TEXAS

POPULATION—TEXAS

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—Texas, originally a part of Mexico, won its independence by revolution in 1835 and 1836, and continued as an independent republic until 1845, when it was annexed to the United States and admitted to the Union as the twenty-eighth State. The territory now constituting parts of New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, and a small part of Wyoming, was included within the limits of the State until 1850, when its boundaries were established as at present. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 5,824,715, which represents an increase of 1,161,487, or 24.9 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 262,398 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 22.2, as compared with 17.8 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of Texas from 1850, the year of its first enumeration, to 1930, together with the increase during each decade.

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6) the population of Texas is shown by counties, justices' precincts, commissioners' precincts, cities, towns, and villages, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are 36 cities in the State which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase or decrease during each decade. Houston, the largest city in the State, has a population of 292,352, representing an increase of 154,076, or 111.4 per cent, over its population in 1920. Dallas, the second city in the State, has 260,475 inhabitants, and San Antonio is third, with a population of 231,542. Fort Worth and El Paso are both in the population class between 100,000 and 200,000. There are five cities in the State in the population group between 50,000 and 100,000. These cities in the order of their population are Beaumont, Austin, Galveston, Waco, and Fort Arthur.

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 254 counties in Texas from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. One new county has been organized from parts of three others, and three counties have been organized from unorganized counties of the same name, since 1920. Five other counties have added to their area due to the relocation of the one-hundredth meridian (U. S. Supreme Court decision, March 17, 1930). Of the 245 counties, the boundaries of which have not been changed since 1920, 176 have increased in population, while 69 have decreased.

¹ State total for 1890 includes 4 Indians specially enumerated, not returned as part of the population of any county; population of Bachel and Foley Counties (323) annexed to Brewster in 1897; and of Encinal (2,744) annexed to Webb in 1899.² The following counties were organized from unorganized counties of same names: Andrews (in 1910), Bailey (1919), Cochran (1924), Crane (1927), Dawson (1905), Gaines (1905), Garza (1907), Gray (1902), Hookley (1921), Hutchinson (1901), Lamb (1908), Lynn (1903), Parmar (1907), Schleicher (1901), Terry (1904), Upton (1910), Winkler (1910), and Yoakum (1909).³ Real organized from parts of Bandera, Edwards, and Kerr in 1913.⁴ Brooks organized from parts of Hidalgo, Starr, and Zapata in 1911; part taken to form part of Jim Hogg in 1913.⁵ Old Willacy organized from parts of Cameron and Hidalgo in 1911; name changed to Kenedy in 1921; new Willacy organized from parts of Cameron, Hidalgo, and Kenedy in 1921.⁶ Relocation of the one-hundredth meridian (U. S. Supreme Court decision of Mar. 17, 1930), resulted in the following changes in Texas counties: Part of Harmon County, Okla., acquired by Childress County, Tex.; parts of Beckham and Harmon, Okla., acquired by Collingsworth, Tex.; parts of Ellis and Roger Mills, Okla., acquired by Hemphill, Tex.; part of Ellis, Okla., by Lipscomb, Tex.; parts of Beckham and Roger Mills, Okla., by Wheeler, Tex.⁷ Culberson and Hudspeth organized from parts of El Paso in 1911 and 1917, respectively.⁸ Jim Hogg organized from parts of Brooks and Duval in 1913.⁹ Ford organized from parts of Hardeman and Knox in 1891.¹⁰ Parts of Hidalgo taken to form Brooks and old Willacy in 1911 and present Willacy in 1921.¹¹ Jim Wells and Kleberg organized from parts of Nueces in 1911 and 1913, respectively.¹² Terrell organized from part of Pecos in 1905.¹³ Reagan organized from part of Tom Green in 1903.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties of Texas are known as justices' precincts and commissioners' precincts. One county (Loving) is unorganized and has no primary divisions. The justices' precincts or commissioners' precincts include the secondary divisions, which are incorporated as cities, towns, and villages. Table 4 shows the population of each county by precincts, cities, towns, and villages, for the last three censuses. The population of the cities, towns, and villages is shown in italics under the population of the precincts in which the places are respectively located. Several of the cities and towns comprise two or more precincts, or parts of precincts. Where an incorporated place occupies two or more precincts, or parts of precincts, the population of the place is given in connection with the presentation for the first precinct.

Changes in the boundaries of precincts and incorporated places between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920, reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

TABLE 4.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930, 1920, AND 1910

[The "precincts" shown in the table, unless otherwise stated, are justices' precincts. For changes in boundaries, etc., between 1920 and 1930 see footnotes; for those between 1910 and 1920 see Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Vol. I, Table 53]

UTAH

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—Utah was organized as a Territory in 1850 and admitted to the Union as the forty-fifth State in 1896. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 507,847, which represents an increase of 58,451, or 13 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 82,184 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 6.2, as compared with 5.5 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of Utah from 1850, the year in which the Territory of Utah was first separately enumerated, to 1930, together with the increase during each decade.

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6) the population of Utah is shown by counties, election precincts, cities, and towns, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are three cities in Utah which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during each decade. Salt Lake City, the capital, is the largest city in the State, with a population of 140,267, which represents an increase of 22,157, or 18.3 per cent, over its population in 1920. Ogden is the second city in the State, with 40,272 inhabitants, and Provo, with a population of 14,766, is the third in rank.

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 29 counties in Utah from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. Of these counties, 17 increased in population between 1920 and 1930, and 12 show decreases. No new counties have been organized and there have been no changes in county boundaries since the census of 1920.

¹¹ Part taken to form Duchesne in 1915.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties of Utah are known as election precincts. These election precincts include the secondary divisions, which are incorporated as cities and towns. Table 4 shows the population of each county by election precincts, cities, and towns for the last three censuses. The population of the cities and towns is shown in italics under the population of the precincts in which the places are respectively located. Where a city or town occupies two or more precincts or parts of precincts, the total population of the place is given in connection with the presentation for the first precinct.

Changes in the boundaries of the precincts and cities between 1920 and 1930, are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920, reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

TABLE 4.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930, 1920, AND 1910

[The "precincts" shown in the table are election precincts. In many of the counties, numbers have been assigned to these precincts since 1920. When no comparative figures are shown the counties have been organized at some time between the censuses, or have been restricted. For other changes in boundaries between 1920 and 1930, see footnotes; for those between 1910 and 1920, see Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Vol. I, Table 53]

VERMONT

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—Vermont was admitted to the Union in 1791 as the fourteenth State, and was the first to be admitted after the adoption of the Constitution by the original thirteen States. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 359,611, which represents an increase of 7,183, or 2.0 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 9,124 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 39.4, as compared with 38.6 in 1920.

Counties, cities, and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6), the population of Vermont is shown by counties, towns, cities, and other minor civil divisions, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Principal cities.—There are three cities in the State which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. These cities retain the same relative rank that they have held for several decades, and all show substantial increases in population. Table 2 shows the population of these cities, Burlington, Rutland, and Barre, together with St. Albans, the fourth city, and Montpelier, the capital, at each census for which figures are available, together with the increases or decreases during each decade.

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 14 counties of Vermont from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area and population per square mile in 1930. Of these counties seven show increases in population and seven show decreases. Chittenden County, including the cities of Burlington and Winooski, shows the largest increase, both in number and in percentage. Washington County, whose population decreased 6.7 per cent between 1910 and 1920, shows an increase of 7.2 per cent for the past decade.

Minor civil divisions.—Table 4 shows the population of each county by towns, cities, and other minor civil divisions. The counties in Vermont are divided into towns and cities, except in the more sparsely settled areas where there are several unorganized townships and divisions known as "grants" and "gores." The population of the incorporated villages (including Brattleboro, whose incorporation was discontinued in 1927 but whose boundaries are still definitely known) is shown in italics under the population of the towns in which the villages are respectively located.

Changes in the boundaries of towns and cities between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920 reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

TABLE 4.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930, 1920, AND 1910

[A blank in the column for any year indicates that no population was returned. Areas in which no population has been reported at any of the last three censuses are not shown. For changes in boundaries, etc., between 1920 and 1930, see footnotes; for those between 1910 and 1920, see Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Vol. I, Table 53]

³ WINDSOR.—Perkinsville village incorporated in 1923.

Cities and villages.—Table 5 shows the population of cities and incorporated villages in Vermont in 1930 and 1920. These places are arranged in alphabetical order, each followed by the name of the county in which it is located. In Table 6 the population of the places having 5,000 inhabitants or more is shown by wards.

VIRGINIA

POPULATION—VIRGINIA

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—Virginia, one of the original thirteen States, included; in 1790, the areas now constituting the States of Kentucky and West Virginia. Kentucky was admitted to the Union as a separate State in 1792 and West Virginia in 1863. The population of Virginia, on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 2,421,851, which represents an increase of 112,664, or 4.9 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 40,262 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 60.2, as compared with 57.4 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of Virginia from 1790, the year of the first Federal census, to 1930, together with the increase in each decade. The population shown for 1790 does not include that of the present State of Kentucky, but the population given for each census year prior to 1870 includes that of the present State of West Virginia. The population at censuses prior to 1870 of the present area of Virginia was as follows: 1860, 1,219,630; 1850, 1,119,348; 1840, 1,015,260; 1830, 1,034,481; 1820, 928,558; 1810, 869,131; 1800, 801,608; 1790, 691,737.

Counties, cities, and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6), the population of Virginia is shown by counties, cities, magisterial districts, and towns, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are 14 cities in the State which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase or decrease in each decade. Richmond, the capital and largest city, has shown a consistent growth since its first enumeration. Its greatest absolute increase was in the decade 1900 to 1910. Norfolk, the second city, has held this rank since the Census of 1870. Roanoke, in 1930, becomes the third city in Virginia, with Portsmouth fourth. Lynchburg has become the fifth city in the place of Newport News, which is now in sixth place, followed in order by Petersburg, Alexandria, Danville, Charlottesville, and Staunton. Hopewell, Winchester, and Suffolk, the smallest cities in this group, first attained a population of 10,000 between 1920 and 1930.

Counties.—Virginia has 100 counties and 24 independent cities, each of the latter having the same status as a county. No new counties have been formed in the past decade, but two cities—Martinsville and South Norfolk—became independent of Henry and Norfolk Counties, respectively. Two others, Hampton and Williamsburg, included in 1920 in the population figures for Elizabeth City and James City Counties, respectively, are now shown as independent of these counties. Table 3 shows the population of the counties of Virginia from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. For convenience in presentation, the population of each of the independent cities is shown in the table immediately following that of the county in which it is geographically located, although the county population as given does not include that of the independent city.

¹² Harrisonburg city, formerly in Rockingham County, incorporated as a city and made independent in 1916.

¹⁶ Newport News city, formerly in Warwick County, made independent in 1896; parts of Warwick and Elizabeth City Counties annexed in 1917 and 1926, respectively.

¹⁷ Bristol city, formerly in Washington County, made independent in 1890. For combined population of Bristol city in Virginia and Tennessee see footnote 3, Table 5.

¹⁸ Part annexed to Williamsburg city in 1925.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties are the magisterial districts. These magisterial districts include the secondary divisions known as towns. The 24 independent cities in Virginia have a status similar to that of counties. In the tables, the population of these cities is given immediately following that of the counties in which they are geographically located. Several towns comprise parts of two or more magisterial districts. Table 4 shows the population of each county by magisterial districts, cities, and towns. The population of incorporated towns is shown in italics under the population of the magisterial district in which each respective place is located. Italics are also used for the figures representing the population at censuses prior to 1930 of cities which have recently been made independent, to indicate that the figures are not to be added in with the counties and other independent cities to make the State total (having been already counted once), and in other similar cases. When an incorporated place occupies parts of two or more districts, the total population of the place is given in connection with the presentation for the first district.

Changes in the boundaries of districts and incorporated places between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920, reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

TABLE 4.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930, 1920 AND 1910

[The "districts" shown in the table are magisterial districts. Independent cities follow counties in which located. For changes in boundaries, etc., between 1920 and 1930, see footnotes; for those between 1910 and 1920, see Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Vol. I, Table 53]

WASHINGTON

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—Washington was organized as a Territory in 1853 and was admitted to the Union as the forty-second State in 1889. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 1,563,396, which represents an increase of 206,775, or 15.2 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 66,836 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 23.4, as compared with 20.3 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of Washington from 1860, the year in which the Territory of Washington was first separately enumerated, to 1930, together with the increase during each decade.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF WASHINGTON: 1860 TO 1930

CENSUS YEAR	Population	INCREASE OVER PRECEDING CENSUS
		Number	Per cent
1930	1,563,396	206,775	15.2
1920	1,356,621	214,631	18.8
1910	1,141,990	623,887	120.4
1900	518,103	169,871	45.0

1880	75,116	51,161	213.6
1870	23,955	12,361	100.6
1860	11,594

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6), the population of Washington is shown by counties, election precincts, townships, cities, and towns, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are 15 cities in Washington which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase or decrease during each decade. Seattle, the largest city in the State, had a population of 365,583, representing an increase of 50,271, or 15.9 per cent, as compared with the population in 1920. Spokane, the second city in the State, had 115,514 inhabitants, and Tacoma, the third city, a population of 106,817. The next four cities, in the order of population, are Bellingham, Everett, Yakima, and Aberdeen. Five cities in the State first attained a population of 10,000 between 1920 and 1930. One of these, Longview, in Cowlitz County, was not incorporated until 1924.

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 39 counties of Washington from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. Of these counties, 27 have increased in population since 1920, and 12 show decreases. No new counties have been organized, and there have been no changes in county boundaries since the census of 1920.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties of Washington are the election precincts, townships, and independent cities and towns. Table 4 shows the population of each county by election precincts, townships, cities, and towns for the last three censuses. The election precincts include the secondary divisions which are incorporated as cities and towns. The population of these incorporated places is shown in italics under the population of the precincts in which they are respectively located. Where an incorporated place occupies two or more precincts, or parts of precincts, the total population of the place is given in connection with the presentation for the first precinct. The population of a number of cities, each of which includes several entire precincts is presented in roman type followed by the precinct population in italic type. In Spokane and Whatcom Counties the cities and towns are primary divisions.

Changes in the boundaries of election precincts, townships, cities, and towns between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920, reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

The "precincts" shown in this table are election precincts. A blank in the column for any year indicates that no population was returned. Areas in which no population has been reported at any of the last three censuses are not shown. For changes in boundaries, etc., between 1920 and 1930 see footnotes; for those between 1910 and 1920, see Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Vol. I, Table 53]

WEST VIRGINIA

POPULATION—WEST VIRGINIA

Population of the State.—West Virginia, originally a part of Virginia, was admitted to the Union as the thirty-fifth State in June, 1863. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 1,729,205, which represents an increase of 265,504, or 18.1 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 24,022 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 72, as compared with 60.9 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of West Virginia from 1870 to 1930, inclusive, together with the increase in each decade. The population at each census prior to 1870 of that part of Virginia which was later taken to form West Virginia, was as follows: 1860, 376,688; 1850, 302,313; 1840, 224,537; 1830, 176,924; 1820, 136,808; 1810, 105,469; 1800, 78,592; 1790, 55,873.

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6) the population of West Virginia is shown by counties, magisterial districts, cities, towns, and villages, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are 10 cities in the State which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during each decade. Huntington, with a population of 75,572, is the largest city in the State. Wheeling, with a population of 61,659, is the second city in West Virginia, and is closely followed by Charleston, the capital, with a population of 60,408. Other important cities in the order of their population are Parkersburg, Clarksburg, Fairmont, Bluefield, Morgantown, Martinsburg, and Moundsville. The combined population of Bluefield, W. Va., and the neighboring town of Bluefield, Va., is 23,245.

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 55 counties of West Virginia from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. Of the counties in West Virginia, 36 have increased in population since 1920 and 19 have decreased.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties of West Virginia are termed "magisterial districts." These magisterial districts include the secondary divisions, which are incorporated as cities, towns, or villages. Table 4 shows the population of each county by magisterial districts, cities, towns, and villages for the last three censuses. The population of the secondary divisions is shown in italics under the population of the magisterial districts in which they are respectively situated. Several of the cities are coextensive with the magisterial districts in which they are located, and some of the larger cities comprise two or more districts or parts of districts. Where an incorporated place occupies parts of two districts, the total population of the place is given in connection with the presentation for the first district.

Changes in the boundaries of districts and incorporated places between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920 reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

TABLE 4.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930, 1920, AND 1910

[The "districts" shown in the table are magisterial districts. For changes in boundaries, etc., between 1920 and 1930, see footnotes; for those between 1910 and 1920, see Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Vol. I, Table 53]
