GENERAL

This report presents detailed statistics for the United States on characteristics of persons 14 years old and over by age at first marriage. The statistics are based on the 1970 Census of Population. Legal provision for this census, which was conducted as of April 1, 1970, was made in the Act of Congress of August 31, 1954 (amended August 1957), which codified Title 13, United States Code.

A major portion of the information compiled from the 1970 Census of Population appears in Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, which focuses on the presentation of data for States, counties, places, and other areas of the United States. The present report is part of Volume II, Subject Reports, wherein most reports concentrate on the presentation of national and regional data for a particular subject. For a description of Volumes I and II, as well as other elements of the data dissemination program of the 1970 Population and Housing Census, see Appendix E, "Publication and Computer Summary Tape Program."

The content and procedures of the 1970 census were determined after evaluation of the results of the 1960 census, consultation with a wide variety of users of census data, and extensive field pretesting. A number of changes were introduced in 1970 to improve the usefulness of the census results. For the characteristics shown in this report, the changes do not, however, affect to any appreciable extent the comparability of the 1970 data with those for 1960.

More detailed information on the technical and procedural matters covered in the text of this report can be obtained by writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Such information will also appear in later reports of the 1970 census.

Organization of the text.—The text consists of this introduction and Appendixes A through E, which appear after the tables. The introduction contains information relating specifically to the principal subject of this report, such as definitions of terms and editing procedures. Appendix A provides general information concerning the presentation of data in this series of reports and the collection and processing procedures of the 1970 census. Appendix B describes the various area classifications (e.g., urban and rural residence, urbanized areas, etc.) and also explains the residence rules used in counting the population. Appendix C provides brief definitions and explanations of subjects covered in cross-classifications in this report and other reports in this series. Appendix D presents information on sources of error in the data, sampling variability, ratio estimation, and editing procedures. Appendix E summarizes the data dissemination program.

Content of the tables.—Tables 1 through 19 present data on characteristics of persons 14 years old and over by age at first marriage. Among the characteristics shown are age at census, year of first marriage, marital status, whether married more than once (with remarried persons classified as to whether widowed or divorced after first marriage), race, sex, ethnic origin, education, occupation, and income in 1969. In addition, tables 20 through 22 present average annual rates of first marriage per 1,000 single persons 14 to 79 years old in 1968 and 1969, by education, occupation, income in 1969, age, sex, and race.

Most of the statistics are shown for the United States and urbanized areas. In addition, several tables present data by type of residence and regions. Rates of first marriage by age are shown for States and the District of Columbia.

Sample size.—The statistics in this report are based on the 5-percent sample adjusted to represent the total population (see "Data Collection Procedures" in Appendix A). An explanation of the ratio estimation procedure and information on the sampling variability associated with the data are contained in Appendix D.

RELATED MATERIALS

1970 census reports.—Sample statistics on age at first marriage for persons 14 to 79 years old are presented for the United States in chapter D of Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, United States Summary. Similar data are shown in chapter D for each State and the District of Columbia.

In addition to the present report, statistics for the United States on age at first marriage for persons 35 to 44 years old, by sex, race, and whether known to have been widowed or divorced, are shown in Volume II, PC(2)-4C, Marital Status.

Reports from earlier censuses.—In the 1960 census reports, data on age at first marriage from a 5-percent sample, cross-classified by most of the characteristics shown in this report, were published in 1960 Census of Population, Volume II, PC(2)-4D, Age at First Marriage. Other subject reports from the 1960 census Volume II program containing data on age at first marriage include PC(2)-4A, Families; PC(2)-4E, Marital Status; and PC(2)-3A, Women by Number of Children Ever Born.

In the 1950 census reports, data on duration of marriage and on age at which current marital status was entered for women in selected age groups are shown in 1950 Census of Population, Volume IV, Part 2E, Duration of Current Marital Status, and in Volume IV, Part 5C, Fertility.

Current Population Survey.—Data on marital status, age at first marriage, married couples, and first marriage rates for the United States are collected regularly and published annually by the Bureau of the Census through its Current Population Survey (CPS). The CPS is a nationwide survey, covering a sample of about 50,000 households. These data are published in Current Population Reports, Series P-20. Occasional reports in this series present more detailed information pertaining to specialized aspects of marriage and related events. Data on the marital experiences of men and women in the United States in terms of number of years in previous marital status and frequency of marriage, divorce, and widowhood by age of birth cohort are presented in Series P-20, No. 223, "Social and Economic Variations in Marriage, Divorce, and Remarriage: 1967," and Series P-20, No. 239, "Marriage, Divorce, and Remarriage by Year of Birth: June 1971."

Unpublished data.—For most of the Volume II reports, statistics in addition to those published in the report are available on a reimbursable basis from computer tape files. Data shown for the United States as a whole are available for regions, divisions, and States, and, in a number of instances, the data for some characteristics were tabulated in greater detail than shown in the reports. Requests for unpublished data, giving a specific description of the figures desired, should be made in writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Inquiries concerning unpublished data should be transmitted to the Bureau as soon as possible since tape files are not maintained indefinitely.

DEFINITIONS AND EXPLANATIONS OF PRINCIPAL SUBJECTS

The definitions and explanations below relate only to the principal subjects of this report. Brief definitions of other items that appear in cross-classifications in the tables of this report are presented in Appendix C.

Marital Status

The data on marital status were derived from answers to question 8 (see facsimile of questionnaire item following).

This question was asked of all persons. The marital status classification refers to the status at the time

8. WHAT IS EACH PERSON'S MARITAL STATUS?

Fill one circle

- Now married
- Widowed

- Separated
- Never married

of enumeration. Persons classified as "married" consist of those who have been married only once and those who remarried after having been widowed or divorced. Persons reported as separated (either legally separated or otherwise absent from their spouse because of marital discord) are classified as a subcategory of married persons. Persons in common-law marriages are classified as married, and persons whose only marriage had been annulled are classified as never married. All persons classified as never married are shown as "single" in this report. Differences between the number of married males and the number of married females arise from the fact that some husbands and wives have their usual residences in different areas, and, to a lesser extent, from the different sample weights applied to them.

Married persons with "spouse present" are men or women whose wife or husband was enumerated as a member of the same household even though he or she may have been temporarily absent on business or vacation, visiting, in a hospital, etc., at the time of enumeration. The small number of persons living with their spouse in group quarters are classified as married, spouse absent; if a married person in group quarters was in the sample, his spouse was unlikely to be in the sample, because in group quarters the sample consisted of every fifth person in order of enumeration.

By definition, the number of married men, spouse present, shown in this report should be identical with the number of married women, spouse present. However, the two figures may not be exactly the same because, in the weighting of the sample, husbands and their wives were sometimes given different weights.

Married persons with "spouse absent—other" comprise married persons employed and living away from their homes, those whose spouse was absent in the Armed Forces, inmigrants whose spouse remained in other areas, husbands or wives of inmates of institutions, married persons (other than separated) who were living in group quarters, and all other married persons whose place of residence was not the same as that of their spouse.

Marital History

The data on marital history were derived from answers to question 24 (see facsimile of questionnaire item below).

Information on whether married more than once was obtained in 1910 and in each census since 1940. Information on age at first marriage has been obtained in each census since 1940. In 1970, the question on how the first marriage ended was included for the first time in a decennial census. For all persons in the 5-percent sample reported as married (including separated), widowed, or divorced at the time of the enumeration, data were obtained on the date of the first marriage. From this information and from current age, data on age at first marriage were derived. For each person who had been married more than once, information was obtained on the reason for termination of the first marriage.

In the 1910 census, a question was asked on years in present marriage. This item, together with age at census, made possible the derivation of age at present marriage and date of present marriage. In the 1940 census, age at first marriage was asked and was used to derive years since first marriage and date of first marriage. In the 1950 census, years in present marital status was asked, and age at first marriage, age at remarriage, and age at widowhood or divorce were derived. In the 1960 census, date of first marriage was asked, and age at first marriage and years since first marriage were derived.

Years since first marriage.—The number of years since first marriage for persons ever married was derived by subtracting the person's date of first marriage (see question 24) from April 1, 1970, and represents the number of completed years since first marriage.

Age at first marriage.—In this report, as in the corresponding 1960 census report, age at first marriage is shown in completed years for all persons ever married. In deriving age at first marriage, the year and quarter of the person's birth was subtracted from the year and quarter of the person's first marriage. If the result of this subtraction included a fraction (e.g., age at first marriage 21 1/4, 21 2/4, or 21 3/4) the fraction was dropped, so as to express the result in completed years of age at first marriage.

Rate of first marriage.—Average annual first marriages per 1,000 single persons 14 to 79 years old are shown, by age, in tables 20 through 22. The numerator of this rate is the average annual number of persons who first married at a given age in 1968 and 1969. The denominator is the average annual number of persons who were of that age and single in July 1, 1968, and 1969. This figure was obtained by averaging the number of persons who were of the given age and single on July 1, 1968, with the corresponding number for July 1, 1969. The number of single persons on July 1, 1968, is the sum of (1) persons who were single at the census date, and (2) persons ever married at the census date who first married after July 1, 1968. The number of single persons on July 1, 1969, is defined in corresponding fashion, except with reference to July 1, 1969, instead of 1968. Persons who were 14 to 79 years old and single on both dates were counted twice—once in the column for their age on July 1, 1968, and once in the column for their age on July 1, 1969. In addition to the rate of first marriage, both the numerator and the denominator of the rate are shown in tables 20 through 22.

Uses and Limitations of the Data

The statistics in this report make possible the study of the relationships between age at first marriage, on one hand, and marital stability, remarriage, and a variety of social characteristics, on the other. Furthermore, the data provide an opportunity for study of trends in age at first marriage for the entire population and various ethnic and racial groups. Detail by single years of first marriage and single years of age at first marriage makes possible the analysis of the effects of historical events on number and age distribution of first marriages. In addition, the data give information on geographic variations in age at first marriage.

In using the data in this report, it should be kept in mind that, in general, they refer to the characteristics of the population at the time of the enumeration. Thus, the data on residence, race, marital status, educational attainment, and occupation refer to these characteristics as of 1970, and the data on income refer to income in 1969. Among these characteristics, race is fixed, and education does not change for most persons after age 25. However, residence, occupation, and income are changeable; consequently, the person's status with respect to these characteristics may differ from his status at the time of his first marriage, especially if he was married many years before the census. These differences in the time reference of the characteristics should be taken into account in interpreting the data.

The data shown in tables 3 and 4 for the survivors enumerated in 1970 of marriage cohorts married many years ago are not strictly representative of the age-at-marriage distribution of the original membership of the cohort. Because of the effect of higher mortality among older persons, those members of the cohort who were older at marriage are subject to higher mortality rates and are less likely to have survived than those who were younger at the time of marriage. After a number of years, the changes in the cohort become so large that the survivors are no longer representative of the original cohort. With the aid of life tables for the years between marriage and the enumeration date, the data for survivors can be supplemented by estimates of the persons who died between the date of marriage and the census date.

Comparability With Other Data

Earlier censuses.—Because of differences in the method of obtaining information on age at first marriage, statistics on this subject which were published in the 1940 and 1950 censuses are not entirely comparable with statistics shown in the 1960 and 1970 reports. In the 1940 census, data on age at first marriage for women 15 to 74 years old were obtained from answers to a question specifically asking the respondent's age at first marriage. In the 1950 census, information for women married once with husband present was obtained from answers to the following question: "How many years since this person was married?" Age at first marriage was derived by subtracting the number of completed years since first marriage from the woman's age in completed years. In the 1960 and 1970 censuses, age at first marriage for all persons ever married was derived from answers to questions on birth data and date of first marriage.

Current Population Survey.—The data on age at first marriage in the census differs somewhat from that in the Current Population Survey (CPS). In the CPS for March 1968, 1969, and 1970, a single question was asked about age at first marriage, without an accompanying question like that in the 1970 census, about whether the person had been married more than once. In addition, the CPS excludes persons living in military barracks and has a higher level of sampling error for areas or groups of comparable size than the decennial census.

Vital statistics.—Information on age at first marriage from annual marriage records was not available for comparison with that from the 1970 census. However, a comparison of data from the two sources presented in the 1960 report shows generally close agreement but with somewhat more persons reported as entering first marriage in their early twenties according to information reported on vital statistics records than in the census.
