PREFACE

This report presents statistics from the 1960 Census of Population on persons by the composition and the social economic, and housing characteristics of the families of which they are members. Legal provision for this census, which was conducted as of April 1, 1960, was made in the Act of Congress of August 31, 1954 (amended August 1957), which codified Title 13 United States Code.

The major portion of the information compiled from the 1960 Census of Population appears in Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, which contains data for the United States, States and counties and their urban and rural parts, cities, minor civil divisions, etc. The present report is part of Volume II, Subject Reports, and is designated as PC(2)-4B. A list of the Volume II Subject Reports appears on the inside of the front cover. A summary description of all the final reports of the 1960 Population Census appears on page IV.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

A large number of persons participated in the various activities of the 1960 Census of Population. Primary responsibilities were exercised by many of the persons listed on the preceding page. Within the Population, Demographic Operations, Field, Geography, and Statistical Methods Divisions, most of the staff members worked on the program. Important contributions were also made by the staffs of the Administrative Service Division, Everett H. Burke, Chief; Budget and Finance Division, William E. Stiver, Chief; Data Processing Systems Division, Robert F. Drury, Chief; Jeffersonville Census Operations Office, Robert D. Krook, Chief; Personnel Division, James P. Taff, Chief; and Statistical Research Division, William N. Hurwitz, Chief.

Paul C. Glick, Assistant Division Chief, John C. Beresford, and Robert Parke, Jr., assisted by Mary W. Bradshaw of the Family and Fertility Statistics Branch, Population Division, had the major responsibility for planning this report and developing its content. Elizabeth A. Larmon assisted in the preparation of the introductory text, and Mildred M. Russell and Leah S. Anderson performed the technical editorial work. The computer tabulation programs were devised by C. Hing Lee, Leo Solomon, Gene F. Haggy, and Rufus L. Anderson of the Data Processing Systems Division. Compilation of the final tables was supervised by Catherine M. Neafsey and Thomas LaFerrara of the Demographic Operations Division. The sampling materials were prepared by Robert H. Hanson and Robert H. Finch, Jr., of the Statistical Methods Division.

The census program was designed in consultation with a number of advisory committees and many individuals in order to maximize the usefulness of the data. Among the groups organized for this purpose were the Technical Advisory Committee for the 1960 Population Census, the Council of Population and Housing Census Users, and the Federal Agency Population and Housing Census Council (sponsored by the U.S. Bureau of the Budget). The persons who served with these groups represented a wide range of interest in the census program; their affiliations included universities, private industry, research organizations, labor groups, Federal agencies, State and local governments, and professional associations.

Preparation of the computer programs for these tabulations was supported, in part, by funds provided by the Hospital Studies Section, Biometrics Branch, National Institute of Mental Health, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

June 1964.

FINAL REPORTS OF THE 1960 CENSUS OF POPULATION

The final reports of the 1960 Population Census are arranged in three volumes and a joint Population-Housing series of census tract reports. The 1960 Population Census publication program also includes preliminary, advance, and supplementary reports, certain evaluation, procedural, and administrative reports, and graphic summaries. After publication, copies of all reports are available for examination or purchase at any U.S. Department of Commerce Field Office.

Certain types of unpublished statistics are available for the cost of preparing a copy of the data. Also, under certain conditions, special tabulations of the 1960 Census data can be prepared on a reimbursable basis. In addition, there are available for purchase magnetic tapes and punchcards containing 1960 Census information on the characteristics of a one-in-a-thousand and a one-in-ten-thousand sample of the population of the United States. Confidentiality of the information, as required by law, has been maintained by the omission of certain identification items. Further information about any of these materials can be obtained by writing to the Chief, Population Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C., 20233.

Volume I. Characteristics of the Population. This volume consists of separate reports for the United States, each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and Canal Zone. For each of these 57 areas, the data were first issued in four separate paper-bound "chapters," designated as PC(1)-A, B, C, and D. (For Guam, Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and Canal Zone, the material normally contained in chapters B, C, and D are included in chapter B.) For library and general reference use, the paper-bound reports have been assembled and reissued in buckram-bound books identified as Parts A and 1 to 57 of Volume I.

Series PC(1)-1A to 57A: Chapter A. Number of Inhabitants. These reports contain final population counts for States and counties and their urban and rural parts, and for standard metropolitan statistical areas, urbanized areas, all incorporated places, unincorporated places of 1,000 inhabitants or more, and minor civil divisions.

Series PC(1)-1B to 57B: Chapter B. General Population Characteristics. These reports present statistics on sex, age, marital status, color or race, and relationship to head of household for States and counties and their urban and rural parts, and for standard metropolitan statistical areas, urbanized areas, places of 1,000 inhabitants or more, and minor civil divisions.

Series PC(1)-1C to 53C: Chapter C. General Social and Economic Characteristics. These reports cover the subjects of nativity and parentage, State of birth, country of origin of the foreign stock, mother tongue, place of residence in 1955, year moved into present house, school enrollment by level and type, years of school completed, families and their composition, fertility, veteran status, employment status, weeks worked in 1959, year last worked, occupation group, industry group, class of worker, place of work, means of transportation to work, and income of persons and families. Each subject is shown for some or all of the following areas: States and counties and their urban, rural-nonfarm, and rural-farm parts, standard metropolitan statistical areas, urbanized areas, and urban places.

Series PC(1)-1D to 53D: Chapter D. Detailed Characteristics. These reports present most of the subjects covered in chapter C, above, cross-classified by age, color, and other characteristics. There is also included additional information on families, as well as data on single years of age, detailed occupation, and detailed industry. Each subject is shown for some or all of the following areas: States and their urban, rural-nonfarm, and rural-farm parts; and large counties, cities, and standard metropolitan statistical areas.

Volume I, Part A: Number of Inhabitants. This is a compendium of the 57 chapter A reports, i.e., PC(1)-1A to 57A.

Volume I, Parts 1 to 57: Characteristics of the Population. The 57 parts relate respectively to the United States, each of the 50 States, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and Canal Zone. Each part contains the data previously published in the four chapters A, B, C, and D, and is in the form of a separate, buckram-bound book. Parts 54, 55, 56, and 57--for Guam, Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and Canal Zone, respectively--are bound in a single book.

Volume II (Series PC(2) reports). Subject Reports. Each report in this volume concentrates on a particular subject. Detailed information and cross-relationships are generally provided on a national and regional level; in a few reports data for States or standard metropolitan statistical areas are also shown. Among the characteristics covered are ethnic origin and race, fertility, families, migration, education, employment, unemployment, occupation, industry, and income. There is also a report on the geographic distribution and characteristics of inmates of institutions. A list of reports is given on the inside of the front cover.

Volume III (Series PC(3) reports). Selected Area Reports. Three of the reports in this volume present selected characteristics of the population (1) for State economic areas, (2) for standard metropolitan statistical areas, and (3) according to the size of place where the individual resided. A fourth report provides data on the social and economic characteristics of Americans overseas.

Series PHC(1). Census Tract Reports. These reports present information on both population and housing subjects. There is one report for each of 180 tracted areas in the United States and Puerto Rico. The population subjects include age, race, marital status, country of origin of the foreign stock, relationship to head of household, school enrollment, years of school completed, place of residence in 1955, employment status, occupation group, industry group, place of work, means of transportation to work, and income of families, as well as certain characteristics of the nonwhite population in selected tracts. The housing subjects include tenure, color of head of household, vacancy status, condition and plumbing facilities, number of rooms, number of bathrooms, number of housing units in structure, year structure built, basement, heating equipment, number of persons in unit, persons per room, year household head moved into unit, automobiles available, value of property, and gross and contract rent, as well as certain characteristics of housing units with nonwhite household head for selected tracts. In addition, for selected tracts these reports contain data on certain population and housing subjects for persons of Puerto Rican birth or parentage and for white persons with Spanish surname. (This series is the same as the tract reports listed in the publication program for the 1960 Census of Housing.)

Persons by Family Characteristics

GENERAL

This report presents statistics primarily on persons by characteristics of the households and families of which they are members. Most of these statistics are based on a 5-percent sample of households or a 5-percent sample of persons not in households. Some of the data pertaining to housing characteristics are based on a 4-percent or a 1-percent sample, however. The data are presented for all the characteristics for the Nation as a whole, and for most of the characteristics for urban and rural areas and the South. Also, in most tables, the detail for urban areas includes national totals for persons in urbanized areas and other urban areas, and the detail for rural areas includes national totals for persons on farms and persons not on farms.

This report features data on persons by the composition and the social, economic, and housing characteristics of the families of which they are members. Person-family statistics, published here for the first time on the basis of a decennial census, are of special interest to persons dealing with research on family structure, dependency, employment of family members, family income, housing supply, marketing, and family welfare.

Among the aspects of family composition presented are size of family; number of children of the family head; presence of children, grandchildren, parents, and other relatives of the head; presence of subfamilies; and presence and marital status of parents (for children). Some of the tables present data for three types of families: Husband-wife families, other families with male head, and families with female head. Other tables present data for all families or for husband-wife families.

The social characteristics of families by which family members are classified in this report include age and sex of head, mobility status of head, and educational attainment of head. Economic characteristics of the family include occupation of head, industry of head and of chief income recipient in the family, income of head, family income, and hours worked by wife of head. Housing characteristics of the household or family include persons per room, year structure was built, condition of unit, access to unit, kitchen equipment and plumbing facilities, presence of several selected durable goods, and presence of automobiles.

The report also includes statistics on the household and family status of all persons, including persons not in families, by age, with cross-classification by sex and marital status for the adult population; these figures include detailed type of group quarters for persons in group quarters. Also shown are statistics on selected characteristics of household heads and of persons who are potential household heads, and statistics on the characteristics of members of households headed by a primary individual.

RELATED REPORTS

1960 Census.--Complete-count statistics on the number of households, primary families, primary individuals, persons in households by relationship to household head, and persons in group quarters are presented for States, their urban and rural parts, counties, standard metropolitan statistical areas, urbanized areas, and urban places of 10,000 or more in chapter B of Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, and for census tracts in the Series PHC(1) reports. Chapter B of Volume I also includes complete-count statistics on the number of households for places of 1,000 to 10,000 and minor civil divisions. For States and the rural-farm population of counties, statistics on the number of households, persons in households by relationship to household head, and persons in group quarters, based on the 25-percent sample, are presented in chapter C of Volume I. Chapter D of Volume I presents 25-percent sample statistics on persons in households by sex, age, and relationship to household head, and persons in group quarters by sex, age, and type of quarters.

Statistics on families and married couples by presence of children and on unrelated individuals, based on the 25-percent sample, are presented for States and their urban and rural parts, counties, standard metropolitan statistical areas, urbanized areas, and urban places of 10,000 or more in chapter C of Volume I, and for census tracts in the Series PHC(1) reports. Chapter D of Volume I presents 25-percent sample statistics on families by age of head, number of children, size of family, number of adult members other than head or wife, marital status of head, education and occupation of head, number of members in the labor force, and family income, and statistics on unrelated individuals by age, marital status, and income, for States and their urban and rural parts and for standard metropolitan statistical areas of 250,000 or more.

Several of the other reports in Series PC(2) and PC(3) contain additional information on households and families or on the household and family status of the population. Report PC(2)-4A, Families, presents statistics on families by family composition and social, economic, and housing characteristics. Report PC(2)-8A, Inmates of Institutions, presents statistics on the characteristics of inmates of institutions, by type of institution. Most other reports in Series

PC(2) and PC(3) include some information on household and family status. Statistics on women by number of children ever born are shown by relationship to household head (for women in households) and by type of institution (for female inmates of institutions) in PC(2)-3A, Women by Number of Children Ever Born. Statistics on the characteristics of occupied housing units are presented in reports of the 1960 Census of Housing.

1950 Census.--Statistics on the number of households, families, married couples, and unrelated individuals for States, their urban and rural parts, counties, standard metropolitan areas, urbanized areas, and urban places of 10,000 or more were presented in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population; data on the same subjects were presented in Volume III, Census Tract Statistics. Volume II also presented statistics by age on married couples and persons by relationship to household head, for States and their urban and rural parts and large standard metropolitan areas, and statistics on families and unrelated individuals by income for States, their urban and rural parts, counties, standard metropolitan areas, urbanized areas, and urban places of 2,500 or more.

Volume IV, Special Reports, Part 2, chapter E, Marital Status, presented statistics from the 1950 Census on the family status of the population by marital status, age, and income, by color and farm-nonfarm residence.

Volume IV, Special Reports, Part 2, chapter A, General Characteristics of Families, presented statistics from the 1950 Census on families by age of head, number of children, marital status of head, size of family, and age and labor force status of wife for regions, States and their urban and rural parts, and large cities and standard metropolitan areas; and statistics by regions on families by mobility status, education, class of worker, occupation, industry, and income of head, and by family income. Additional information on family subjects was presented in other reports in Volume IV.

1940 Census.--Statistics on the population in households by relationship to head, color, and sex, for cities of 50,000 or more, and by age for States, urban and rural, and for cities of 100,000 or more, and statistics on the population outside households by age, color, and sex, for States, urban and rural, and for cities of 100,000 or more, were presented in the 1940 Census in Volume IV, Characteristics by Age. In addition, there were eight reports from the 1940 Census covering social, economic, and housing characteristics of families for the United States, regions, and States.

Current Population Survey.--Annual estimates of the population by household and family status, by age, and by marital status and age, and estimates of the number of households and families by characteristics, based on the Current Population Survey, are published in Current Population Reports, Series P-20. In addition, information on persons by the characteristics of their families, similar to the information in some of the tables in this report, was published in Series P-20, No. 112, "Family Characteristics of Persons: March 1959."

AVAILABILITY OF UNPUBLISHED DATA

The data shown in the present report represent the full detail printed out by the computer system. The detail shown for the United States was tabulated separately for each State and was stored on magnetic tape but not printed out. Requests for unpublished data, giving a specific description of the figures desired, may be made by writing to the Chief, Population Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C., 20233. Inquiries concerning unpublished data should be transmitted to the Bureau as soon as possible because tape files are not maintained indefinitely.

DEFINITIONS AND EXPLANATIONS

Some of the definitions used in 1960 differ from those used in 1950. These changes were made after consultation with users of census data in order to improve the statistics, even though it was recognized that comparability would be affected. The definitions and explanations should be interpreted in the context of the 1960 Censuses, in which data were collected by a combination of self-enumeration, direct interview, and observation by the enumerator.

The definitions below are consistent with the instructions given to the enumerator. As in all surveys, there were some failures to execute the instructions exactly. Through the forms distributed to households, the respondents were given explanations of some of the questions more uniformly than would have been given in direct interviews. Nevertheless, it was not feasible to give the full instructions to the respondents, and some erroneous replies have undoubtedly gone undetected.

More complete discussions of the definitions of population items are given in 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, United States Summary, and in each of the State parts.

HOUSEHOLD AND FAMILY STATUS

Definitions

On the basis of census returns on several items, including household relationship, marital status, age, and sex, the population in households is classified into several categories according to family status. Within households, persons who are family members are distinguished from those who are not family members. Persons in families are subdivided into those who are related to the household head (that is, persons in "primary families") and all others (persons in "secondary families"). Family members are further classified by relationship to the family head. Persons in households who are not family members are subdivided into those who are household heads (primary individuals) and those who are not household heads (secondary individuals). The complexity of this classification is a reflection of the variety of family living arrangements which characterize the population.

Household.--A household consists of all the persons who occupy a housing unit. A house, an apartment or other group of rooms, or a single room, is regarded as a housing unit when it is occupied or intended for occupancy as separate living quarters; that is, when the occupants do not live and eat with any other persons in the structure and there is either (1) direct access from the outside or through a common hall or (2) a kitchen or cooking equipment for the exclusive use of the occupants.

A household includes the related family members and also the unrelated persons, if any, such as lodgers, foster children, wards, or employees who share the housing unit. A person living alone in a housing unit, or a group of unrelated persons sharing a housing unit as partners, is also counted as a household.

Group quarters.--All persons who are not members of households are regarded as living in group quarters. Group quarters are living arrangements for institutional inmates, regardless of the number of inmates, or for other groups containing five or more persons unrelated to the person in charge. Most of the persons in group quarters live in rooming houses, college dormitories, military barracks, or institutions. For specific types of group quarters, see sections below on "Secondary individual" and "Inmate of institution."

A very small number of persons in group quarters may have had relatives present. In the 1960 Census, persons in group quarters were sampled on an individual basis, and no information on family relationship was coded for them.

Family.--A family consists of two or more persons in the same household who are related to each other by blood, marriage, or adoption; all persons living together in one household who are related to each other are regarded as one family. For example, if the son of the head of the household and the son's wife are members of the household, they are treated as part of the head's family. A lodger and his wife who are not related to the head of the household, or a resident employee and his wife living in, are considered as a separate family, however. Thus, a household may contain more than one family. A household head living alone or with nonrelatives only is not regarded as a family. Some households, therefore, do not contain a family.

A "primary family" comprises the head of a household and all (one or more) other persons in the household related to the head. All other families are "secondary families"; these comprise groups of mutually related persons such as lodgers or resident employees.

The delineation of families is based on the relationship reported among persons who were usual residents of a housing unit at the time of the enumeration. For instance, college students were enumerated at the place where they lived while attending college, and persons living in military barracks, etc., were enumerated where they were stationed. Such persons were not included in the statistics for their family homes, even though they may have intended to return home on their completion of college or period of service.

Type of family.--The classification of families by type is based on the sex and marital status of the head. Families with a head and his wife present are termed "husband-wife families." Families with no spouse of head present are "other families with male head" or "families with female head," depending on the sex of the head.

Subfamily.--A subfamily is a married couple with or without children, or one parent with one or more own single children under 18 years old, living in a household and related to, but not including, the head of the primary family or his wife. The most common example of a subfamily is a young married couple sharing the home of the husband's or wife's parents. Only the single sons and daughters under 18 years old of a subfamily head are regarded as children in the subfamily. Members of a subfamily are also members of the primary family. The number of subfamilies, therefore, is not included in the number of families.

In the 1960 Census, subfamilies were delineated in primary families but not in secondary families.

Primary individual.--A primary individual is a household head living alone or with nonrelatives only. About 7 in 8 primary individuals were living alone (as one-person households) in 1960, according to statistics from the 1960 Census of Population. Examples of primary individuals who have nonrelatives living with them include a single woman who shares her apartment with a partner or housekeeper, and a widow who has a lodger occupying a room in her house.

Secondary individual.--A secondary individual is (1) a lodger or resident employee living in a household who has no relatives present in the household, or (2) a resident of group quarters who is not an inmate of an institution. Examples of the former include a resident employee with no relatives present who shares living arrangements with the household head, and a lodger who has no relatives present.

Nine basic types of group quarters, in addition to quarters for institutional inmates, are recognized in this report:

1. Rooming or boarding house.--This category consists mainly of rooming and boarding houses, but it also includes group quarters in ordinary homes, tourist homes, hotels, motels, residential clubs, Y's, and in a few cases, dormitories for students below the college level.

2. Military barracks.--These are quarters which are occupied by military personnel and which are not divided into separate housing units. This category includes military vessels.

3. College dormitory.--As used here, this term also refers to a fraternity or sorority house.

4. Religious group quarters not elsewhere classified.--This classification comprises principally group quarters for nuns teaching in parochial schools and for priests living in rectories; it also includes other convents and monasteries except those associated with a general hospital or an institution.

5. Workers' dormitory.--This classification includes bunkhouses in migratory workers' camps, logging camps, and other labor camps.

6. Mission.--As used here, this term also refers to flophouses.

7. Ship.--This term refers to shipboard group quarters for crews of vessels except those occupied by military personnel.

8. General hospital.--This term refers mainly to group quarters for nurses and other staff members. It excludes most patients. Patients under short-term care for surgical treatment, observation, or convalescence were included only if they had no usual place of residence elsewhere; other short-term patients were enumerated at their usual place of residence. Patients receiving certain specialized types of care on a relatively long-term basis, such as psychiatric treatment and treatment for chronic diseases, were enumerated as inmates of institutions.

9. Institution (staff).--This classification comprises group quarters for staff personnel residing on institutional grounds who provide care or custody for the inmates. See section below on "Comparability" for information on other persons included in this classification in the statistics in this report.

Inmate of institution.--Inmates of institutions are persons for whom care or custody is provided in such places as homes for delinquent or dependent children; homes and schools for the mentally or physically handicapped; places providing specialized medical care for persons with mental disorders, tuberculosis, or other chronic disease; nursing and domiciliary homes for the aged and dependent; prisons; and jails. For a more extensive description of criteria employed in classifying persons as inmates of institutions, see 1960 Census of Population, Final Report PC(2)-8A, Inmates of Institutions, page X.

Head of household, family, or subfamily.--One person in each household is designated as the "head"; the number of heads of households is, therefore, equal to the number of households. The same principle applies to families and subfamilies. The head is generally the person so reported by the household respondent; however, in order to avoid establishing a separate category for the small number of families with the wife reported as the head, such families were edited to show the husband as the head.

The number of household heads is equal to the number of primary family heads plus the number of primary individuals.

Wife of household head, family head, or subfamily head.--The number of women who are wives of heads in each category is, by definition, the same as the number of husband-wife households, husband-wife families, or husband-wife subfamilies. The classification includes women in common-law marriages as well as women in formal marriages.

Although by definition the number of wives of household, family, or subfamily heads should be equal to the number of heads who are married males, wife present, in practice the numbers may differ because, in the weighting of the sample, husbands and their wives were sometimes given different weights.

Child.--A child of a household or family head is a son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child of the head. Foster children and wards are excluded from the count of the head's children. A child of a subfamily head is a son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child (of the subfamily head) who is single (never married) and under 18 years old.

In several tables in this report, family and subfamily members are classified by the presence or absence of "own children" of the family or subfamily head, or by the number of such children. "Own" children comprise the head's sons and daughters, including stepchildren and adopted children, living in the home. The count of "own children under 18 years old" is limited to single (never married) children; however, when used with no age restriction, as in tables 5 and 7, the term "own children" denotes all children of the head regardless of marital status or age.

Other relative.--An "other relative" of the head is a person related to the family head by blood, marriage, or adoption, but not included specifically in another category. In table 2, "other relatives" of the primary family head include grandparents, aunts, cousins, and more remote relatives present in the home. In tables 4 to 10 and 12, however, this classification includes all family members except the head, wife of head, and children of head.

The various classifications of relatives of head (other than "wife" and "child") recognized in this report are described below. In general, these classifications include persons who are related to the head by virtue of their relationship to some family member other than the head. For instance, a parent-in-law of the head is related to the head by virtue of being a parent of the head's spouse. With one exception (see "Nephew or niece" below), these classifications were based directly on relationships reported in the census. They do not, therefore, presuppose the presence in the household of the person (e.g., the head's spouse, in the case of a parent-in-law) through whom the person is related to the head.

Son- or daughter-in-law.--This classification comprises the husbands and wives of children of the family head.

Grandchild.--This classification comprises family members who are sons, daughters, stepchildren, or adopted children of a child of the family head. In some tables in this report, grandchildren whose parents are present are separately identified by the further designation "child of subfamily head."

Parent.--This classification comprises parents, including stepparents and adoptive parents, of the family head. In the classification of primary family members by presence of parents and grandchildren of the head in table 13, and in the classification of subfamily heads by presence of parents and grandchildren of the primary family head in table 14, the term "parents" includes parents and parents-in-law of the primary family head.

Parent-in-law.--This classification comprises parents, including stepparents and adoptive parents, of the spouse of the family head.

Brother or sister.--This classification also includes stepbrothers and stepsisters of the family head and brothers and sisters of the head by adoption.

Brother- or sister-in-law.--This classification comprises brothers and sisters of the spouse of the family head and the spouses of the family head's brothers and sisters.

Nephew or niece.--This classification comprises single (never married) children under 18 years old in subfamilies with parent classified as brother, sister, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law of the family head. Nephews and nieces of the family head could be identified, under the coding structure that was used, only if they were children of subfamily heads classified as brother, sister, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law of head.

Nonrelative.--This classification comprises persons in the household who are not related to the household head by blood, marriage, or adoption. Non-relatives consist of lodgers and resident employees and their families, as defined below.

Lodger.--A "lodger" is any household member not related to the household head except a resident employee. The classification includes roomers, boarders, partners, and relatives of such persons, and also foster children and wards. In tables 2 and 15 of this report lodgers are classified into partners of household head and other lodgers. A partner, as the term is generally understood, shares the household expenses with the head, whereas other lodgers generally pay a set fee for their accommodations.

Resident employee.--A "resident employee" is an employee of the head of the household who usually resides in the housing unit with his employer; the term also includes the employee's relatives living in the same housing unit. Among the main types of resident employees are maids, hired farm hands, cooks, nurses, and companions.

Uses and Limitations of the Data

The statistics shown in this report may be used to study the living arrangements of persons in relation to a wide variety of social, economic, and housing characteristics of the households or families of which they are members. In using these statistics, it should be kept in mind that they refer to the population enumerated at its usual place of residence. For instance, a married woman whose husband is living away from home because of membership in the Armed Forces would have been assigned the marital status classification "married, spouse absent" because, according to the rules by which the population was assigned a usual place of residence, her husband would have been counted at his military installation rather than at his wife's home. Similarly, the count of parents of family heads includes only those parents whose usual residence was in the household of one of their children, the count of children includes those children whose usual residence was in the parental home, and so forth. The relationship classifications thus provide a measure of the practical, day-to-day living arrangements of the population and not of those other, perhaps more permanent, relationships that are not reflected in the composition of the household at the time of the enumeration.

Quality of Data

Data on household and family status in the 1960 Census are derived from data on relationship and marital status of each person in the home. Some information on the quality of data on relationship and marital status is available from reports on nonresponse rates. See 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, tables B-1, C-2, and D-1. Further information will be forthcoming in a report in the ER60 series of 1960 Census evaluation reports presenting comparisons of reporting of household and family status for identical persons in the census with that in the Current Population Survey.

Comparability

Earlier census data.--Population reports for each census since 1850 contain figures on the number of households, but some of the earlier census figures were limited to the free population and have other limitations. After the 1900 Census had been taken, a few household characteristics for 1790 were tabulated for the free population in those areas with census records still in existence, and the results were reported in chapter VIII of A Century of Population Growth in the United States, 1790-1900, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 1909. Beginning with 1890, more adequate household data in varying degrees of detail were published.

Information on the household relationship of the population has been collected in each census since 1880, but it was not until the 1940 Census data were processed that tables on this subject were prepared; at that time, limited data for 1910 on relationship of native white and Negro women 15 to 49 years old to the head of the household were shown in specially prepared tables in reports on fertility. Statistics on relationship to family head were shown in the 1950 Census in somewhat less detail than in this report, and corresponding statistics were shown in the 1940 Census in still less detail. The figures on relationship of primary family members to head of primary family shown in this report and in the 1950 Census may be compared to the 1940 statistics on relationship to head of household, for persons related to the head by blood, marriage, or adoption.

In 1947, the Bureau of the Census adopted a revised set of household and family status concepts. Statistics on "families" and "private households" in earlier reports are, in general, comparable with statistics on "households" in reports published in 1947 and subsequent years. In the 1960 and 1950 reports, the number of households is equal to the number of primary families plus the number of primary individuals. Primary individuals are persons who would have been classified as "one-person families" under the former terminology. The definition of families adopted in 1947 includes the small number of secondary families which would not have been classified as families under the old definition.

The definition of a household used in 1960 differs slightly from that used in the 1950 Census and in the 1940 Census. The change arises as a result of the shift from a dwelling unit to a housing unit as the basic unit of enumeration in the Census of Housing. According to the 1960 definition, a household consists of all the persons who occupy a housing unit, whereas in the 1950 and 1940 Censuses a household consisted of all persons who occupied a dwelling unit.

A dwelling unit was defined as: (1) A group of rooms occupied or intended for occupancy as separate quarters and having either separate cooking equipment or a separate entrance; or (2) a single room (a) if it had separate cooking equipment, (b) if it was located in a regular apartment house, or (c) if it constituted the only living quarters in the structure.

Housing units differ from dwelling units mainly in that separate living quarters consisting of one room with direct access but without cooking equipment always qualify as a housing unit in 1960 but qualified as a dwelling unit before 1960 only when located in a regular apartment house or when the room was the only living quarters in the structure.

The evidence available suggests that the change from the dwelling unit concept to the housing unit concept had relatively little effect on the total number of households for the Nation as a whole and for large areas. Any effect which the change in concept may have can be expected to be greatest in statistics shown in other reports for some small areas, such as city blocks and census tracts. Living quarters classified as housing units in 1960 but which would not have been classified as dwelling units in the earlier censuses tend to be clustered in neighborhoods where many persons live alone in single rooms in hotels, rooming houses, and other light housekeeping quarters.

However, for the 17 metropolitan areas shown separately in the report on the Components of Inventory Change survey of December 1959, the count of housing units for the combined 17 areas from the (April) 1960 Census is slightly higher than the count of dwelling units from the 1959 survey; there is evidence that this difference exists even after allowing for sampling variability of the 1959 estimate and the difference in dates of enumeration. Furthermore, the estimate from the 1960 Census of the number of 1- and 2-room renter-occupied housing units in the 17 areas is higher than the estimate of dwelling units in the comparable category from the 1959 survey.¹

The count of households in 1950, 1940, 1930, and 1900 excluded groups of persons living as members of quasi-households. However, the numbers for 1920, 1910, and 1850 to 1890 included quasi-households. A quasi-household was defined in 1950 as the occupants of a rooming house containing five or more persons not related to the head, or the occupants of certain other types of living quarters, such as dormitories, military barracks, and institutions. The 1940 definition of a quasi-household was similar to that of 1950 except that a rooming house was regarded as a quasi-household only when it included eleven or more persons not related to the head. The concept of quasi-household used in 1950 and 1940 is thus similar to the concept of group quarters used in 1960.

Except for the household concept, the other 1960 definitions relating to household and family status of the population are essentially the same as those previously used. However, the 1950 data on members of families include the small number in quasi-households, whereas, in 1960, statistics on members of families were compiled only for those in households.

Despite the similarity of definitions of household relationship, the national statistics for certain relatively small categories by relationship and family status appear to have been significantly affected by the change in the household definition. The change in household definition introduced in 1960 would theoretically tend to make the numbers of primary families and primary individuals enumerated in 1960 higher than the numbers that would have been obtained under earlier procedures, and to make the numbers of secondary families and secondary individuals lower. The evidence available indicates that, for the Nation as a whole, the number of husband-wife secondary families and the number of males classified as secondary individuals were lower in 1960 than they would have been under the earlier procedures. However, because these numbers are relatively small, even a substantial proportional reduction in them would not necessarily produce an appreciable compensating increase in the national totals of the much more numerous primary families and primary individuals.

1960 Census data in other reports.--Other reports present data based on the complete count and on the 25-percent sample. The number of households and the total population in the United States according to the 25-percent sample are virtually identical with the numbers according to the complete count, because the numbers in the sample were controlled to agree with those in the complete count (table B). This control did not extend to other categories of household and family status, including the two types of households (primary families and primary individuals). Thus the 25-percent sample as published underrepresented primary individuals by about 354,000, or 4 percent, and overrepresented primary families by about 357,000, or 0.8 percent, as compared with the complete-count data. Moreover, the number of children of primary family heads was about 343,000 larger, and the number of wives of primary family heads was about 265,000 larger, in the 25-percent sample than in the complete count. Investigation of available data suggests that these differences arose primarily in the sample designation. The procedure for selecting the sample would have produced unbiased results if the design had been carried out according to instructions. The designation of the sample by the enumerator at the time he was canvassing was a low-cost procedure which created some opportunity for undetected errors to occur and made control difficult. The difference between the complete-count data and the 25-percent sample data with regard to members of primary families other than heads, wives, and children under 18 may result from the sample designation. However, this and other differences shown in table B may also result in part from differences in the procedures for editing the complete-count and sample data, and from the fact that the sample data were processed through a clerical coding operation, whereas the complete-count data were not.

The figures from the 5-percent sample shown in this report tend to be in very close agreement with those from the 25-percent sample shown in other reports with the exception of the figures for certain types of group quarters. Here, differences in the figures are attributable to differences in the tabulation specifications for obtaining the population in these quarters. The 25-percent sample figure for persons in college dormitories is limited to students who were enrolled in college, whereas the corresponding figure from the 5-percent sample includes all residents of such places including housemothers, resident housemasters and their families, wives and children of students if they lived in places classified as college dormitories, and other persons who, because they were not enrolled in college, were excluded from the college dormitory classification in the 25-percent sample data and were classified instead as in "other group quarters." The 25-percent sample figure for the staff of institutions includes only those noninmate residents of group quarters in institutions who were employed, whereas the 5-percent sample figure includes all noninmate residents of group quarters in institutions whether or not they were employed. Noninmate residents of group quarters in institutions who were not employed were classified in the 25-percent sample data as in "other group quarters." Thus, any family members who were living with the staff person in group quarters were included in the 5-percent sample figure, but were included in the 25-percent sample figure only if they were employed. The available evidence also indicates that several thousand persons who should have been classified in the 5-percent sample as inmates of institutions were incorrectly classified as noninmate residents of institutions. Because few of these persons were employed, few were included in the 25-percent sample figure for institutional staff.

These persons were, however, included in the 5-percent sample figure for institutional staff.

Current Population Survey.--Table B includes comparisons of figures from the March 1960 Current Population Survey (CPS) with those from the present report, which is based on the 1960 Census 5-percent sample. The key figures in the CPS with regard to the number of households, primary family heads and wives, and primary individuals are in agreement with those in the 1960 Census 5-percent sample, when account is taken of the sampling error associated with the estimates. Furthermore, when allowance is made for the difference between the date of the CPS and that of the Census, and for the exclusion from the CPS of Armed Forces in military barracks, the total population in the CPS, which was controlled to independent estimates, is quite close to that in the census. In general, the number of persons in households is larger in the CPS figures than in the census. This difference is attributable in part to the fact that college students were enumerated in the census in the community where they attended college, whereas in the CPS unmarried college students were enumerated in their parental homes. This difference may also be attributable in part to differences between the age distribution of the population according to the 1960 Census and the age distribution in the independent estimates used to inflate the sample figures from the CPS. The CPS figures were prepared by inflating weighted sample results to independent estimates of the population based on statistics from the 1950 Census of Population, statistics of births, deaths, immigration, and emigration, and other information. Although the total population according to the independent estimates was quite close to the 1960 Census count, the independent estimates showed more young persons, and fewer old persons, than did the 1960 Census. This may account in part for the excess of members of primary families other than heads and wives (most of whom are children) in the CPS as compared with the census.

There is a relatively large difference between the CPS count of persons in secondary families in households and the corresponding figure in the census. Statistics for subsequent years in the CPS suggest that in March 1960 some enumerators may have classified as secondary families a few families who should have been classified as primary families. March 1960 was the first month in which the new (1960) household definition was used in the CPS, and some enumerators may not have adjusted immediately to the change in definition. As indicated in table B, CPS figures for the portion of the population in group quarters that may be compared with the census are lower than those in the census. This difference may reflect better coverage of residents of group quarters in the census, where a special effort is made to include persons who have no fixed place of residence.

The median is presented in connection with the data on income. It is the value which divides the distribution into two equal parts, one-half the cases falling below this value and one-half the cases exceeding this value.

A plus (+) sign after the median indicates that the median is above that number. For example, a median of $10,000+ for income indicates that the median fell in the interval "$10,000 and over."

URBAN-RURAL RESIDENCE

In general, the urban population comprises all persons living in urbanized areas and in places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside urbanized areas. More specifically, according to the definition adopted for use in the 1960 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, villages, and towns (except towns in New England, New York, and Wisconsin); (b) the densely settled urban fringe, whether incorporated or unincorporated, of urbanized areas; (c) towns in New England and townships in New Jersey and Pennsylvania which contain no incorporated municipalities as subdivisions and have either 25,000 inhabitants or more or a population of 2,500 to 25,000 and a density of 1,500 persons or more per square mile; (d) counties in States other than the New England States, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania that have no incorporated municipalities within their boundaries and have a density of 1,500 persons or more per square mile; and (e) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more. The population not classified as urban constitutes the rural population.

FARM-NONFARM RESIDENCE

The rural population is subdivided into the rural-farm population, which comprises all rural residents living on farms, and the rural-nonfarm population, which comprises the remaining rural population. In the 1960 Census, the farm population consists of persons living in rural territory on places of 10 or more acres from which sales of farm products amounted to $50 or more in 1959 or on places of less than 10 acres from which sales of farm products amounted to $250 or more in 1959. All persons living in group quarters are classified as nonfarm except the relatively few living in workers' quarters (including quarters for migratory agricultural workers) that are located on a farm or ranch.

URBANIZED AREA

An urbanized area contains at least one city of 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1960 and the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet certain criteria relating to population density or land use. An urbanized area may be thought of as divided into the central city, or cities, and the remainder of the area, or the urban fringe. All persons residing in an urbanized area are included in the urban population.

AGE

The age classification is based on the age of the person in completed years as of April 1, 1960, as determined from the reply to a question on month and year of birth.

COLOR

The term "color" refers to the division of population into two groups, white and nonwhite. The color group designated as "nonwhite" includes Negroes, American Indians, Japanese, Chinese, Filipinos, Koreans, Hawaiians, Asian Indians, Malaysians, Eskimos, Aleuts, etc. Persons of Mexican birth or ancestry who are not definitely of Indian or other nonwhite race are classified as white.

YEAR MOVED INTO PRESENT HOUSE

The data on year moved into present house refer to the most recent move the person made. Thus, a person who had moved back into the same house (or apartment) in which he had previously lived was asked to give the date at which he began the present occupancy. If a person had moved from one apartment to another in the same building, he was expected to give the year when he moved into the present apartment. The category "always lived here" consists of persons who reported that their residence on April 1, 1960, was the same as their residence at birth and who had never had any other place of residence.

Statistics on selected events in relation to year moved in are presented for household members in table 23. This table shows, for instance, that 88,786,070 persons were members of households of which the head moved into the unit during the period 1950 to 1958. Of these, 83,614,999 members moved into the unit in the same period as the head, 719,041 moved in before that period (that is, before 1950), and 4,452,030 moved in after that period (after 1958). The section of table 23 for members who first married in the period when the head moved in shows, for instance, that there were 5,227,447 wives (of household heads) first married in 1950 to 1958 with husbands (household heads) who moved into the present home from 1950 to 1958, and that all but a relatively few of these wives moved in during the same period.

MOBILITY STATUS

The classification by mobility status is based on a comparison of current residence with residence on April 1, 1955, that is, the usual place of residence five years prior to enumeration. The category "same house in 1955" includes all persons 5 years old and over who were reported as living in the same house on the date of enumeration in 1960 and five years prior to enumeration. Included in the group are persons who had never moved during the five years as well as those who had moved but by 1960 had returned to their 1955 residence. The category "different house in 1955" includes persons who, on April 1, 1955, lived in the United States in a different house from the one they occupied on April 1, 1960. This category was subdivided into four groups according to 1955 residence, viz., "different house, same county," "different county, same State," "contiguous State," and "noncontiguous State." States are classified as contiguous if their boundaries touch at any point. A list of the contiguous States for each State is given in report PC(2)-2A, State of Birth, page IX.

The category "abroad in 1955" includes those with residence in a foreign country or an outlying area of the United States in 1955. (In the coding of this item, persons who lived in Alaska or Hawaii in 1955 but in other States in 1960 were classified as living in a different State in 1955.) Persons 5 years old and over who had indicated they had moved into their present residence after April 1, 1955, but for whom sufficiently complete and consistent information regarding residence on April 1, 1955, was not collected are included in the group "moved, place of residence in 1955 not reported."

In the first type of distribution in table 20, family members 5 years old and over are cross-classified by their own mobility status and the mobility status of the family head. In the second type of distribution in this table, family members 5 years old and over are classified as "with 1955 residence same as head's" or "with 1955 residence different from head's." A family member was classified as "with 1955 residence same as head's" if the member and the head were classified in the same one of the following eleven categories:

In SMSA in 1960:

1. Same house in 1955
2. Different house in central city of this SMSA in 1955
3. Different house in ring of this SMSA in 1955
4. Central city of different SMSA in 1955
5. Ring of different SMSA in 1955
6. Not in SMSA in 1955

Not in SMSA in 1960:

7. Same house in 1955
8. In central city of SMSA in 1955
9. In ring of SMSA in 1955
10. Different house not in SMSA in 1955
11. Abroad in 1955

Family members who were classified in a different one of these categories from the head were classified in table 20 as "with 1955 residence different from head's." Family members (including heads) with a non-report on 1955 residence were excluded from this comparison and were classified as "moved, 1955 residence not reported."

In preparing the record for the 5-percent sample, on which the present report is based, all movers from one borough to another within New York City were classified as movers within the "same county," whereas in reports based on the 25-percent record, persons who moved across borough lines were classified as movers between counties within the "same State." Hence, the 5-percent sample shows more family heads who were movers within the same county than would be shown in corresponding figures from the 25-percent sample, and fewer migrants between counties within the same State.

COLLEGE ENROLLMENT

Household heads enrolled in college are one of the groups shown separately in table 23. Persons were included as enrolled in college if they were reported as attending or enrolled in a "regular" college at any time between February 1, 1960, and the time of enumeration. "Regular" college is explained in the following section.

YEARS OF SCHOOL COMPLETED

The data on years of school completed (also termed "educational attainment" in this report) were derived from the answers to the two questions: (a) "What is the highest grade (or year) of regular school he has ever attended?" and (b) "Did he finish this grade (or year)?" Enumerators were instructed to obtain the approximate equivalent grade in the American school system for persons whose highest grade of attendance was in a foreign school system, whose highest level of attendance was in an ungraded school, whose highest level of schooling was measured by "readers," or whose training by a tutor was regarded as qualifying under the "regular" school definition. Persons were to answer "No" to the second question if they were attending school, had completed only part of a grade before they dropped out, or failed to pass the last grade attended.

The number in each category of highest grade of school completed represents the combination of (a) persons who reported that they had attended the indicated grade and finished it, and (b) those who had attended the next higher grade but had not finished it.

The questions on educational attainment applied only to progress in "regular" schools. Regular schooling is that which may advance a person toward an elementary school certificate or high school diploma, or a college, university, or professional degree. Schooling that was not obtained in a regular school and schooling from a tutor or through correspondence courses were counted only if the credits obtained were regarded as transferable to a school in the regular school system. Schooling which is generally regarded as not regular includes that which is given in nursery schools, in specialized vocational, trade, or business schools; in on-the-job training; and through correspondence courses.

Elementary school, as defined here, includes grades 1 to 8, and high school includes grades 9 to 12. College includes junior or community colleges, regular 4-year colleges, and graduate or professional schools.

MARITAL STATUS

This classification refers to the marital status of the person at the time of enumeration. Persons classified as "married" comprise, therefore, both those who have been married only once and those who remarried after having been widowed or divorced. A married person with "spouse present" is a man or woman whose spouse was enumerated as a member of the same household even though he or she may have been temporarily absent on business or vacation, visiting, in a hospital, etc., at the time of the enumeration. Persons reported as separated (either legally separated or otherwise absent from the spouse because of marital discord) are classified as a subcategory of married persons. Married persons classified as "other, spouse absent" are married persons (except separated) whose spouse had his usual residence elsewhere; for instance, a married person whose spouse was away in the Armed Forces or in an institution would be included in this classification. The enumerators were instructed to report persons in common-law marriages as married and persons whose only marriage had been annulled as single.

Statistics on presence of spouse for married persons (except separated) were compiled in 1960 for persons in housing units only; data are not available for the very small number of married persons with spouse present in group quarters. Such persons were classified as "other married, spouse absent."

The number of married men with spouse present should, by definition, be the same as the number of married women with spouse present. However, the two figures may not be the same because, in the weighting of the sample, husbands and their wives were sometimes given different weights. Differences between the figures for all married men and all married women for an area may arise for the foregoing reason and also because the husband and wife may have had different places of residence and because of differences in the completeness and accuracy of reporting on marital status for men and women.

YEAR OF FIRST MARRIAGE AND YEARS SINCE FIRST MARRIAGE

In the 1960 Census, persons in the sample who had ever been married were asked the date of their first marriage; this information was placed on the electronic tapes in terms of calendar quarter and year. Thus, direct information was obtained for this report on year of first marriage for married (including separated), widowed, and divorced persons. The number of years since first marriage was derived by subtraction of the date of first marriage from April 1, 1960, and represents the interval in completed years since first marriage.

EMPLOYMENT STATUS

The data on employment status relate to the calendar week prior to the date on which the respondents filled their Household Questionnaires or were interviewed by enumerators. This week is not the same for all respondents because not all persons were enumerated during the same week.

Employed persons comprise all civilians 14 years old and over who were either (a) "at work"--those who did any work for pay or profit, or worked without pay for 15 hours or more on a family farm or in a family business; or (b) were "with a job but not at work"--those who did not work and were not looking for work but had a job or business from which they were temporarily absent because of bad weather, industrial dispute, vacation, illness, or other personal reasons.

Persons are classified as unemployed if they were 14 years old and over and not "at work" but looking for work. A person is considered as looking for work not only if he actually tried to find work but also if he had made such efforts recently (i.e., within the past 60 days) and was awaiting the results of these efforts. Persons waiting to be called back to a job from which they had been laid off or furloughed are also counted as unemployed.

The "civilian labor force" includes all persons classified as employed or unemployed, as described above. The "labor force" also includes members of the Armed Forces (persons on active duty with the United States Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard).

Persons "not in the labor force" comprise all those 14 years old and over who are not classified as members of the labor force, including persons doing only incidental unpaid family work (less than 15 hours during the week).

HOURS WORKED

The statistics on hours worked pertain to the number of hours actually worked, and not necessarily to the number usually worked or the scheduled number of hours. For persons working at more than one job, the figures reflect the combined number of hours worked at all jobs during the week. In table 25 of this report, family heads in the Armed Forces were classified as working 35 hours or more.

WEEKS WORKED IN 1959

The data on weeks worked in 1959 pertain to the number of different weeks during 1959 in which a person did any work for pay or profit (including paid vacation and sick leave) or worked without pay on a family farm or in a family business. Weeks of active service in the Armed Forces are also included.

OCCUPATION, INDUSTRY, AND CLASS OF WORKER

The data on occupation in this report are for employed persons and refer to the job held during the week for which employment status was reported. For persons employed at two or more jobs, the data refer to the job at which the person worked the greatest number of hours. The data on industry and class of worker for employed persons refer to the job held during the week for which employment status was reported; for persons not employed, the data refer to the last job held since 1950. The occupation and industry statistics presented here are based on the detailed systems developed for the 1960 Census; see 1960 Census of Population, Classified Index of Occupations and Industries, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 1960.

Tables 27 and 28 present statistics relating to the number of persons dependent on agriculture and other industries.

INCOME IN 1959

Information on income for the calendar year 1959 was requested from all persons 14 years old and over in the sample. "Total income" is the sum of amounts reported separately for wage or salary income, self-employment income, and other income. Wage or salary income is defined as the total money earnings received for work performed as an employee. It represents the amount received before deductions for personal income taxes, Social Security, bond purchases, union dues, etc. Self-employment income is defined as net money income (gross receipts minus operating expenses) from a business, farm, or professional enterprise in which the person was engaged on his own account. Other income includes money income received from such sources as net rents, interest, dividends, Social Security benefits, pensions, veterans' payments, unemployment insurance, and public assistance or other governmental payments, and periodic receipts from insurance policies or annuities. Not included as income are money received from the sale of property (unless the recipient was engaged in the business of selling such property), the value of income "in kind," withdrawals of bank deposits, money borrowed, tax refunds, and gifts and lump-sum inheritances or insurance payments.

In the statistics on family income, the combined incomes of all members of each family are treated as a single amount. Although the time period covered by the income statistics is the calendar year 1959, the composition of families refers to the time of enumeration. For most of the families, however, the income reported was received by persons who were members of the family throughout 1959.

The chief income recipient in a family was defined, in general, as that member of a family who had the largest total income (at least $1 more than any other family member). If the family head and one or more other family members had identical incomes and they had the highest incomes in the family, or if no family member had reported income, the family head was considered the chief income recipient. If two or more family members other than the head had equal and highest incomes, the first one listed was regarded as the chief income recipient.

HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS

Size of household.--The number of household members includes all persons enumerated as usual residents of the housing unit whether related or not.

Persons per room.--The number of persons per room was computed for each housing unit by dividing the total number of household members by the number of rooms in the unit. The number of rooms is the count of whole rooms used for living purposes, such as living rooms, dining rooms, bedrooms, kitchens, finished attic or basement rooms, recreation rooms, lodgers' rooms, and rooms used for offices by a person living in the unit. Not counted as rooms are bathrooms; halls, foyers, or vestibules; closets; alcoves; pantries; strip or pullman kitchens; laundry or furnace rooms; unfinished attics, basements, and other space used for storage.

Year structure built.--"Year built" refers to the date the original construction of the structure was completed, not to any later remodeling, addition, or conversion.

Direct access.--Living quarters are regarded as having direct access if the entrance is direct from the outside of the structure, or through a common hall, lobby, or vestibule used by the occupants of more than one unit. The hall, lobby, or vestibule must not be part of any unit, but must be clearly separate from all units in the structure. Living quarters do not have direct access when the only entrance to the room or rooms is through a room or hall which is part of another unit.

Kitchen or cooking equipment.--A kitchen is defined as a room used primarily for cooking and the preparation of meals. Cooking equipment is defined as (1) a range or stove, whether or not it is regularly used, or (2) other equipment such as a hotplate or electrical appliance if it is used for the regular preparation of meals. The category "with kitchen or cooking equipment" comprises units with facilities for exclusive use; The category "lacking kitchen or cooking equipment" comprises units with shared or no facilities. Equipment is for exclusive use if it is used only by the occupants of one unit.

Condition.--The enumerator determined the condition of the housing unit by observation, on the basis of specified criteria. Nevertheless, the application of these criteria involved some judgment on the part of the individual enumerator. The training program for enumerators was designed to minimize differences in judgment.

Sound housing is defined as that which has no defects, or only slight defects which are normally corrected during the course of regular maintenance.

Deteriorating housing needs more repair than would be provided in the course of regular maintenance. Such housing has one or more defects of an intermediate nature that must be corrected if the unit is to continue to provide safe and adequate shelter.

Dilapidated housing does not provide safe and adequate shelter and in its present condition endangers the health, safety, or well-being of the occupants. Such housing has one or more critical defects, or has a combination of intermediate defects in sufficient number or extent to require considerable repair or rebuilding, or is of inadequate original construction. Critical defects result from continued neglect or lack of repair, or indicate serious damage to the structure.

Plumbing facilities.--The facilities referred to are water supply, toilet facilities, and bathing facilities. A unit has hot piped water even though the hot water is not supplied continuously; for example, it may be supplied only at certain times of the day, week, or year. A unit has a flush toilet if it is inside the structure and available for the use of the occupants of the unit. A unit has a bath if there is a bathtub or shower supplied with piped water (not necessarily hot water) inside the structure and available for the use of the occupants of the unit.

Facilities are for exclusive use if they are used only by the occupants of the one housing unit, including lodgers or other unrelated persons living in the housing unit.

Clothes washer and dryer.--A clothes washing machine owned by a member of the household was to be reported, whether it was located in the housing unit or elsewhere on the property. Machines used but not owned by members of the household, such as those provided by the management of an apartment building, were not to be reported. The number of households with a washer and a dryer (or a washer-dryer combination) are shown in table 17. Dryers used but not owned by members of the household, such as those provided by the management of an apartment building, were not to be reported.

Home food freezer.--A home food freezer is defined as an appliance, separate from the refrigerator, which freezes food and keeps food frozen. The freezer must be located in the housing unit or elsewhere on the property. Excluded is a freezer combined in the same cabinet with a refrigerator, even if it has a separate door.

Telephone available.--A unit is classified as having a telephone if there is a telephone available to the occupants of the unit for receiving calls. The telephone may be located inside or outside the housing unit, and one telephone may serve the occupants of several units.

Automobiles available.--The count of automobiles available represents the number of passenger automobiles, including station wagons, owned or regularly used by any of the occupants of the housing unit. Passenger cars were to be counted if they were owned by a member of the household or if they were regularly used and ordinarily kept at home, as in the case of some company cars. Not to be counted were taxis, pickups or larger trucks, and dismantled or dilapidated cars in an early stage of being junked. The statistics do not reflect the number of automobiles privately owned or the number of households owning one or more automobiles.

Air conditioning.--Air conditioning is defined as the cooling of air by refrigerating apparatus. Excluded are evaporative coolers and fans or blowers which are not connected to a refrigerating apparatus. The statistics shown in table 17 are for members of households having air conditioners designed to cool one room and those having equipment designed to cool more than one room (including central systems).

Television sets.--Television sets of all kinds located in the unit were to be included in the count--floor, table, built-in, portable, and combination with radio or phonograph. Sets in working order and sets being repaired were to be counted. A combination radio-television set was to be reported both as a television and as a radio set.

COLLECTION AND PROCESSING OF DATA

COLLECTION OF DATA

Several enumeration forms were used to collect the information for the 1960 Census of Population. A few days before the census date, the Post Office Department delivered an Advance Census Report (ACR) to households on postal delivery routes. This form contained questions which were to be answered for every person and every housing unit. Household members were requested to fill the ACR and have it ready for the enumerator. The census enumerator recorded this information on a form specially designed for electronic data processing by FOSDIC (Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computer). The information was either transcribed from the ACR to the complete-count FOSDIC schedule or entered on this schedule during direct interview.

In the densely populated areas, the enumerator left a Household Questionnaire to be completed by each household (or person) in the sample and mailed to the local census office. The population and housing information was transcribed from the Household Questionnaire to a sample FOSDIC schedule. When the Household Questionnaire was not returned or was returned without having been completed, the enumerator collected the missing information by personal visit or by telephone and entered it directly on the sample FOSDIC schedule. In the remaining areas, when the enumerator picked up the ACR, he obtained all the information by direct interview and recorded it directly on the sample FOSDIC schedule.

Soon after the enumerator started work, his schedules were examined in a formal field review. This operation was designed to assure at an early stage of the work that the enumerator was performing his duties properly and had corrected any errors he had made.

More detailed descriptions of the 1960 Census procedures in the collection and processing of the data are given in reports entitled United States Censuses of Population and Housing, 1960: Principal Data Collection Forms and Procedures, 1961; and Processing the Data, 1962, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

MANUAL EDITING AND CODING

After the FOSDIC forms had been checked for completeness in the field, they were sent to a central processing office for manual editing and coding and for microfilming. Except where some special problems arose, there was no manual coding of the FOSDIC forms for complete-count data. On the sample forms, the manual operation was limited to those items where coding required the reading of written entries and therefore could not be done effectively by machine. The coding clerks converted the written entries to codes by marking the appropriate circles on the FOSDIC schedules and at the same time were able to correct obviously wrong entries and sometimes supply missing information.

ELECTRONIC PROCESSING

After the enumerators and coders recorded the information by marking the appropriate circles, the schedules were microfilmed. The information on the microfilm was then read by FOSDIC, which converted the markings to signals on magnetic tape. The tape, in turn, was processed in an electronic computer, which was used extensively to edit and tabulate the data and to produce the publication tables.

EDITING

For a majority of items, nonresponses and inconsistencies were eliminated by using the computer to assign entries and correct inconsistencies. In general, few assignments or corrections were required, although the amount varied by subject and by enumerator.

The assignment of an acceptable entry by machine was based on related information reported for the person or on information reported for a similar person in the immediate neighborhood. For example, in the assignment of age in the complete-count tabulations, the computer stored reported ages of persons by sex, color or race, household relationship, and marital status; each stored age was retained in the computer only until a succeeding person having the same characteristics and having age reported was processed through the computer; this stored age was assigned to the next person whose age was unknown and who otherwise had the same characteristics. This procedure insured that the distribution of ages assigned by the computer for persons of a given set of characteristics would correspond closely to the reported age distribution of such persons as obtained in the current census.

The extent of the allocations for nonresponse or for inconsistency is shown for the United States and for States, places of 10,000 inhabitants or more, and other areas in appendix tables in chapters B, C, and D of 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population.

Specific tolerances were established for the number of computer allocations acceptable for a given area. If the number was beyond tolerance, the data were rejected and the original schedules were re-examined to determine the source of the error. Correction and reprocessing were undertaken as necessary and feasible.

ACCURACY OF THE DATA

Human and mechanical errors occur in any mass statistical operation such as a decennial census. Such errors include failure to obtain required information from respondents, obtaining inconsistent information, recording information in the wrong place or incorrectly, or otherwise producing inconsistencies between entries on interrelated items on the field documents. Sampling biases occur because some of the enumerators fail to follow the sampling instructions. Clerical coding and editing errors occur, as well as errors in the electronic processing operation.

Careful efforts are made in every census to keep the errors in each step at an acceptably low level. Review of the enumerator's work, verification of manual coding and editing, checking of tabulated figures, and ratio estimation of sample data to control totals from the complete count reduce the effects of the errors in the census data.

Very minor differences between tables in this report or between corresponding data in this report and PC(2)-4A, Families, and other reports based on the 5-percent sample, result from imperfections in the electronic equipment. No attempt has been made to reconcile these minor discrepancies.

Some innovations in the 1960 Censuses reduced errors in processing and others produced a more consistent quality of editing. The elimination of the card-punching operation removed one important source of error. The extensive use of electronic equipment insured a more uniform and more flexible edit than could have been accomplished manually or by less intricate mechanical equipment. It is believed that the use of electronic equipment in the 1960 Censuses has improved the quality of the editing compared with that of earlier censuses but, at the same time, it has introduced an element of difference in the statistics.

A group of reports designated Evaluation and Research Program Series will deal with the methods, results, and interpretation of a group of evaluation and research studies of the 1960 Censuses of Population and Housing. A report entitled The Post-Enumeration Survey: 1950, Technical Paper No. 4, presents evaluative material on the 1950 Census.

SAMPLE DESIGN AND SAMPLING VARIABILITY

SAMPLE DESIGN

For persons in housing units at the time of the 1960 Census, the sampling unit was the housing unit and all its occupants; for persons in group quarters, it was the person. On the first visit to an address, the enumerator assigned a sample key letter (A, B, C, or D) to each housing unit sequentially in the order in which he first visited the units, whether or not he completed an interview. Each enumerator was given a random key letter to start his assignment, and the order of canvassing was indicated in advance, although these instructions allowed some latitude in the order of visiting addresses. Each housing unit to which the key letter "A" was assigned was designated as a sample unit, and all persons enumerated in the unit were included in the sample. In every group quarters, the sample consisted of every fourth person in the order listed.

The 1960 statistics in tables 1 to 16 and 19 to 28 of this report are based on a subsample of one-fifth of the original 25-percent sample schedules. The 5-percent sample was selected on the computer, using a stratified systematic sample design. The strata were made up as follows: For persons in regular housing units there were 36 strata, i.e., 9 household size groups by 2 tenure groups by 2 color groups; for persons in group quarters, there were 2 strata, i.e., the 2 color groups.

A 1-percent sample was used for the data in table 17. The 1-percent sample and a 4-percent sample were used for the data in table 18. These samples represent, respectively, those households in the 5-percent and 20-percent housing samples that fell in the 5-percent population sample.

Although the sampling procedure used for the 5-percent population sample did not automatically insure an exact 5-percent sample of persons, the sample design was unbiased if carried through according to instructions. Generally, for large areas, the deviation from the estimated sample size was found to be quite small. Biases may have arisen, however, when the enumerator failed to follow his listing and sampling instructions exactly.

RATIO ESTIMATION

The statistics based on the 5-percent sample of the 1960 Census returns are estimates that have been developed through the use of a ratio estimation procedure. This procedure was carried out for each of the following 44 groups of persons in each of the sample weighting areas:²

Group	Sex, color, and age	Relationship and tenure
Male white:
1	Under 5
2	5 to 13
3	14 to 24	Head of owner household
4	14 to 24	Head of renter household
5	14 to 24	Not head of household
6-8	25 to 44	Same groups as age group 14 to 24
9-11	45 and over	Same groups as age group 14 to 24
Male nonwhite:
12-22	Same groups as male white
Female white:
23-33	Same groups as male white
Female nonwhite:
34-44	Same groups as male white

The sample weighting areas were defined as those areas within a State consisting of central cities of urbanized areas, the remaining portion of urbanized areas not in central cities, urban places not in urbanized areas, or rural areas.³

For each of the 44 groups, the ratio of the complete count to the sample count of the population in the group was determined. Each specific sample person in the group was assigned an integral weight so that the sum of the weights would equal the complete count for the group. For example, if the ratio for a group was 20.1, one-tenth of the persons (selected at random) within the group were assigned a weight of 21, and the remaining nine-tenths a weight of 20. The use of such a combination of integral weights rather than

² Estimates of characteristics from the sample for a given area are produced using the formula:

$$x' = \sum_{i=1}^{44} \frac{x_i}{Y_i} Y_i$$

where x' is the estimate of the characteristic for the area obtained through the use of the ratio estimation procedure, x_i is the count of sample persons with the characteristic for the area in one (i) of the 44 groups, Y_i is the count of all sample persons for the area in the same one of the 44 groups, and Y is the count of persons in the complete count for the area in the same one of the 44 groups.

a single fractional weight was adopted to avoid the complications involved in rounding in the final tables. (The weights for the 1-percent and the 4-percent samples were produced by inflating weights from the 5-percent sample by uniform factors of 5 and 1.25, respectively.) In order to increase the reliability, where there were fewer than 275 persons in the complete count in a group, or where the resulting 5-percent sample weight was over 80, groups were combined in a specific order to satisfy both of these two conditions.

These ratio estimates reduce the component of sampling error arising from the variation in the size of household and achieve some of the gains of stratification in the selection of the sample, with the strata being the groups for which separate ratio estimates are computed. The net effect is a reduction in the sampling error and bias of most statistics below what would be obtained by weighting the results of the 5-percent sample by a uniform factor of 20. The reduction in sampling error will be trivial for some items and substantial for others. A by-product of this estimation procedure, in general, is that estimates for the 5-percent sample are generally consistent with the complete count with respect to the total population and for the subdivisions used as groups in the estimation procedure. Since the 1-percent and 4-percent samples were not subjected to ratio estimation procedures, data based on these samples are not always consistent with the complete count. A more complete discussion of the technical aspects of these ratio estimates will be presented in another report.

SAMPLING VARIABILITY

The figures from the 5-percent sample tabulations are subject to sampling variability, which can be estimated roughly from the standard errors shown in tables C and D below. Table E gives factors to be used to adjust for the size of sample from which the data were tabulated.

For the purpose of estimating standard errors of estimated numbers, the data in this report are considered as comprising two types. Examples of data of type 1 are: The number of families in a class, the number of household heads in a class, the number of wives in a class, and the number of mothers of family head in a class. Such data describe family or household characteristics or population characteristics which generally involve no more than one person in a household. For data of this type, the standard errors may be read from the "Households and families" column of table C.

Examples of data of type 2 are: The number of persons in families in a given family income class, the number of members of husband-wife families, and the number of children in families with employed head. Such data generally involve more than one person in a household. For numbers of this type, rough approximations of the standard error can be obtained from the "Persons" column of table C. The figures in the "Persons" column will tend to understate the standard error of estimates of nonwhite persons. For a closer approximation of the standard error of estimates of nonwhite persons, multiply the standard errors in the "Persons" column of table C by 1.1.

These tables⁴ do not reflect the effect of response variance, processing variance, or bias arising in the collection, processing, and estimation steps. Estimates of the magnitude of some of these factors in the total error are being evaluated and will be published at a later date. The chances are about 2 out of 3 that the difference due to sampling variability between an estimate and the figure that would have been obtained from a complete count of the population is less than the standard error. The chances are about 19 out of 20 that the difference is less than twice the standard error and about 99 out of 100 that it is less than 2½ times the standard error. The amount by which the estimated standard error must be multiplied to obtain other odds deemed more appropriate can be found in most statistical textbooks.

Note: Tables C and D are applicable to data from the 5-percent population sample. To obtain standard errors for data from the 1-percent and 4-percent samples, see text.

Table C shows rough standard errors of estimated numbers up to 50,000. The relative sampling errors of larger estimated numbers are somewhat smaller than for 50,000. For estimated numbers above 50,000, however, the nonsampling errors, e.g., response errors and processing errors, may have an increasingly important effect on the total error. Table D shows rough standard errors of data in the form of percentages. Linear interpolation in tables C and D will provide approximate results that are satisfactory for most purposes.

For a discussion of the sampling variability of medians and means and of the method for obtaining standard errors of differences between two estimates, see 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, United States Summary.

Table E provides a factor by which the standard errors shown in tables C and D should be multiplied to adjust for the reduced sample size for data based on the 1-percent sample, the 4-percent sample, or a combination of these subsamples given in tables 17 and 18.

Illustrations: Table 8a shows that there are 8,542 nonwhite rural-farm family heads with 4 years of high school. Table C shows that the standard error of an estimate of 8,542 households is about 362. Table E shows that the standard errors in table C can be used without adjustment for size of sample to obtain the estimated standard errors for all data in table 8a. The 362 means that the chances are about 2 out of 3 that the results of a complete census would not differ by more than 362 from the estimated 8,542. It also follows that there is only about 1 chance in 100 that a complete census would differ by as much as 905, that is, by about 2½ times the standard error.

Similarly, table 8a also shows that there are 22,467 nonwhite rural-farm persons under 18 years old in families in which the head has completed 4 years of high school. Table C shows that the standard error of an estimate of 22,467 persons is about 1,225. Multiplication of this figure by 1.1, which is the adjustment factor for standard errors for numbers of nonwhite persons, yields an estimated standard error of 1,348.

Table 18 shows that, for the South, there were 38,858 female heads of households with 3 or more automobiles available. Since this is a characteristic of a head of a household, the standard error can be obtained directly from tables C and E. Table E shows that for data from table 18 the standard errors for the South should be multiplied by 2.0. Table C shows a standard error of about 685 for an estimate of 30,858; multiplication of this 685 by 2.0 yields an estimated standard error of about 1,370.
