work agencies at about the time of the census was 2,908,196, excluding the NYA Student Work Program, and 3,377,978 including that program. The amount of misclassification varied greatly from State to State. Among the factors that were responsible for the misclassification were confusion on the part of the enumerators and respondents regarding the classification of certain types of public emergency work, and reluctance on the part of some persons to report that they were on emergency work.

The most common type of misclassification was the reporting of emergency workers as "at work" rather than as "on public emergency work." Persons on the NYA Student Work Program were very frequently returned as in school and not in the labor force. There is also evidence that a considerable number of emergency workers were classified as seeking work.

MAJOR OCCUPATION GROUP

The data on major occupation group presented here are limited to those persons who were employed during the week of March 24 to 30, 1940, and refer to the current occupations at which the persons were employed during that week. The 10 major occupation groups shown here are principal subdivisions of the detailed occupational classification, comprising 451 specific occupation titles, which was used in the 1940 census. The specific occupations in each of the major groups are shown in the tables in Volume III of the Reports on Population, entitled "The Labor Force."

The data on migration status of employed workers by major occupation group and sex are summarized for the United States in table V.
