 per cent. The growth of the city during the decade 1890-1900 was small. During the decade 1900-1910 the growth was substantial, the numerical increase being larger than that recorded for any other decade except one, 1880-1890.

Counties.—Tennessee has 96 counties. The population of these counties ranges from 2,784 in Van Buren County to 191,439 in Shelby County.

The following territorial changes have been made in the counties of Tennessee since 1900: Part of Lauderdale County was annexed to Mississippi County, Arkansas, in 1905, and part of Wayne County was annexed to Perry County in 1909.

Fifty-nine counties increased in population during the last decade, the rates of increase ranging from two-tenths of 1 per cent in Hardeman and Perry Counties to 58.2 per cent in Campbell County, and the absolute increases from 15 in Perry County to 37,882 in Shelby County. Thirty-one counties showed a larger rate of increase than was shown for the state as a whole, which, as before stated, was 8.1 per cent. Thirty-seven counties decreased in population during the last decade, the rates of decrease ranging from less than one-tenth of 1 per cent in Jackson County to 18.2 per cent in Meigs County, and the absolute decreases from 3 in Jackson County to 2,345 in Montgomery County. During the preceding decade, 1890-1900, only eight counties in the state showed a decrease in population. The aggregate increase of population from 1900 to 1910 in the 59 counties that showed an increase was 197,253; the aggregate decrease of population in the 37 counties that showed a decrease was 33,080. The difference, 164,173, is, of course, the total increase of population in the state.

The maps on page 722 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of Tennessee during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 41,687 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 52.4; in 1900 and 1890 it was 48.5 and 42.4, respectively. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9. In density of population Tennessee ranks thirteenth among the states.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2 and in the maps on page 723, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

Shelby County, with 801 square miles, has the largest area, and Trousdale County, with 106 square miles, has the smallest area. Davidson County, containing Nashville city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 292.5 persons per square mile, while Van Buren County, with 9.5 persons per square mile, has the lowest density.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In Tennessee the counties are divided into 1,242 primary divisions, comprising that number of civil districts. There are also 189 secondary divisions, comprising 26 cities and 163 incorporated towns. These secondary divisions usually form parts of their respective districts, but one city is coextensive with the civil district in which it is located, and another includes within its limits two districts and part of another, while a third includes one district and parts of four others.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of Tennessee at the censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among cities and towns grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census. Bristol town, Tennessee, and Bristol city, Virginia, each separately incorporated, are together commonly known as Bristol city, which had a joint population of 13,395 in 1910, 9,850 in 1900, and 6,226 in 1890. For the purposes of this table the group of urban places, in which Bristol town is classed, is determined by the joint population of Bristol city and not by the population of Bristol town, which was 7,148 in 1910, 5,271 in 1900, and 3,324 in 1890.

As shown by the above table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, the cities and incorporated towns of 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 441,045 inhabitants, or 20.2 per cent of the total population, while 1,743,744 inhabitants, or 79.8 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the cities and incorporated towns then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 326,639 inhabitants, or 16.2 per cent of the total population, while 1,693,977 inhabitants, or 83.8 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been a slight increase in the proportion of urban population. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

In 1910 Memphis and Nashville, the two cities in the state having over 100,000 inhabitants, contributed 11.1 per cent of the total population of the state; in 1900 and 1890 the proportion of the population of the state in these two cities was 9.1 and 8 per cent, respectively. The smaller urban places, or those outside of Memphis and Nashville, contributed 9.1 per cent of the total population of the state in 1910, 7.1 per cent in 1900, and 5.5 per cent in 1890.

The urban population of the state is contained in 14 cities and 15 towns, while the rural population is in 160 cities and incorporated towns of less than 2,500 inhabitants and in unincorporated communities. The 160 cities and towns of less than 2,500 inhabitants each have an aggregate population of 133,940, or 6.1 per cent of the total population of the state. These places comprise 50 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 82,649; 47 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 32,911; and 63 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 18,380.

The above table shows further that in all cities and incorporated towns, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 574,985, or 26.3 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all cities and incorporated towns, as they existed in 1900, was 400,723, or 19.8 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows that of the 21 counties of Tennessee which contained urban population in 1900, 18 had a larger and 2 a smaller proportion of urban population in 1910 than in 1900, while 1 had the same proportion. Of the remaining counties which were wholly rural in 1900, 6 had a considerable proportion of urban population in 1910.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of the same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the table in the next column, the total population in 1910 of the cities and towns which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 441,045; in 1900 the total population of these same places (so far as separately reported) was 335,722. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of the cities and towns which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 326,639 (see table on page 720), by 9,083. The difference is the result of the passage, since 1900, of certain communities from the rural to the urban class and of the annexation of territory during the same period.

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of cities and towns having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same places in 1900, as given in the next table, shows an increase of 31.4 per cent. This represents the rate of growth of urban communities as thus defined. During the same period the rural population, comprising that of the remainder of the state, increased only 3.5 per cent. The population of urban areas thus increased almost nine times as fast as rural. For the United States as a whole urban population increased 34.8 per cent in the last decade and rural population 11.2 per cent. As shown by Table I of Chapter 2 there are 45 counties in Tennessee in which the population living in rural territory decreased, and 2 in which the urban population decreased, Maury and Montgomery being the only counties which decreased in population in both rural and urban districts.

In the following table the population for the state as a whole is distributed so as to show, for 1910 and 1900, the combined population of the cities having, in 1910, 100,000 inhabitants or more, from 25,000 to 100,000, and of cities and towns having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants, respectively, and the population of the remainder of the state.

¹ Exclusive of population (115) of territory ceded to Arkansas in 1905.

From this table it appears that the group of cities and towns having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants increased in population during the last decade more than four times as rapidly as the state as a whole, while the other two groups, comprising the cities of from 25,000 to 100,000 inhabitants and the cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more, increased less than four times as rapidly. The rate of increase for rural population was less than one-half that for the population of the state as a whole.

CHAPTER 2.—COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of Tennessee by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of five general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for cities of 25,000 inhabitants or more; Table III for places of 10,000 to 25,000; Table IV for places of 2,500 to 10,000; and Table V for wards of Memphis and Nashville, the only cities of more than 50,000.

A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 15) reproduces from the general tables the more important state and city totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among the different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of Tennessee, 1,711,432, or 78.3 per cent, are whites, and 473,088, or 21.7 per cent, negroes. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 76.2 and 23.8, respectively. In 79 of the 96 counties less than one-fourth of the population are negroes; in Fayette and Haywood Counties, however, the proportion is more than two-thirds (75 per cent and 68.4 per cent, respectively). (See also map on page 767.)

Native whites of native parentage constitute 75.7 per cent of the total population of the state and 96.7 per cent of the white population. Native whites of foreign or mixed parentage constitute only 1.7 per cent of the total population, and foreign-born whites only 0.8 per cent.

Of the urban population, 57.2 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural population, 80.4 per cent. The corresponding proportions for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage are 5.9 and 0.7 per cent, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 2.9 in the urban population and 0.3 in the rural; the percentage of negroes is 34.1 in the urban and 18.5 in the rural.

Sex (Table 2).—In the total population of the state there are 1,103,491 males and 1,081,298 females, or 102.1 males to 100 females. In 1900 the ratio was 102.2 to 100. Among the whites there are 103.3 males to 100 females, and among the negroes 97.6. For all native whites combined the ratio is 102.9 to 100, as compared with 152.4 to 100 for the foreign-born whites. In the urban population there are 95.4 males to 100 females, and in the rural, 103.8.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the native population—that is, population born in the United States—86.5 per cent were born in Tennessee and 13.5 per cent outside the state; of the native white population, 12.6 per cent were born outside the state, and of the native negro, 16.9 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a much larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Tables 5 and 12).—Of the foreign-born white population of Tennessee, persons born in Germany represent 21.1 per cent; Russia, 13.5; Ireland, 12.4; England, 11.1; Italy, 11; Canada, 6.2; Switzerland, 4.3; Austria, 3.5; Scotland, 3; all other countries, 14. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Germany contributed 25.6 per cent; Ireland, 19.6; England, 11.4; Russia, 7.5; Italy, 6.6; Canada, 5; Switzerland, 4.2; Scotland, 3.4; Austria, 2 per cent.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The total number of males 21 years of age and over is 552,668, representing 25.3 per cent of the population. Of such males, 78.4 per cent are whites and 21.6 per cent negroes. Native whites represent 76.6 per cent of the total number and foreign-born whites 1.8 per cent. Of the 10,112 foreign-born white males of voting age, 5,444, or 53.8 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 423,088.

Age (Tables 7, 8, and 13).—Of the total population, 13.5 per cent are under 5 years of age, 23.4 per cent from 5 to 14 years, inclusive, 20.6 per cent from 15 to 24, 25.6 per cent from 25 to 44, and 16.8 per cent 45 years of age and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 5.1 per cent of this class being under 15 years of age, while more than five-sixths (83.9 per cent) are 25 years of age and over. The negro population comprises a somewhat smaller proportion of children under 15 than the native white population of native parentage.

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to the city explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 33.7 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural population, 23.5 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 738,478, of whom 438,547, or 59.4 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 5,409 persons under 6 and 7,234 of 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 59.2; for girls, 59.6. For children from 6 to 14 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 72.1. The percentage for children of this age among native whites of native parentage was 75.2; among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 83.6; among foreign-born whites, 78.9; and among negroes, 60.1. (See Table I.) In urban communities the percentage of children of that age attending school was 77.5; in rural communities, 71.1.

Illiteracy (Table 10).—There are 221,071 illiterates in the state, representing 13.6 per cent of the total population 10 years of age and over, as compared with 20.7 per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 27.3 among negroes, 9.7 among native whites, and 8.3 among foreign-born whites. It is 9.9 for native whites of native parentage, as against 1.8 for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage.

Illiterates are relatively fewer in urban than in rural communities, the percentages being 8.9 and 15, respectively. The rural percentage exceeds the urban for each class of the population except the foreign-born whites, most of whom arrive in this country when past the school age, and among whom the percentage of illiteracy is the same in urban as in rural communities.

For persons from 10 to 20 years of age, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is 8. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Tables 11 and 14).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 35 per cent of the males are single and 27.3 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 59.1 for males and 60 for females, and the percentage widowed 5.2 and 11.7, respectively. The number reported as divorced, comprising 0.4 per cent of the males and 0.8 per cent of the females, is believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is so much smaller for women than for men is due largely to the fact that women marry younger. Thus 18.3 per cent of the females from 15 to 19 years of age are married, as compared with 3.1 per cent of the males; and 58.1 per cent of the females from 20 to 24 years are married, as compared with 35.4 per cent of the males. In the next age group, 25 to 34 years, the percentages are 77.2 and 71.6, respectively, while in the age groups 35 to 44 and 45 and over the percentage married is higher among the males. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages of married persons among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Foreign-born whites, 63.2 for males, 62.2 for females; native whites of native parentage, 59.9 and 61.6, respectively; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 53.8 and 53.4, respectively; negroes, 56.4 for males and 55.5 for females.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married, both for males and females, is higher in rural than in urban communities.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in Tennessee is 444,814, and the total number of families 462,553, indicating that in comparatively few cases does more than one family occupy a dwelling. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 4.9, and the average number per family, 4.7.
