GENERAL

This report presents statistics on the social and economic characteristics of the civilian population of the United States living abroad on April 1, 1970. All the data were collected on a 100-percent basis. "Living abroad" is defined as residing outside the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the outlying areas of United States sovereignty or jurisdiction. This population includes Federal civilian employees, dependents of all Federal employees, crews of merchant vessels, and other United States citizens living abroad. Americans temporarily abroad on vacations, business trips, etc., are excluded. The Americans included in the present report are not included in the resident population of the United States, and, except in a few special cases, they are not included in the tables of other reports of the 1970 census.

The statistics in this report do not include members of the Armed Forces abroad. However, about one million members of the Armed Forces living abroad were enumerated in the 1970 census. Data for the Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps personnel stationed abroad were provided by the Department of Defense, rather than by enumeration on census forms. U.S. Navy and Coast Guard, as well as American Merchant Marine personnel, were enumerated on the Military and Maritime Personnel Form D-21. Age and sex distributions for all Armed Forces abroad are shown in table 49 of Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, "United States Summary."

A major portion of the information compiled from the 1970 Census of Population appears in Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, which focuses on the presentation of data for States, counties, places, and other areas of the United States. The present report is part of Volume II, Subject Reports, wherein most reports concentrate on the presentation of national and regional data for a particular subject. A list of Volume II subject reports from the 1970 census is presented on page II. For a description of Volumes I and II, as well as other elements of the data dissemination program of the 1970 Population and Housing Census, see Appendix D, "Publication and Computer Summary Tape Program."

The content and procedures of the 1970 census were determined after evaluation of the results of the 1960 census, consultation with a wide variety of users of census data, and extensive field pretesting. A number of changes were introduced in 1970 to improve the usefulness of the census results. For the characteristics shown in this report, the changes do not, however, affect to any appreciable extent the comparability of the 1970 data with those for 1960.

More detailed information on the technical and procedural matters covered in the text of this report can be obtained by writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Such information will also appear in later reports of the 1970 census.

Organization of the text.—The text consists of this introduction and Appendixes A through D, which appear after the tables. The introduction contains information relating specifically to the principal subjects of this report, such as definitions of terms. Appendix A provides general information concerning the presentation of data in this series of reports and the collection and processing procedures relating to the 1970 count of the overseas population. Appendix B provides brief definitions and explanations of subjects covered in cross-classifications in this report. Appendix C presents information on sources of error in the data and on editing and allocation procedures. Appendix D summarizes the data dissemination program.

Content of the tables.—Tables 1 through 5 present data for the civilian population of the United States living abroad by group, i.e., Federal civilian employees, dependents of Federal employees, crews of merchant vessels, and "other citizens." Tables 6 through 12 contain data on characteristics such as age, family composition, marital status, school enrollment, and occupation for Federal civilian employees by major area and country of residence.

Similar data are shown in tables 13 through 16 for dependents of members of the Armed Forces, in tables 17 through 20 for dependents of Federal civilian employees, and in tables 21 through 30 for "other citizens."

RELATED MATERIALS

1970 census reports.—Statistics on Americans residing abroad are published in chapters A and B of the 1970 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, "United States Summary." Population totals by overseas group are presented in table 1 in chapter A. Age and sex distributions are shown in table 49 in chapter B. Chapters A and B were originally published as paperbound reports in Series PC(1)-A, Number of Inhabitants, and Series PC(1)-B, General Population Characteristics, respectively.

Reports from earlier censuses.—Information for 1960 on Americans residing abroad were published in the 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, tables 43, 45, 48, and 67. Data on age, sex, color, marital status, and nativity are presented in these tables. Statistics on the social and economic characteristics are presented in the 1960 Census of Population, Volume III, PC(3)-1C, Americans Overseas. In the 1950 census, data are available from the 1950 Census of Population, Volume II, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, "United States Summary."

Unpublished data.—For most Volume II reports, statistics in addition to those published in the report are available on a reimbursable basis from computer tape files. Data shown for selected countries of residence are available for other countries, and, in a number of instances, the data for some characteristics can be obtained in greater detail than shown in the report. Requests for unpublished data, giving a specific description of the figures desired, should be made in writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Inquiries concerning unpublished data should be transmitted to the Bureau as soon as possible since tape files are not maintained indefinitely.

POPULATION LIVING ABROAD

Persons included in the population of the United States living abroad are those civilians who returned an Overseas Census Report (Form D-23, see Appendix B) or, for crews of vessels, a Report for Military and Maritime Personnel (Form D-21, see Appendix B), provided they reported themselves as United States citizens or reported a previous State of residence in the United States. In addition, the spouse and children of such persons were included regardless of citizenship or previous residence.

Federal civilian employees.—This category includes those persons who reported that they were currently working for an agency of the United States Government.

Dependents of Federal employees. — Included in this category are spouses, children, and other relatives in the household of a Federal employee (including members of the Armed Forces). For members of the Armed Forces not living with the family but on post or aboard ship, the spouse and other members of the family are classified as dependents. These dependents were identified during the code-edit operation on the basis of information requested on Form D-23.

This category, "dependents of Federal employees," excludes spouses, children, or other relatives who were Federal employees.

Crews of merchant vessels.—Civilian officers and crewmen on vessels of American registry at sea and with a foreign port as their destination or in a foreign port on April 1, 1970, are included in this category. Since information on the exact location of many of these vessels was not collected, persons aboard vessels are not distributed by country of residence. Moreover, since the persons were enumerated on the Report for Military and Maritime Personnel (D-21), not all the information collected for the other segments of the population abroad was available for this group.

"Other citizens."—This segment of the population abroad includes all persons not identified as belonging to any one of the other groups of overseas population. Included in this group are such persons as private businessmen, employees of foreign governments or international organizations, retired persons, missionaries and religious workers, students, and their family members.

MAJOR AREAS OF RESIDENCE ABROAD

Geographic detail on residence is provided in this report for Federal civilian employees, dependents of Federal employees, and "other citizens." Crews of merchant vessels are classified as "at sea"; therefore, no such detail is provided for this group.

The seven major geographic areas that are shown exclude by definition the United States, Puerto Rico, and outlying areas of United States sovereignty or jurisdiction. The major areas are Africa, America, Canada, Mexico, Asia, Europe and U.S.S.R., and all other.

For the specified overseas groups, data also are shown separately for countries with 500 or more persons in the following categories: (a) Federal civilian employees and their dependents, or (b) dependents of Armed Forces, or (c) "other citizens." Statistics are presented for Southern Africa and Vietnam, countries with fewer than 500 dependents of Armed Forces. Although more than 500 dependents of Federal civilian employees and dependents of Armed Forces were enumerated in China, data are not shown separately for China. The detailed list of foreign countries used in the 1970 census is shown in Appendix B.

USES AND LIMITATIONS OF THE DATA

The information presented in this report provides an indication of the size and the social and economic characteristics of the United States population living abroad, as it relates to the staffing of international programs conducted by the United States Government, on the one hand, and, on the other, as it relates to the activities of private citizens and organizations in the areas of business, religious organizations, and educational activities.

Since the enumeration of "other citizens" was conducted on a voluntary basis, the count of this segment of the American population living abroad is not complete. Persons living in remote areas may not have been aware that the census was being taken, or, if aware, may not have had access to the questionnaire, and some persons through indifference or by design may have failed to obtain and fill out a questionnaire. The understatement may differ substantially from one category of persons living abroad to another and from one area to another.

TABLE I. United States Population Living Abroad: 1950-1970

COMPARABILITY WITH OTHER DATA

Selected groups of Americans living abroad have been counted in decennial censuses since 1900. Because of the increased number of Americans overseas, the 1960 enumeration was extended to cover all types of Americans residing abroad, particularly those designated here as "other citizens" (see table I). Furthermore, the content of the questionnaire was expanded in order to obtain additional information on the demographic, social, and economic characteristics of Americans abroad.
