

COMMODITY SECTION 1

FOOD GROUP

The food group includes 13 business classifications, of which all except "other food stores" are analyzed by commodity sales. Eating and drinking places primarily engaged in selling prepared foods and drinks for consumption on the premises are not included in the food group (see Commodity Section 9) and stores primarily engaged in selling packaged liquor are also classified elsewhere (see Commodity Section 11). Descriptions of the several kinds of business in this group appear on page 912 of the appendix.

The following table lists the kinds of business in the food group and shows the size of the commodity samples:

The commodity blocks used by stores in this group, for reporting their analyses of sales, are reproduced on pages 918 and 920 of the appendix.

Grocery stores (without fresh meats) and combination stores (groceries-meats) used block 1 of Form 20, or block 11 of Form 21. The data for these kinds of business are presented in two sales-size groups, the figures for stores with annual sales of $20,000 or more being based upon reports for stores using Form 21, while the figures for stores with less than $20,000 of annual sales are from Form 20. Separate tables also are shown presenting data for self-service grocery stores and self-service combination stores with annual sales of more than $20,000 for each geographic division by types of operation.

Fish (sea food) markets, and fruit stores and vegetable markets used block 1 of Form 20, or block 11 of Form 21; delicatessen stores, candy and nut stores, and confectionery stores reported in block 2 or block 12, depending upon which schedule form was used. The data reported in the two blocks for each of these kinds of business were combined in preparing the following tables and are shown in consolidated form. Meat markets reporting on Form 20 used block 1 and those reporting on Form 21 used block 11. Only the data reported on Form 21 are presented for meat markets.

Bakeries and caterers were provided with a separate block on Form 21 (block 12) as were dairy products stores, milk dealers, and egg and poultry dealers (block 13). Therefore, the commodity data for these four kinds of business are limited to stores reporting on Form 21 and do not reflect the sales of smaller stores whose annual volume was less than $20,000.

For full explanation of the method of presenting commodity data, and description of the tables shown, see text beginning on page 1.

GENERAL STORES (WITH FOOD)

General stores (with food) sell a general line of merchandise such as hardware, farm supplies, apparel, and notions, with a substantial volume of food. These stores frequently sell gasoline and related automotive supplies and accessories. They are located typically but not exclusively in the smaller communities, and frequently are known as general merchandise stores or country general stores. Many general stores designated as such on their schedules, but shown by their commodity sales analysis to be predominantly food stores, are therefore classified as grocery or combination stores. Others were found to be feed stores, or filling stations, or general merchandise stores, and are classified as such rather than as general stores.

The number of general stores (with food) that reported commodity analyses was 23,983 or 60.4 percent of the 39,688 stores classified as general stores. The $565,758,000 sales of these 23,983 stores amounted to 69.8 percent of the sales of all general stores (with food), which totaled $810,342,000.

Two commodity blocks, which are reproduced on pages 918 and 921 of the appendix, were used by general stores for reporting their analyses of sales. These are block 1 of Form 20, and block 18 of Form 21. The data are presented in two sales-size groups, the figures for stores with annual sales of $20,000 or more being based upon reports from stores using Form 21, while the figures for stores with less than $20,000 annual sales are from Form 20. In the case of stores using Form 21, a break-down of "other sales" was available in a supplementary block (block 36, p. 922) and it is from this block that information was obtained on sales of commodities shown in the following tables which were not listed in block 18.
